We have had experience in fitting eyes with Glasses for more than a quarter of a century back, and have been studying and learning more about eyes every single week during that long period.

At any time when you have need of Glasses we believe it will be to your interest to place the matter in our hands.

Organized Effort and its Power.

At the monthly meeting of St. Andrew's League of the Sacred Heart, held in the Cathedral, Glasgow, Rev. F. McCarthy touched upon the subject of organization in the ranks of the faithful in many of its phases. He pointed out that although the world had been said to have advanced it was not because men were more intelligent individually, because they were not, and as an instance to prove this he pointed out that in war we had no strategists to compare to Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar or Napoleon; nor in literature had we a Chaucer, Shakespeare, or a Milton. What the world advanced in was the power of organization. Organization was employed in nearly all affairs of this life. It was employed in politics and in work and the more thorough the organization the greater the chance of success. Indeed, to such a fine point had it been carried that it was next to impossible to do anything without it. If that was so with the affairs of the world, how much more important was it in spiritual affairs? He would not say that it was impossible to save the soul by individual effort, but by joining a religious organization such as that they made the task more easy. They created a religious atmosphere around them, and raised the tone of public opinion.

Now public opinion had a restraining influence on many. Unhappily in this country it did not make for religion, but rather the reverse, as people, about them did not care whether or not they went to Mass on Sunday. They could go or not, just as they felt inclined, and thus some of them got into careless habits. In Ireland it was different. There a man could not absent himself from Mass without incurring the disapprobation of his neighbors, and if for no other reason he went rather than run counter to public opinion. In the same way a member of that society had made a religious atmosphere for himself, which acted as a deterrent against carelessness. If he absent himself from the monthly meetings of the society or the monthly Communions, the Guild Warden knew and would notify him of the fact. He knew that the other members would have missed him also, and this knowledge could not but influence him.

Another thing the members were by their example carrying out an apostolic mission. They were raising the tone of public opinion in this country, and he could tell them it was none too high. A man who prevented another from committing an offence against God gained more merit in His sight than if he spent a lifetime praying, and Father McCarthy gave some cogent examples in support of this point of his discourse.

Notes from Scotland.

(Montreal True Witness)

A NEW CHURCH.—The cornerstone of a new Church was laid at Stirling recently. Representatives of the clergy from the various dioceses and about 2,000 of the laity were present. The edifice, which is estimated to cost about $50,000, the "Catholic Times" says, is the gift of Lady Murray, late of Polmaise House, Bannockburn, and now of London.

A MISSION, under the direction of the Redemptorist Fathers, held in the Cathedral, Edinburgh, recently, attracted what is described by a correspondent as record congregations.

ITALIANS.—In Edinburgh, as in Montreal, and elsewhere, the sons of Italy are to be found in large numbers. An exchange thus describes a recent social gathering held in Edinburgh: In their brightest and gayest costumes the sons and daughters and little children of sunny Italy assembled last Wednesday night in large numbers in the Grindley street Hall to enjoy their annual tea-party, concert and dance. The happy gathering which brought together four hundred Italians, was held under the auspices of the Sacred Heart parish, where the Rev. Father Ghezzi, S.J., an able and energetic Italian clergyman, takes such a deep interest in his fellow-countrymen and women in the Scottish capital. The scene at the tea-table was certainly one of the most picturesque sights ever witnessed at a social reunion in Edinburgh. The gentlemen sat at tables excellently arranged at one side of the hall, the ladies at tables on the other side, while the little children formed a charming circle round the grown up people. The well-beated condition of the festive chamber, the brilliancy of the Venetian decorations the blaze of Catholic and national glory surrounding the Papal and Italian flag, conveyed to the mind the vivid impression as people entered the hall that they had suddenly slipped out of bleak Scotland and into the bright gay warmth of sunny Italy, and had settled down in the midst of a jolly banqueting company of merry-makers. This delightful delusion, with the tea over and the tables from the floor cleared, became more and more pronounced when the dancing began what dancing!

One never saw or heard the like of it in Scotland before, especially the "Tarantella" dance, which proved a wild treat for Scottish eyes and ears. The object is to prove a wild treat for Scottish eyes and ears. The object is to prove a wild treat for Scottish eyes and ears.

CHRISTIAN WORK.—"Home Improvement" is the name of a charitable undertaking begun some years ago by Rev. Father Egger, S. J., in Glasgow. The object is to improve the homes of the poor and much good has been achieved. Catholic women of leading positions are associated with the work, and visit the homes of their less-favored co-religionists in the endeavor to make them more cheerful and comfortable.

Vatican and France.

According to press cablegrams from Rome under date of May 25 the "Osservatore Romano," the Vatican organ, publishes an official statement reviewing the relations existing between Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, and M. Nisard, French Ambassador to the Vatican, immediately before the recall of the latter as the result of the Papal protest against the visit of President Loubet to Rome.

Friday, May 20, according to the paper, M. Nisard visited Cardinal Merry del Val and told him he had been instructed by Foreign Minister Delcasse to enquire as to the authenticity of the text of the note to the Catholic powers as published in "L'Humanite," of Paris, which varied from that directed to the French Government, and to ask especially if the phrase regarding the recall of the Nuncio, which was omitted from the note addressed to France, really occurred in that sent to the other powers.

The Cardinal said he would reply immediately if the Ambassador's interrogations were put in writing.

M. Nisard pointed out that there was no time to do this, and the Cardinal then said he would give an answer within an hour, or even within half an hour. M. Nisard, however, insisted on an immediate reply, and pleaded that the Cardinal should answer "yes" or "no."

The latter said that he was sorry that he was unable to comply with the Ambassador's demands, and M. Nisard then said he would have to draw the conclusion that Cardinal Merry del Val did not recognize the authenticity of the note as published.

The Cardinal retorted that he had not said anything of the kind, to which M. Nisard replied:

"Then I shall telegraph Minister Delcasse that you decline to answer."

To this the Cardinal replied that, on the contrary, he had promised a written answer within an hour.

M. Nisard then withdrew, saying that he would write. Two hours later Cardinal Merry del Val, not receiving word from the Ambassador, sent a communication to the embassy, saying that he was at M. Nisard's disposal and prepared to give an answer, but no reply to the communication was received.

On Saturday morning M. Nisard again visited the Secretary of State, and informed him that the insistence upon a written form of his questions had been interpreted as a desire to elude the subject, and that therefore he had been instructed to leave Rome on vacation.

The "Osservatore Romano" concludes:

First. That Cardinal Merry del Val not having given an answer, the recall of the Ambassador was not justified.

Second. That the answer, which the Cardinal would have given within an hour, would have been exhaustive and thoroughly satisfactory.

Third. That the request of M. Nisard to be informed as to the contents of the notes sent to the other Catholic States was absolutely contrary to diplomatic usage, and that there was no rule which obliged the Papal Government to send a collective note.

THE PROTEST.

The following is published by the daily press as a translation of the full text of the note addressed by the Vatican to the Catholic powers:

28th of April 1904.

The coming to Rome of M. Loubet, President of the French Republic, to pay an official visit to Victor Emmanuel III, was an event of such exceptional gravity that the Holy See cannot allow it to pass without calling to it the most serious attention of the government your Excellency represents. It is scarcely necessary to point out that it is incumbent on the chiefs of Catholic States, bound as such by special bonds to the Supreme Pastor of the Church, to show him greater regard than the sovereigns of non-Catholic States in so far as his dignity, independence and inalienable rights are concerned.

The duty hitherto recognized and observed by all, in spite of the gravest political reasons, alliances or relationships, was all the more incumbent on the Chief Magistrate of the French Republic, who, without having any of those special motives, presides over a nation united by the closest traditional relations with the Roman Pontificate, and enjoys, in virtue of a bilateral compact with the Holy See, signal privileges, a large representation in the Sacred College of Cardinals, and, consequently, the government of the universal Church, and also exercises by signal favor protection over Roman Catholic interests in the East.

Therefore, if, by coming to do honor in Rome—that is to say, in the very seat of the Pontificate, and in the apostolic Palace itself—to him who, in defiance of all right, usurps the civil sovereignty and restricts the necessary liberty and independence of the Holy See, the chief of any Catholic nation commits a grave offence against the Sovereign Pontiff, the offense committed by M. Loubet was graver still. The fact that nevertheless the Papal Nuncio has remained in Paris is due solely to very urgent motives of a special order and nature.

The declaration made by M. Delcasse to the French Parliament to the effect that this visit implied no hostile intention toward the Holy See cannot alter either its character or its meaning, for the offense is in the act itself, and the more so because the Holy See had not neglected to warn the French Government against its Public Opinion, both in France and in Italy, did not fail to perceive the offensive character of that visit, intentionally sought by the Italian Government with the object of weakening the rights of the Holy See, the dignity of which was insulted.

The Holy See regards it as its chief duty to protect and defend its rights and dignity in the interest of the Catholics of the whole world. In order that a painful fact should not constitute a precedent, the Holy See has found itself obliged to protest against it in the strongest and most explicit manner, and the undersigned Cardinal Secretary of State, by order of his Holiness informs your Excellency of it, requesting you to bring the contents of the present note to the knowledge of the Government of—

CARDINAL MERRY DEL VAL.

Items of Interest.

The Catholic Universe has the following: "The best patriotism is not the blindest. It is in spite of its short-comings, not because of them, that our country is great. I can not close my eyes to the dark spots in our country's history," said Cardinal Gibbons at Bishop Phelan's golden jubilee, "but I say that when these dark spots are weighed in the balance against the bright things, we have the strongest and noblest country on the face of the earth today."

"Why is the brutal practice of hazing allowed in colleges?" asks the New York Freeman's Journal. "The college authorities, of course, could stop it. Why don't they? And what are the reasons? Certainly not gentlemen, though some think education makes men gentlemen, and presumably the hazzers have a tolerably fair share of it. If hazing were, as it ought to be, punished by expulsion or a term in jail it would quickly end."

"One of the most serious things in the history of Catholic journalism in the United States," says the Catholic Advance, of Wichita Kansas, "is the weekly letter of Dr. Starbuck, a Protestant minister, in the columns of the Sacred Heart Review published in Boston, one of the most interesting and instructive of the Catholic papers that reaches this office. For several years, every week, this minister has been knocking down, with splendid logic, the slanders that have been hurled against the Catholic Church even by his own people. The fact is evident but we can not explain it."

"When Catholics go to the country for a summer vacation," remarks the Catholic News, "it is important that they should select a place near a church, where they may enjoy facilities for the practice of their religion. From the law of God and of the Church there is no vacation. Too often, it is to be feared, people who have not borne in mind this important rule return from their outing, strengthened perhaps in body and refreshed in mind, but with the religious spirit greatly weakened and the conscience soiled with many faults. A such a price the pleasure and benefit of their vacation are too dearly bought."
