

ZIMBABWE, BOTSWANA, ANGOLA

Zimbabwe has a relatively well developed local food processing sector and market. There are some luxury frozen food items imported, principally fish and seafood from South Africa and Namibia. Fish and seafood imports are not prohibited, but are constrained by a scarcity of foreign exchange which makes imported food items very costly.

As a result, there is only a small luxury food market in Zimbabwe, which is dominated by South African and recently Namibian firms. Fish and seafood products from these countries are primarily imported by only a few local Zimbabwe companies.
