It had no say in letting the contract. Mr. Carson, a prominent villager, thought that if the village hadn't a council that would properly look after the village's interests it was time a new one was elected. Altho an inspector from the highway board is supposed to be on hand to see that the specifications are lived up to, lake shore roaders say he is never on hand, and as a result instead of the specified 7 inches of concrete, some places, according to them, are skimmed to 4 1-2 inches. On top of the weeping tile there is supposed to be 8 inches of gravel, while villagers declare the mud from the centre of the road is used to fill in.

The house of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mc-Laughlin, who resided in a little two-tomomed dwelling at the corner of Ditching road and Dufferin street, about half a mile north of the city limits, at Earlscourt, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning at the colors.
