CANADIAN GOLD COIN. Suggestion That Gold Pieces Should Be Called Beavers-Narraway Henry H., B.A., University

An advocate of a distinct coinage for Canada suggests that we mint three gold coins, one to be called the Royal Beaver; the other a Beaver, and the third a Half Beaver. This idea seems to be borrowed from the Eagle of the United States. But the Bagle is not popular, and Beaver or no Beaver, Canadians would still count by the dollar.—Toronto Mail.

The idea would have a decrea historical.

A committee meeting of the British Columbia Branch of the Navy League was held last night, and among those present were Sir Henry Crease, the present of the branch, and the Hon. Mr. Justice Martin, one of the vice-presidents.

Amongst other business the honorary vor or no Beaver, Canadians would still Justice Martin, one of the vice-presidents.

The idea would have a deeper historical significance. In the early days of the Hudson Bay trading with the Indians the beaver pelt was the standard of value. When an Indian hunter turned over his furs to the trader he received so many small bits of wood, the purchasing value of each being that of a beaver pelt. When he began to shop the price of each article was so many "beavers." A blanket was so many "beavers." A blanket was so many "beavers." So many pounds of powder were exchanged for a "beaver," and the brave doled out his wooden coinage until he was strapped and then fook for the vice-presidents.

Amongst other business the honorary secretary reported that a communication had been sent from the Navy League in London to the Premier of the Dominion, requesting Canada's assistance in naval affairs, and that this branch had sent a letter to him supporting that matter, and had received a favorable reply.

The naval reserve committee reported having met, and asked for an extension of time in which to make a full report, pending replies from Rear-Admiral Sir Gerald Noel, admiral superintendent of for a "beaver," and the brawe ander our his wooden coinage until he was strapped and then took to the woods to replenish his wealth. In view of this ancient pre-cedent, the coinage of golden "beavers" would not be inappropriate. Ottawa

ROMANCE OF A PRISON. Husband and Wife Reconciled After Twenty Years.

Last week there was discharged from the prison of Wallachisch-Meseritsch, Austria, a peasant woman, Marie D—, after serving twenty out of a sentence of twenty-five years for attempted murder. In 1881 Marie D— was the wife of a prosperous farmer but in a weak moment she fell in love with a young farm servant, and the two conspired to murder the husband, and take possession of the farm.

After a desperate struggle the husband escaped, although severely wounded. The woman was sentenced to 25 years and her accomplice to impulsonment for life, afterwards dying in prison.

The husband, weak and hupted, through his injuries, was not able to take care of his property, gradually lost everything, and became dependent on his relations.

The husband, weak and injuries, through his injuries, was not able to take care of his property, gradually lost everything, and became dependent on his relations.

When the woman left prison she took with her nearly £250, the result of 20 years prison work.

Her husband met her as she came out of the jail and a recencilation was at once affected. The money was handed over to him, and husband and wife went away together determined to buy back the old farm and begin life over again.

MONKEY BEATS CUBRA.

A monkey and a cobra fight was witnessed by some persons a couple of days ago, about a mile or two up the Obsoot road at Bangalore. A large monkey disturbed a large cobra, which was hasking in the sun about a hundred yards away from the road. The infuriated reptile gave the monkey chase, but he took the matter easy till he got to a rock. While perched there the snake, who had been in close chase, reared up almost full length, and with open hood darted at the monkey. But the latter dodged and ducked on the defensive and allowed the reptile to strike foreibly each time against the stone. This went on for a considerable time until the snake lay out at full length bleeding and exhausted. Then the monkey serized the snake, and rubbed its head clean off the trunk and afterward climbed a tree, when the persons who had witnessed the interesting encounter treated the victor to Indian corn and sugar cane.—Lahore Tribune.

AN ABSURD YARN.

The London Times prints a letter sent to it from the managing editor of the San Francisco Chronicle absolutely denying the story which appeared in the June number to fithe Pall Mail Magazine, entitled, "An Unpublished Chapter in the Life of Robert Louis Stevenson," by H. W. Bell. It was stated by Mr. Bell that when Stevenson tranched San Francisco in 1879 he was "given a job" as a reporter on the Chronicle's staff, but did the word so badly that his copy had to be given to another reporter to rewrite in suitable Enassan, and he was of maily discharged. On the face of it the story did not seem incredible to Englishmen away capacity and adds with a fine touch of sarcasm: "Does any one suppose for a moment that if Robert Louis Stevenson had been a contributor to the paper that we should not have been proud to dwell on the fact?"

Your services are no longer required.

Your services are no longer required, said the great metropolitan editor to the reporter who had written up a sensational elopement. Why? was the startled question. Because you wrote up the elopement of the waitress and the janitor without calling one a society favorite and the other a man of leisure and a well-known clubman, Such carelessness for opportunities must be punished.—Boston Transcript.

having met, and asked for an extension of time in which to make a full report, pending replies from Rear-Admiral Sir Gerald Noel, admiral superintendent of naval reserves in England, and others. Communications from Vancouver were received on the question of co-operating with this branch, and were favorably considered.

The question of celebrating Trafalgar Day, as is done in many parts of the Empire, on October 21 next, was considered, but deferred for later consideration.

A letter was received from the head office of the Navy League in London, stating that the executive committee considered that this branch was working in an exercisely businesslike manner, and that if it continued in the same manner, good results were sure to follow.

manner, good results were sure to follow.

The executive in London congratulated this branch upon the businesslike construction of the by-laws, which it is sorry to say is not the case with many branches, and felt sure from the efforts already made, that it would become a very strong and powerful branch.

STREET FAIR.

W. F. L. PADDON.

A seal apparently a year old, was caught in the Murder island fish trap last week, which had around its neck. a lobster pot how about six and a half inches in diameter, that had plainly enough been torn from a trap by the seal getting its head through in search of bait, when the animal was much smaller, for the bow was now sunk in level with the skin all round the neck. James Lowe, of this place, who examined the seal with its queer collar, says its tightness must have been distressing.—Coast Guard.

HAVE THE INDIANS ANY RIGHTS?

Sir,—An interesting, trial will take place at Duncans today. An old Indian known among the white people as Red Cap, but whose Indian name is Thit-sahn, is to be tried, at the instance of Wm. Beaumont, for removing surveyor's stakes from his (?). Beaumont's land.

The old man declares that he has lived there all his life, and that his father, and brothers are all buried there. Through some mistake on the part of the Indian Reserve Commissioners, the old Indian's home was forgotten. Two men, who were logging in the neighborhood, pre-empted the Indian's claim, disregarding the fact that the land had been occupied by Indians. These men sold out their claim to Mr. Beaumont, who, by some means, has obtained the title to it, although there has been no improvements made on it, other than those made by the Indian.

Under these circumstances, surely the government will interfere and not permit the old man to be driven from his home—the only place which he, and his poor old wife have for a home.

Mr. Beaumont has tried nearly every means to drive the old Indian away: and a few days ago he employed a surveyor to cut up the little clearing which surrounds roor old Red Cap's home. This angered the old man, and he removed some of the stakes within his claim, for which offence he is to be punished unless the sufrit of British law, which has always protected the aborigines, shall say emphatically—No.

BUSINESS IN KOOTENAY.

Referring to business with the Nelson wholesalers Robert Robertson, manager of one of the largest concerns operating in the city by the lake, informed the Miner yesterday that, taking the country on the whole, trade was quiet. Business with Rossland has dropped off materially since the strike commenced, and the Slocan is not doing the amount of trade with the Nelson wholesalers that might reasonably be expected, although conditions in the Slocan are quietly improving. The Boundary is quiet also, but the indications are that the advent of the railroad, with the activity naturally following. Will bring about an improvement there before the summer closes. The East Kootenay country is fair throughout, with business lively in Fernie and its immediate district. The construction work on the Lardeau branch of the C. P. R. has been the salvation of the Nelson wholesalers, who would otherwise have had an exceptionally quiet summer. The Lardeau contractors are, however, purchasing their supplies in Nelson exclusively, and the necessity of feeding the large crew of men at work on the new road has brought a number of splendid orders to Nelson.—Rossland Miner.

How would you define diplomacy? asked the student.
Diplomacy, answered the man of experience, is the art of conducting a marrel without becoming visibly angry.

In Last Chance tunnel No. 3 we have drifted on the ledge 35 feet, making a total from the Last Chance end line of 151 feet. In this distance we have encountered three chutes of ore, A B and C. We have not upraised on chutes B and C, but in the drift the maximum width of the ore was 16 inches, 12 inches and 3 feet, respectively. Assays of ore taken from chute C gave from 174 ounces to 426 ounces of silver per ton, and from 11 to 17 per cent lead.

"We shipped during the month to the Nelson smelter 24 tons of clean ore, the net returns for which, after paying freight and treatment charges, were $1,928.33, a trifle better than $80 per ton."

EXCURSION TO ANACORTES. Splendid Chance to See One of the Big 'Canneries in Operation.

Next Sunday's excursion on the steamer City of Nanaimo to Anacortes, through Rosario and Haro straits, promises to be the most enjoyable day's outing of the season, nothing having been left undone that would in any way tend to the comfort and pleasure of the excursionists. The steamer will leave the C. P. N. wharf at 9 a.m., and will make a quick passage to Anacortes, passing en route the various fish traps. A short time, will be spent viewing the points of local interest in and around Anacortes, and then an extensive inspection of the Alaska Packing Company's cannery will be made. This cannery is one of the largest on the Pacitic Coast, having a capacity of eight thousand cases per day, and at the present time, owing to the phenomenal run of salmon, is being taxed to the limit, working day and night as well as Sundays.

The United States battleship Iowa, which is at present in Anacortes, is expected to remain there over Sunday, in which case an opportunity will be aftorded the excursionists to inspect her. The Iowa is the flagship of the Pacific squadron, and is a perfect specimen of the modern fighting machine. During the late Spanish-American war the Iowa took part in several engagements at Manila, and has numerous relics of the fight. She carries one of the best bands in the United States navy.

Leaving Anacortes, the alternate route will be taken, affording a picturesque sail through the numerous isless dotted along Thatcher Pass and the Middle channel. The Fifth Regiment band will accompany the excursion, Bandmaster Finn having arranged a suitable programme of music to be rendered during the trip. Tickets can be had at Frank Campbell's, the Army and Navy cigar store, and at the E. & N. railway station.

Cowichan Show.—On September 6 and 7, the annual exhibition of the Cowichan Agricultural society will be held at the grounds of the society. The prize list has just been issued and the prizes offered will most likely bring forward a great many exhibitors. The coming show is expected to be quite as successful as the previous exhibitions, which is saying a great deal.
