LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY.

at P a surrier.

The footiains mingle with the river, And the rivers with the obean.

The winds of heaven mix for ever With a sweet amotion;

Nothing in the world is single;

All things by a law divine I a one another's being mingle—

Why not I with thine?

See the mountains kins high heaven, And the waves clasp one another;
No sister flower would be forgiven
If it disdain'd its brother;
And the sunlight class like earth,
And the monoteams kins the sea;
What are all these kissings worth,
If thou kins not me?

THE DEAD WIFE. In comparison with the loss of a wife, all other earthly bereavements are trifling. The wife! she who fills so large a space in the domestic heaven—she who is so busied so unwearied in laboring for the precious ones around her—bitter bitter is the tear ones around her—bitter bitter is the tear that falls on her cold clay! You stand beside her colfin and think of the past. It seems an amber-colored pathway, where the sun shone upon beautiful flowers, or the stars hung glittering over-head. Fain would the soul linger there. No thorns are remembered above that sweet clay, save these county hand may unwittingly have planthose your hand may unwittingly have plan-ted. Her noble, tender heart lies open to your inmost sight. You think of her now as all gen leness, all beauty and purity. But she is dead! The dear head that laid upon your bosom, rests in the still darkness. upon a pillow of clay. The hands that have ministered so untiringly, are folded, white and cold, beneath the gloomy portals. The heart, whose every beat measured an eternity of love, lies under your feet. The flowers she bent over with smiles, now bend above her with tears, shaking the dew form may be kept green and beautiful.

Many a husband may read this in the silence of a broken home. There is no white arm over your shoulder; no speaking face to look up into the eye of love; no trem-bling lips to murmur, "O, it is so sad." The little one whose nest death has rifltheir petals, that the verdure around her ed, gazes in wonder at your solemn face, puts up his tiny hand to stay the tears, and then nestles back to its father's breast, half conscious that the wing that sheltered it most fondly is broken.

There is so strange a hush in every room! no light footstep passing round. No smile to greet you at nightfall. And the old clock ticks and strikes, and strikes and ticks—it was such music when she could bear it Now it seems to knell only the hours through which you watched the shadows of death gathering upon her sweet face.

It strikes one—the fatal time when the death-warrant rang out, "There is no hope!" Two she lies placidly still—somehope!" Two she lies placidly still—sometimes smiling faintly, sometimes grieving a little, for she is young to tread the valley of the shadow. Three! The babe has been brought in, its little face laid on her bosom for the last time. Four! Her breath comes fainter, but a heavenly joy irradiates her brow. Five! There is a slight change—O, that she might live!—Father, spare her! "Thy will be done."

It was her soft broken accepts. Very

It was her soft, broken accents. Yes, heavenly Friend, who gavest her to bless me—Thy will be done!

Six! There are footsteps near—weeping friends around. She bids them farewell as she murmurs, "Meet me in heaven!" The damp drops gather upon her pallid features at theseventh hour. She lies very still---sometimes she hears sweet mu Eight! passing away so gently. But her hand still clings to yours, and so she lies while that old house-clock tolls forth nine -ten-eleven-twelve-solemn strokes. You spring to your feet. The lips are still ---cold to your lips. The nand has latten back; its touch grown icy. She is gone. She will never speak to you again on earth. ---You must bear that cold gaze that love so lately kindled—and you fall weeping by

And every day the clock repeats that old story. Many another tale it telleth too---of joys past, of sorrows shared, of beautiful words and deeds that are registered above You feel—O, how often—that the grave cannot keep her. You know that she is in cannot keep her. You know that she is in a happier world, yet that sometimes she is by your side, an angle presence. You look at your innocent babe, and think that a seraph is guarding it. Cherish these emotions; they will make you happier. Let her holy presence be as a charm to keep you from evil. In all new and pleasant connections, give her spirit a place in your heart. Never forget what she has been to youthat she has loved you. Be tender of her memory—so may you meet her with soul memory—so may you meet her with soul unstained—a bright and beautiful spirit bride where no one shall say any more for ever, "She is dead."—Olive Branch.

DETERMINATION OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. John Lloyd, of Erw wen, near Harleth, Merionethabire.

To Professor Hollowax, Sin,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that, for a very long period, I was afflicted with a dangerous giddiness and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had failed to give me any permanent relief, and at length it became so alarming, that I was really straid of going about without an attendant. In this melnacholy condition, I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harlech, for the purpose of consulting him as to what I had better do; he kindly recommended your Pille, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to bear testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am h.w restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my- swail duties. You are at liberty to publish this letter in any way you filey think proper.

Extract of a Letter from Edward Rowley, Esq., of India Walk, Tobago, dated April 8th, 1852.

To Professor Holloway,

DEAR SIR—I deem it a duty I owe to you and the public at large to inform you of a most miraculous recovery from that dreadful disease, Dropsy, and which, under God, was effected by your invaluable Pills. I was tapped five times within eight months, and skilfully treated by two medical practitioners, but could not get cared, until I had recourse to your remedy, and notwithstabiling all I had undergone, this miraculous medicine cured me in the course of six weeks. Extract of a Letter from S. Gowen, Chemist, of Cifton, Near Bristol, dated July 14th, 1852.

To Professor Holloway,
DEAR SIR—I am requested by a Leby named Thomas, just arrived from the West Indies, to acquaint yeu, that, for a period of eight years havelf and family suffered from continual bad health, arising from disorders of the Liver and Stomach, Indigesties, loss of Appetite, violent Head-aches, pains in the side weakness and general debility, for which she complied the most eminent men in the colony, but without any beneficial result; at last, she had recourse to year invaluable Pills, which in a very short time effected so great a change for the better, that she continued them, and the whole family were restored to health and strength. Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarlatina, having effected positive cures of these disenses with no other remedy.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bottock, Druggist, of Ashon under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,
DEAN SIR—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well acquainted, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smells of phint, and the effects of a steoping position, which he was obliged to assume in his business. The spasme were of an alarming character, and frequently left him in a weak and debilitated coudition. At length the heard of the salutary effects of your invaluable Pills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleaning the liver and atomach, and strengthening the digestive organs, that he has been restored to the enjoyment of good health.

I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully, (Signed) WHLIAM BOSTOCK.
