FEW ATTRACTIONS FOR BOXING SEASON

Champions Who Refuse to Risk Title are Killing Sport.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—(United Press).—With Jack Dempsey doing a vaudeville act and with Benny Leonard fishing movies and preparing to do some heavy acting in a road show this winter, the prospects for a busy indoor boxing season are slipping. The purposes of both Dempsey and Leonard in saying periodically that they are preparing to defend their titles are becoming plain. The threats to fight all their nearest contenders are designed only for publicity to steam up some enterprise not associated with the fight business.

Dempsey is said to be working on a contract for $10,000 a week, but that sum probably is as much inflated as was the million dollars he was getting for his last movie. The amount of Leonard's pay check has been made public, because the lightweight champion wouldn't want to make it appear that he was worth less to the amusement public than Dempsey and he wouldn't be foolish enough to claim he was getting ten grand.

If there is such a thing as a duty or an obligation to the public that is given them each a fortune, Dempsey and Leonard are throwing down their hands, but there is no such thing as a prize fighter's duty. It is a question if the public gives much of a damn, because Congress hasn't been asked to do anything about it. But their associates in the business find room for complaint on the ground that they are acting in restraint of trade.

Dempsey never has committed himself about his boxing career, but Leonard has said openly that he is not in debt to boxing and that boxing owes him a lot for having contributed his great ability and his noble personality to its elevation. Leonard told a group of newspapermen when he was making one of his pictures that he was sick of the boxing game and he wanted to get out of it. He really wants to become another Al Jolson or Eddie Cantor, two million-dollar-a-year stars of the stage, and from his conversation the idea is made plain that he feels he is just as good as they are in any respect he certainly is as funny as they are.

Leonard is not consistent if he is sincere in his announced desire to get out of the boxing business. He ought to remain and let some one else have a chance to make the money he has hoarded out of the ring with him. He ought to give up the title if he still has a liking for the game, because he can't make the lightweight limit and it is doubtful that he could make the welterweight poundage.

The lightweight title, of course, even if he should fall into the belt of a light heavyweight, would still be a means of advertising his sideline and as long as he can get that advertising he will keep the title.

Other fighters who have been fortunate to acquire the money or the independent station and he wants to claim that their inactivity is hurting the game and putting down profits. There is something rotten in the present situation where the prize fighters are finding out that promoters won't offer them a match of the kind they were commanding a year or two ago. The outdoor season was the best this year, but the business has suffered an acute shortage of fights. Not only the heavyweights and the lightweights are complaining, but the fellows claim when the title is won, the champion and the lightweight champion are not active that the whole business slumps, because the fans who get the freight loss interest in all the fights.

The little fellows have trouble right in their own ranks because Abe Goldstein and Pancho Villa, while they are not trying to knock the business, are refusing to knock anything dead. Goldstein's only desire is to keep the title and make easy money with set-up opponents and Villa ran so fast away from Frankie Genaro that his momentum carried him back to the Philippine Islands, aided by a passport from the New York Box-Commission good for eight months.

When the theatrical press agents are getting Dempsey back into public notice preparatory to his return to vaudeville, the heavyweight champion is ready to be nice to the fans and that he would be reasonable enough to accept a match in Madison square Garden this winter with Tom Ions or Jack Renault. Gibbons was a contract and Renault was said to be willing to go. The badly-hoo was Dempsey started strict training and he ran right out of the gymnasium in "perfect condition" and useful springing form into the air.

It is likely that with the lack of great public interest in all the fights that the sport fans don't care any or another what Dempsey and Leonard do. It is quite certain that they don't care to see any of the big champions in a real championship fight. Dempsey and Leonard may regret however, if they continue to feed a public get off boxing, they will at the public sentiment reflected in a box office when they do decide to fight.

HAGEN DENIES AND THREATENS SUIT

Meanwhile Caddy Says He Made Up Kidnapping Tale.

New York, Oct. 29.—Robert Burns Boughan, a Chicago caddy, whose story that he had been kidnapped by Walter Hagen, professional golfer, resulted in the issuing of a Chicago warrant for Hagen's arrest, admitted today that he had told the story to his parents in an endeavor to cover the fact that he had run away from home, according to word received by W. C. Marvin, the golfer's attorney, over the telephone from Kansas City. Hagen, hearing that the papers for his arrest were on the way here, made the following statement:

"I hereby certify that I do not know said Robert Burns Boughan and that he has not added for me at any time or place whatsoever."

Mr. Marvin announced that he will have his associates in Chicago enter suit against the Boughan family for defamation of Hagen's character.

WHAT IS OUTLOOK FOR LOCAL HOCKEY?

Already Talking of Winter Sports—Should Start Training.

What is the outlook for hockey in St. John this winter is a question being asked by fans throughout the city. Those who took an active interest in the game in former years are confident that they will be able to hand together a class aggregation of puck chasers, but aside from this there is nothing of a definite nature to tell the fans. If St. John hopes to compete with other Maritime teams the time is at hand when some definite action should be taken to reorganize and map out plans for the season's activities.

One of the greatest requisites of a hockey player is stamina. Ability to handle a puck, shoot fast and accurately, but he must also be able to keep going. Unless the forwards are able to do this a team usually lacks the necessary punch to win. A few practices prior to the opening of the season may put an edge on a man's playing, for some time.

Southpaws Dominate Big Leagues

Connie Mack Purchases Prize Package in "Lefty" Groves

language of the ball field is regarded as a "nothing pitcher".

By way of explanation, a "nothing pitcher" to the diamond athletes is a twirler who has nothing to fool the batter, just nice speed to hit and an easy curve to follow.

However, in these days of the lively ball the "nothing pitcher" is quite successful.

Southpaws Jolt Giants.

No one would ever accuse Southpaws Zachary and Mordridge of Washington of having the stuff of "Rube" Waddell, yet they stood the Giants on their heads in the recent world series, after Walter Johnson, with a world of stuff, had failed.

The supremacy of the southpaw in pitching circles has caused the major league magnates to comb the country for likely material.

Just as the season closed Washington announced that it had purchased the veteran Van Greig from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Ten years ago Greig was one of the outstanding pitchers in the majors. In sheer ability he is one of the few southpaws I have ever unpriced who are planning on making the senior tour this season should keep this in mind.

Sensational Comeback.

An injury robbed Greig of much of his stuff, he slipped to the minors for a few years then retired from baseball. Now at an age close to forty but will never get him in proper condition. In all lines of sport, proper training is essential, and St. John boys who are planning on making the senior tour this season should keep this in mind.

A little road work or participation in basketball would prove invaluable to hockey players at this time of the year. If taken seriously should result in the local banding together a team that would be able to go out and vie for honors, with the best in the Maritime Provinces.

mark, he is doing a sensational comeback.

At the close of the world series Connie Mack of the Athletics broke into print in big headlines with the announcement that he had purchased Pitcher Groves of Baltimore for a trifle more than $100,000 and a few German marks.

In Groves, Mack gets the minor league pitching sensation of the last two years. Every major league club has been angling for his services. Big figures have been offered Jack Dunn for his prize left-hander. Evidently Connie Mack must have made a flattering proposition to the Baltimore magnate.

Groves had had two phenomenal years at Baltimore. His great work figured largely in the winning of the last two pennants.

Groves Strikeout King.

He is the strikeout king of the league. In 1922 he established a record for the International by whiffing 308 in 303 innings, an average of better than one an inning. Some pitching, believe me.

Groves' greatest fault is his wildness. It may be a bigger handicap than ever in the majors, where a pitcher inclined to be wild is waited out much more than in the minors.

If Groves is 75 per cent. efficient for Mack, he will have repaid Connie Mack, the generous money outlay. Should Groves prove a consistent winner, beware the Athletics.

WALKER TO MEET MALONE TONIGHT

Champion and the St. Paul Boxer are Ready for Bout.

Jack Malone, St. Paul middleweight, completed his hard training Monday at Newark for his twelve-round bout against Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, to be held tonight by the National Sportsmen's Club at the 110th Infantry Regiment Armory, Newark.

A session at the gymnasium apparatus, shadow-boxing and three rounds of sparring against Jack Rappaport constituted the final drill for the St. Paul veteran.

For a short time during the training period Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, who reached Newark Monday to fulfill a vaudeville engagement, visited Malone. Walker also included his hard training Monday and at the end of his workout expressed satisfaction with his condition and confidence in his ability to defeat Malone.

The boxers engaged in only light exercises yesterday as the finishing touches to their preparation for the impending battle. Walker was quoted as a favorite in the betting on the bout, at odds of 8 to 5.

CROSS PACIFIC IN 32-FOOT BOAT

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 29.—A 32-foot boat four men from this city have set out on a cruise across the Pacific, with Honolulu as their destination. The cruise was planned by Karl Rattison, an experienced navigator of small craft, and his boat is the Idis Hour.

The Idis Hour has a 10-horsepower motor, a beam of 11 feet and a depth from the deck of six feet. Rattison declared she could ride any wave the Pacific could raise. She sailed with half a ton of iron filings as ballast, in addition to large supplies of fuel oil and provisions. The men have no radio, but expect passing vessels to report their progress occasionally. They plan to cruise down the coast to San Pedro, Cal., then across to the Hawaiian Islands.

A Frenchman who had murdered his mother and father pleaded for leniency on the grounds that he was "a poor orphan."

MONCTON TO PLAY TROJANS SATURDAY

A Keen Contest Expected When Railway Boys and Locals Clash.

Football fans who saw the U. N. B. Trojans game here recently are keyed up over the approaching contest this Saturday between the Moncton city team and the Trojans. It is likely to develop into an even more bitterly contested game than the one between the locals and the boys from Fredericton. The college boys had it over the Trojans in that they were able to get in a few hours of practice on a real playing field while the locals had to be content with a brief workout during noon hours. Moncton boys are under a similar disadvantage and this makes the score more even. The Trojans, of course, hold the moral advantage of playing on their own grounds—no slight advantage, particularly in view of the Trojans' record of the last two years. They have lost but one game here and that by the narrow margin of one point.

This will be the first time in three years that a Moncton team has played here and the inter-city flavor injected into the atmosphere is bound to draw quite a crowd. The proceeds of the game, after payment of necessary expenses, will go toward footing the medical bill incurred when Leslie Kerr broke his collar bone. Kerr is one of the most popular athletes St. John has in the city and the opportunity to express appreciation of his services in football, basketball, baseball, swimming and rowing is bound to be accepted by a great many.

Regulars Back.

"Beer" Malcolm, the husky centre man for the Trojan team, will get back into the game Saturday as will "Pete" Millidge and Bridges. In fact, the only regulars missing from the line-up on Saturday will be Kerr and McGowan. This gives the home team one of its strongest line-ups since the season opened and materially increases the chances of a Trojan victory. Moncton entertained the Trojans at the railway centre at the opening of the season and handed them a trimming, 8 to 3. Five of the Trojan stalwarts, when they met the Dalhousie team here, this is one of the biggest undertakings the Trojan A. C. has tackled for some time.

NO PLAY-OFF FOR MARITIME TITLE

Violation of Interscholastic Age Limit Rule Given as Cause.

A play-off for the Interscholastic rugby title of the Maritime Provinces is improbable according to present indications. The age-limit rule making nineteen the maximum age for school athletics, is causing the trouble. In this province St. John High has disregarded it although other schools have withdrawn their average players. In Nova Scotia there is general disregard of the rule according to report though New Glasgow High, representing the Scotchman's Club, has challenged for the cup that it donated so long ago.

The Races Long Island Sound to determine which of the American six-meters will be chosen for the invasion of the Clyde should result in keen sport.

PROPOSED YACHT RACE DISCUSSED

Critic Speaks of Sir Thomas Lipton's Visit to the States.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who is in this country on a six weeks' business trip, evidently is hoping to challenge a fifth time for the America's Cup, the races to take place in the season of 1926. Whether he challenges or not probably will depend a good deal on what is done at the International Yachting Conference, now engaged in thrashing out the racing rules in London. For the first time American yachtsmen are taking part in the International meeting. Heretofore Fife, Nicholson and other British designers have had to plan their yachts under our rules of construction if they wished to compete for the great yacht trophy. This undoubtedly has hampered the British designer, inasmuch as they may not have understood our rules as well as they did their own. If a universal racing rule should be adopted which would apply to the America's Cup it would at least be a point in favor of the British designer; they might go ahead with their plans without being bound by the American regulations in the matter.

Perhaps it was through fear of a rule change affecting the America's Cup that American yachtsmen have held aloof from European entanglements as far as a universal measurement is concerned. However, if a line may be taken from the results of the recent six-meter series at Oyster Bay, in which the American team was defeated in the British-American Cup match, there seems to be no reason why the famous Fife of Fairlie should not turn out in the comparisons made possible by the Oyster Bay races. The British designer, to stand out as distinctly superior in the six-meter class, has been asked a question which he has not answered. "Why," asked a prominent American racing helmsman, "if Fife can turn out such a wonderfully fast boat as Zenith, cannot he extend this model to a 70-footer to stand out as the world's champion? It looks as if he might win with such a boat. Fife has showed us something."

It should be remembered, however, in drawing comparisons, that the American six-meter boats were built under the British rules of measurement. When the British-American match was inaugurated there was no American six-meter class in existence and the British rule was necessarily used. The class here has grown into a fine craft of the using fleet because of international competition. Already there is an international six-meter match assured for next season, that being the contest for the Seawanhaka Challenge Cup, which will be sailed on the Clyde in August.

The Seawanhaka Cup, which was put up in 1893 by the progressive Oyster Bay organization, is now held by the Royal Northern Yacht Club of Glasgow, having been won at Marblehead in 1922 by Collis III, representing the Corinthian Yacht Club of New York. The Races Long Island Sound to determine which of the American six-meters will be chosen for the invasion of the Clyde should result in keen sport.

U.S. HOCKEY TEAMS ARE GETTING READY

Hold Meeting in Boston—Advocate Amicable Relations With Canada.

At least three teams, and possibly six teams, will comprise the Eastern section of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, and the usual six teams will operate in the Western group the coming season. This was decided at the annual meeting of the association, held in Boston Monday.

Boston A. A., Maple A. A. and the Boston Hockey Club will be the three teams in the East. Applications for admission have been received and are being considered from Providence, Philadelphia and New York. The Providence team, if admitted, would play its games at the Boston Arena.

The Western section comprises St. Paul, Minn.; Evelev, Minn.; Duluth, Minn.; Cleveland, O. and Pittsburgh, Penn.

The championship season will start Dec. 1.

Trying to South Canada.

One of the important points brought before the meeting was the resolution offered to provide more amicable relations with Canada. The matter of residence rule has been the bone of contention between the two countries. Canada has a one year or Jan. 1 residence rule. In the United States Association a player to be eligible must have resided in this country on or before Oct. 1. The United States Association will ask the Canadian authorities to agree on Sept. 1. This in the hope that the international series for the Hamilton B. Wills cup will be inaugurated.

Many drastic changes in the playing rules were made. Games will now be a point system. Two points for a win, one for a tie hereafter will be the standard by which the teams are rated.

Manager George V. Brown of the Boston Arena, also vice-president of the association, announced that ice would be available on Nov. 15.

MAY REVIVE NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

If Plan Materializes Twilight Leagues Would be Affected.

Interest in the possible revival of the old New England League is almost general in New England. Should it develop, several of the leagues which have been affected and an almost general change of circuits would result. The Central League has called a meeting in Boston next week to consider the situation. Soccer is getting a real hold of the sporting interest of New England. In Boston, where the game has been played only on corner lots for several years, the new American Soccer League team of stars recruited largely from abroad, played to a crowd of 6,000 the other day. This Boston team is leading the league, although it has been playing only a few weeks.

The New England soccer championship run to be held at Boston on November 17, will bring out the college runners for the first meeting of the season. The Carrs, whom Coach Frank Kanaly is developing at the University of Maine will be watched particularly, in view of the success he had while coach at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

There will be close to 15,000 spectators in the Yale Bowl for the Harvard game on November 22. There were about 420 at the first Harvard-Yale game, also in New Haven, in 1915, and when 140 Harvard men went from Cambridge to cheer the Crimson it was said "there was a large representation of the college at the match." Harvard's share of the receipts was $75.

The extent to which Dartmouth students support their team in games away from home was shown the other day when a newspaper office in Boston put in a telephone call for the college office at Hanover and was told that each of several persons asked for was away. Word was given that the newspaper would speak with anyone. "Everybody has gone to the game" was the operator's answer. Hanover was a deserted village.

Fall River has sent few men to Princeton, but those who have gone to the New Jersey university have a way of asserting themselves in football. Sammy White, hero of loose balls which became touchdowns, was known to the nation, and Saxby Tillson, another Fall River boy, this month took the Navy by a touchdown from a lateral pass.

Dartmouth and Brown renewing their ancient rivalry at Hanover and Yale and the Army at New Haven top the list of an interesting week-end of football in New England next Saturday. While Harvard is taking on Boston University at the Stadium, Boston College meets the Haskell Indians, Amherst and the Mass. Aggies have it on again. Tufts goes to Middletown to play Wesleyan, Williams entertains Union, Holy Cross meets Vermont at Burlington, and Bowdoin and Maine play at Brunswick.

BOUT IS STOPPED IN THIRD ROUND

Boston, Mass., Oct. 29.—Young Bob Fitzsimmons of Newark, N. J., won over Joe Burke of Detroit, when the referee stopped their scheduled ten-round bout in the third round here last night. Fitzsimmons had pounded Burke on the body and face in aggressive fighting from the opening bell.

INTEREST IS KEEN IN COMING GAME

Mt. A. and Acadia Meet in League Match Tomorrow.

Thousands of alumni, supporters and rugby fans will have their eyes turned toward Wolfville Thursday when Mt. Allison and Acadia meet in the second match of the Western Intercollegiate Rugby League. Mount A. has won games at Wolfville, but very seldom. Alden Clark of Fredericton, captain of the Acadia team of 1923, left for Wolfville to spend the rest of the week and incidentally see the game.

The Argosy Weekly, undergraduate publication of Mt. Allison has the following on the game:

This will be Mt. A.'s 28th football game with Acadia. Mount Allison's football club will leave Tuesday night on the Maritime Express for Wolfville where they will line up on Thursday against the Acadia "Varsity" team. The team will go a day earlier than usual in order that they may have time for a good rest and a light work out on the Acadia campus. Of the twenty-seven games played, Mt. Allison has won 18, lost 4 and tied 5. Last year the Garnet and Gold won at Sackville by a score of 14-8.

On their return from Acadia the team will probably play a game with Wolf Wanderers in Halifax, and will come back sometime Saturday morning. The team will be picked from the following players:
