

an unlawful act or omission, which amounts to such conduct as would be liable under any other law and which, notwithstanding the above, does not amount to an offence.

(c) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(d) if no objection is filed by a respondent within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(e) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(f) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(g) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(h) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(i) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(j) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(k) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(l) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(m) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(n) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(o) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(p) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(q) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(r) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(s) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(t) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(u) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;

(v) if the party to whom the notice of claim is given fails to file a defence within the time limit specified in section 10(1) of the Civil Procedure Act;