CHURCH WORK TO PERFECT PEOPLE

Declares Rev. Dr. Manning at Dundas Center

Rev. E. B. Laneley Occupies Pulpit in Evening

It was a message of service for the nation and the world that Rev. Dr. Thomas Manning gave the congregation of Dundas Center Methodist Church at the morning service on Sunday. It was held at the church and two former pastors occupied the pulpit.

It was so in the church as in the army, Dr. Manning stated. One volunteer was worth 10 drafted men. He pointed out that when all the men of some were taken, the nation was conquered the whole world, but the decline was rapid when through degeneracy the sons of the great men built up an army of followers. So in the church, the men and women of today must continue to build what their forefathers had given them as a heritage.

As in the army most of the soldiers were honest, so in the church most of the members were honest members, but similarly as there were shirkers in the army so there were in the church. In many cases the pastor of a church found the closest fellowship among the humblest of the members of the congregation. It was association with such men and women as these that added joy to the work. Some, however, were like the loafers in the army, they contributed nothing to the cause.

To be faithful, the doctor continued, was not sufficient. Those things that appealed to self-interest never had been sufficient. There were other considerations, but the trouble was that many were not capable of appreciating the things that were worthy.

Dr. Manning declared that it would be much better if God were to cut some men's business interests in two so that they would have more time to devote to praying, going to church, visiting and looking after the improvement of their soul. The usefulness of the church was not as an organization in which to sit and sing hymns. The church was designed for their usefulness as nation builders. If this were not so they were of no use at all. Civilization in the world was the result of many years of Christian life, and Christianity appealed to every faculty of the human mind. This was the only thing in the world to which the human mind was not superior and it beckoned onward always. When a man has run the race of life to the end he was still crying exultant at the end, for no one was as perfect as he would have himself to be.

Some people need an earthquake to rouse them out of their lethargy of sin. May God send that earthquake." In these words at the First Methodist Church yesterday W. H. Brokenshire, field secretary for Canada of the McCall Mission in France, characterized the pleasure-mad and nonchurch-going public and showed to what degree they have fallen from the standard set by Paul.

NO FURTHER ACTION AGAINST ASHPANT

TORONTO, May 1.—Ex-Ald. H. B. Ashplant, of London, has been reported as saying that he positively refused to make any apologies for statements not made by himself, but were reported as putting that members of the Legislature could be bribed.

URGES BIG HAPPENING TO ROUSE THE PEOPLE

W. H. Brokenshire, Field Secretary of McCall Mission, Regrets Lethargy.

Some people need an earthquake to rouse them out of their lethargy of sin. May God send that earthquake." In these words at the First Methodist Church yesterday W. H. Brokenshire, field secretary for Canada of the McCall Mission in France, characterized the pleasure-mad and nonchurch-going public and showed to what degree they have fallen from the standard set by Paul.

In a vivid and interesting manner the speaker spoke of the admirable way in which Paul had conducted himself when thrown into prison. He did not complain like a number of persons would to-day, but kept his faith in the Almighty by prayer and continued to look for converts to whom he might tell the word of God. His actions at that time were worthy of emulation

"Fresh as new, my dear—and I washed it myself"

"It's my old georgette—another tussle with the washer-woman and I believe it would have fallen to pieces. So, of course, as things are so dear now and we must make them last, I thought I'd wash it with Sunlight. Or rather—let Sunlight wash it, for there's no need of any rubbing—just soaping and rinsing. And see—isn't it just lovely?"

The purity of Sunlight is such that it will not fade or discolor anything washable—it contains absolutely no fillers or adulterants—it is the most economical soap you money can buy. It's all soap.

"The Spectre"

By Guy Morton

"LONGREEN was not a quibbler. "I am sorry, Grimley"—he came straight to the point—but we are compelled to dispense with your services at the end of the month. Turner's for the past six months has been having a terrible pull. We got overstocked on the rising market and now, with the market falling every day and getting more and more into the customers' hands, we have to retrench or crash. We have chosen to retrench. Every stick of decorative employment is being cut out of the store."

What Spectre? The Spectre of Unemployment—a spectre which all too many have encountered during the past few months. If you have not personally encountered this spectre, so graphically described in its causes and consequences by Guy Morton, you may count yourself amongst the fortunate, but there will be no doubt as to your interest in his story. If you have encountered it, nothing can stop you, once you start this story, from reading it to its unusual and constructive conclusion.

It is a great piece of fiction, told by the same author who wrote "Personality Plus" in the March 15th MACLEAN'S.
