That as foon as the Iphigenia had been feized, Don Martinez took possession of the tands belonging to your Memorialist, on which his temporary habitation before mentioned had been erected, hosting thereon the standard of Spain, and performing such ceremonies as your Memorialist understands are usual on such occasions; declaring, at the same time, that all the lands comprized between Cape Horn and the fixtieth degree of North latitude did belong to his Catholic Majesty; he then proceeded to build batteries, storehouses, &c. in the execution of which he forcibly employed some of the crew of the Iphigenia, and many of them who attempted to resist were very severely punished.

That during the time the commander of the Iphigenia remained in captivity, he had frequently been urged by Don Martinez to fign an instrument, purporting, as he was informed, (not understanding himself the Spanish language) that Don Martinez had found him at anchor in Nootka Sound; that he was at that time in great diffress; that he had furnished him with every thing necessary for his passage to the Sandwich islands; and that his navigation had in no respect been molested or interrupted; but which paper, on inspection of a copy thereof, delivered to Mr. Douglas, and hereunto annexed; (No. II.) appears to be an obligation 'from him and Mr. Viana, the second captain, on the part of their owners, to pay on demand the valuation of that vessel, her cargo, &c. in case the Viceroy of New Spain should adjudge her to be lawful prize, for entering the Port of Nootka without the permission of his Catholic Majesty: that Captain Douglas, conceiving that the port of Nootka did not belong to his Catholic Majesty, did frequently refuse to accede to this proposal; but that Don Martinez, partly by threats, and partly by promifes of reftoring him to his command, and of furnishing him with fuch supplies of stores and provisions as he might stand in need of, ultimately carried his point; and having fo done, he, on the 26th of the same month, was restored to the command of the Iphigenia, but restrained from proceeding to sea, until the return of the North-West America; infifting that he should then dispose of her for 400 dollars, the price which one of the American captains had fet upon her.

That during the time the Spaniards held possession of the Iphigenia, she was stripped of all the merchandize which had been provided for trading, as also of her stores, provisions, nautical instruments, charts, &c. and, in short, every other article (excepting twelve bars of iron) which they could conveniently carry away, even to the extent of the master's watch, and articles of cloathing.

That the commander of the Iphigenia, finding himself thus distressed, applied for relief, and after much solicitation obtained a trissing supply of stores and provisions, for which he was called upon to give bills on his owners. The articles so supplied were charged at a most exorbitant price, and very unequal in quality or quantity to those which had been taken from him.

That notwithstanding what had been insisted on by Don Martinez, respecting the sale of the North West America, he had constantly resuled to dispose of that vessel on any D 2
