FRANK BRUCE'S ARREST.

Letters Show Him to be a Kind of Lothario. Loving Wife's Episiles—Engaged to Another Woman — Arrested by Grand Trunk Authorities—

Queer Actions.

Queer actions.

The police have a mystery to unrayel in the person of Frank Bruce, arreated at 2 o'clock a.m. yesterday by G. T. R. Detective Logan, and charged with stealing baggage checks from the company. Mr. Logan has been looking for Bruce for some time—at least, he has wanted to find a man called Ed Rankin since last Friday, when a person by that name reported to the G. T. R. station agent at Bothwell that he had found an obstruction on the track and had removed it. He stated that it consisted of three reliroad ties, and that they had been placed on the track a mile and a quarter east of Thameaville. The agent notified the authorities at London, and Mr. Logan was set to work on the case. Kankin said that he would come up to London on Friday afternoon and tell what he knew about it. He did not show up, and on Saturday Mr. Logan went after him. Since then he has found that Frank Bruce, Ed. Rankin and Frank N. Watson are one and the same person, and that he has been carrying on a game of duplicity that might have landed him behind prison bars on the more serious crime of bigamy.

When Rankin reported that he had found and removed an obstruction near Thamesville, trackmen were immediately sent out, but could not find any trace of it, although they examined the place carefully. This, coupled with the fact that he had some suspicion, and Mr. Logan went after Rankin. At Thamesville he found that Rankin had shipped his baggage to Paris, and Mr. Logan continued his scarch around the locality in which he had first cropped up. He went to Chatham first cropped up.

search around the locality in which he had first cropped up. He went to Chatham and from there to the Rankin settlement at Dover Center, eleven miles northwest of Chatham. Here he found that no person such as described was known as Rankin in that locality, but that the description tallied exactly with that of Frank Bruce, who had been living in Dover Center for six or eight weeks and had made such a good impression on the inhabitants that he became engaged to marry a young woman in that place and the wedding was to occur in May. search around the locality in which he had that place and the wedding was to occur in May.

Mr. Logan returned from Dover, Center and early yesterday morning arrested Bruce, or Rankin, or Watson, at the G. T. K. station.

From letters found on him it is made evident that he has been leading a double life for some time. There are a couple from his wife living in Rothsay, Ont, addressed to Frank N. Watson, Parkhill. They teem to Frank N. Watson, Parkhill. They teem with loving advice and Christian counsel. She implored him to come home from Parkhill and live with her. She was very lonely, and wondered how he could live away and stay away so long. She prayed that he would shun evil companions, as he had promised her he would, and after again asking him to come home she sent her love and kisses, and concluded with a verse of the hymn—Shun evil companions, bad language disdain.

The Rothsay woman, who claims to be CUNARD LINE

The Rothsay woman, who claims to be Watson's wife wrote another and very similar letter shortly afterwards. She was similar letter shortly atterwards. She was very miserable and again implored him to come home and live with her. She told many little incidents of home life in the quiet country village, and in a postscript said "Be sure and read your Bible every day."

Another letter was written from Dover he was going by.

Another letter was written from Dover Center to his parents in Alburton, Ont. In it he told of his engagement to a Dover Center woman, and said that the wedding would take place in May. He also asked them to send $25 at once. The letter was dated Nov. 2, but had never been posted.

From this it would seem that Bruce's parents knew nothing of his marriage in Rothsay. In Dover Center Bruce displayed a roll of bills, and passed himself off as a monied man, while he was at the same time writing home for money. Detective Logan has found his roll of bills to consist of a wad of paper with a bill on the outside. At the Police Court yesterday Bruce wept like a child and protested his innocence, stating that he carried a Bible in his pocket. He was remanded until Friday. The couple of checks found on the man are numbered 10597.
