FINE CHRISTMAS WILL ASK FOR AT COUNTY JAIL

Best Holiday Dinner On Record Is Provided

BY KIND CITIZENS

Two Fine Roasts for New Year's Repast At Castle Carter.

Thanks to a few kind hearts in London, the prisoners in the Middlesex county jail enjoyed on Saturday the biggest and best Christmas dinner on record in that time-honored free-for-all hostelry. When it looked as if nothing hostelry. When it looked as if nothing but the regulation Government menu was likely to be served in the jail on Christmas Day, Governor James Carter decided to personally add a few dainties to the menu, and was just preparing to carry out his kind intention when George Hiscox telephoned that he wanted to "go shares" on providing the prisoners 'Christmas dinner. So between Mr. Carter and Mr. Hiscox there was served what the prisoners voted unanimously to be the best Christmas dinner they had ever had in jail or out of jail.

John Moule, police court clerk, thoughtfully sent down a whole crate of oranges to top off the dessert and heighten the Christmas flavor of the dinner. And that wasn't all, Dr. James D. Wilson supplied enough cigars to go around to everybody several times, and the prisoners had all the smokes they desired.

But before the dinner had been predesired.

But before the dinner had been prepared, James Wilson, meat merchant, who supplies the jail kitchen, sent in a roast of beef and a roast of pork.
Meat had already been ordered by Mr.
Carter and Mr. Hiscox, so the roasts of beef and pork supplied by Mr. Wilson will be held over for New Year's dinner.

CHANGE IN THE ELECTION ACT

Ontario Legislature To Take Action At Next Session.

An important change in the municipal election act, whereby the candidate polling the next highest vote will take the place of an alderman who dies, is disqualified, or withdraws from the council, will be undertaken by the Legislature at its next session, Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A., said today.

At present if a vacancy occurs on the council before November 1, another election, is necessary, involving considerable expense to the city and disarrangement of business affairs. Dr. Stevenson will urge that the change be made, contending that the candidate next highest on the list at the previous election is obviously the choice of the electors, and that there is no need to put the municipally to the additional expense. expense.

This plan was followed by the board of education in 1919. A. N. Udy took the place of Trustee W. T. Strong, who died shortly after he was elected.

NEW YORK'S TRAFFIC IS DISORGANIZED AS RESULT OF SNOWFALL

Two Inches of "the Beautiful" Causes Lots of Trouble.

New York, Dec. 27.—New York is struggling this morning to recover from the effects of its first touch of real winter. A belated Christmas snowstorm hit the city last night and this morning the streets were covered with about two inches of snow, which rain was converting into sticky slush. Judging by the effect of this slight snowfall, New York has learned nothing from the lesson of last winter, when a series of storms tied up traffic for weeks in many parts of the city. This first snowstorm would hardly be considered a flurry in Canada, yet this morning long lines of stalled surface cars stood in Lower Broadway, while the "L" and subway traffic was disorganized and irregular. Thousands of New Yorkers experienced long delays in getting down town to work. Yesterday was the coldest day New York has experienced so far this winter. In the morning the mercury registered 18 degrees above zero, but it climbed steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening, when the steadily throughout the day, until it was at 28 in the evening the steadily throughout the day.

Will Lend Cars to Carry Voters to the Polls.

The forthcoming municipal elections were the big topic of interest to the members of the London Rotary Club at luncheon today in the Tecumseh House. W. R. Yendall presiding called for 250 automobiles for use on Saturday to carry voters to the polls. Some of the members explained that they would be out of town, while a few replied "No," when the roll call was taken. "Isn't Rotary supposed to be kept out of politics?" asked D. H. McDermid. "We're just getting people interested in community matters. We're not getting into politics. We want to get the people out to vote," replied Mr. Yendall. Brief speeches were made by Mayor Little, Ald. F. E. Harley, Ald. John Bridge, all candidates for re-election; G. A. Wenige; T. W. She was brought to the police station at 2:30 o'clock this morning, after she had been found wandering about in the vicinity of Front and High streets.

The police searched for the girl on three different occasions after mdinight in answer to calls sent in by people living on Front street, who had seen her wandering about in the storm. Twice their efforts proved fruitless, but on the third occasion she was found at the home of a woman who had retained her until they arrived.

She could give no account of herself other than that she was seeking news of her husband who was in the hospital. Because the magistrate feared that she would freeze to death if she was left to her own resources he remanded the woman a week to jail.

For this reason many of those who had been imbibling too freely of Christmas spirits on Friday night were forced to partake of a Christmas dinner in the local jail.

"Of these numerous signs William's spirit which this general gives almost every day, I shall mention but one example. This year on September 2, the anniversary of the Battle of Sedan, which even during the last years of the imperial regime had passed unobserved, Herr von Seeckt issued the following Herr von Seeckt issued the follow proclamation in the official order of the "Today, the anniversary of Sedan

West and in the East."

"In the camp at Munster, where several divisions of the Reichswehr were stationed, the anniversary of Sedan was celebrated by the unveiling of a bust of William. This stood upon a high pedestal with the old war flag of imperial Germany at its foot. The commander of a division made an ultra-patriotic speech, which telegrams of homage were sent to William, Hindenburg, and Ludendorff, and, above all, to Captain Ehrhardt, who, as commander of the division that carried out the counter-revolution of last March, had been formally summoned to answer to the charge of high treason and mutiny, but had never been placed under arrest and will go scot free like all the opponents of the republic who wear uniforms.

"Of such monarchist demonstrations I could cite hundreds of examples. On the 27th of August, the anniversary of the battle of Tannenberg, an exchange of telegrams took place between William and the "National Alliance of German Officers." William replied as follows to his faithful officers: I am deeply grateful to the National Alliance of German Officers for the remembrance of the 27th of August. Would that another Tannenberg might be granted to the Fatherland!—William I. R.' William still signs himself 'Imperatos Rex.' Evidently, while felling trees at Amerongen he has not yet given up hope of some time laying his axe to the republic.
