

V

WITCHCRAFT IN SALEM VILLAGE

Louis XIV. commutes the sentence of death imposed upon alleged witches	133
The parliament of Normandy protests	134
The belief in witchcraft universal	135
Vitality of the belief	136
Cause of the final decay of the belief	137
Rise of physical science	138
An English witch trial before Sir Matthew Hale	138
Grotesque evidence	139
Indications of shamming ignored	139
Sir Matthew Hale affirms the reality of witchcraft	140
Revival of witchcraft superstition	141
The Hammer of Witches	142
King James on the reality of witchcraft	143
The delusion increases with the rise of the Puritan party to power	143
Last executions for witchcraft	144
Primitive America regarded as a domain of the Devil	144
The first victim of the witchcraft delusion in New England	145
The case of Mrs. Hibbins	146
A victim of malice acting through superstition	147
A sensible jury	148
The Goodwin children	149
Cotton Mather	149
His character	150
His courage in advocating inoculation	150
Views of Calef and Upham	151
Mr. W. F. Poole	151
Cotton Mather and the Goodwin case	152
Cotton Mather and the Goodwin girl	153