the wants of Europe for centuries. From the earliest days of its occupation by the French, the forest wealth of the country washed by the St. Lawrence engaged the attention of the government of France, who saw therein vast resources available for their naval yards. They drew from these forests large numbers of masts and spars, and issued stringent regulations for the preservation of the standing oak. When the country was first ceded to Great Britain, but little attention was paid at first to its vast timber supply, owing to the fact that almost the whole of the Baltic trade was carried on in British bottoms, and that the timber of northern Europe provided an unfailing and convenient return freight for the shipping thus engaged. When, however, the troubles of the Napoleonic era companied and thus engaged. When, however, the troubles of the Napoleonic era commenced, and especially when the Continental blockade was enforced, the timber supplies of the Baltic becoming uncertain and insufficient, attention was directed to the North American colonies, with the result of increasing the quantity of timber which reached Great Britain from 2,600 tons in the year 1800 to 125,300 tons in 1810, and to 308,000 tons in 1820. In 1895 the amount exported to the 1820. In 1895 the amount exported to the United Kingdom showed a total of 1,310,685

We discussed it many times after the weary day was over, and the morrow promised but another as weary. We saw before us vacation, and Arcadia. Tommie said you could find it on a wheel; and finally he persuaded me. My persuasion was complete the third day out. To be sure, we had not yet found Arcadia, but we had the flavor of some good health already, and were hopeful when we least expected it we should cross the boundary. The road had gained our spirits. We knew already why gypsies persist in the gypsying; why the most enter-taining pages in Wilheim Meister and in Kenelm Chillingly are those where the her-

Tommie said we might loaf comfortably for an hour with our pipes. So we left our steeds by the roadside and went down by that shore, stretching ourselves out for comfortable contemplation. An hour must have passed when Tommie gripped my arm. "Look, Fletcher, there in the road." I followed his eyes, and saw by our wheels, a bit of sunlight on her face, a most charming young woman, wearing one of thos mirable achievement of the modiste. She was young, I say, and blonde; and she was iling to herself and looking our wheels over. One she raised, and before we even ancied it, vaulted in the saddle as easily as any boy, tearing around a curve and out of

"Who said I wanted her to like me?"

"You don't say," said the rustic. I may have." "And that I hadn't?" "Where does this road lead?" "Nowhere," said the rustic. "Well, yes," Tommie answered honestly.

South American Kidney Cure is unique in its methods. It is not like pills and powders, a remedy that only gives temporary relief. As a liquid it dissolves the hard stone-like particles gathered in the system that constitute kidney disease. Not the least that can be said for it is the quickness with which it cures. Mrs. A. E. Young of Barnston, Quebec, says: "I found relief in the use of this medicine within six hours after the first dose had been taken." badly damaged, but examination shows only the superficial injuries mentioned. The passengers say the whales were nearly one hundred feet in length. Justice.

Rev. Thomas Cumming, Truro, N. S.:—
"It is only justice to say that your K. D. C. has been several times used by members of my family, and always with good results."
These burdens of life, palpitation of the heart, nervousness, headache, and gloomy forebodings, will quickly disappear if you use K. D. C. The greatest cure of the Age for all forms of Indigestion.

—In consideration of the valuable services which Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe rendered in bringing about the emancipation of the slaves, it has been proposed that a monument be erected to her memory by the colored people of the United States. This would be in keeping with the wonderful penny subscription given by the "Women of England," rich and poor alike, which brought to the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" a thousand gold guineas on a silver salver. A poor blind woman, whose cottage the collectors were about to pass by, supposing she would know nothing of the book, exclaimed: "I know 'Uncle Tom's Cabin." My son has read it to me, and I have my penny saved. read it to me, and I have my penny saved for you." If this plan for a monument is carried out there will be many a penny saved in many a cabin for the purpose. farmers in the maritime provinces are much less heavily burdened than their neighbors
