MUSIC PROGRAMME AT ARMY WEDDING

A Hallelujah wedding was conducted by Major Burrows, district commander of the Salvation Army, and was witnessed by a capacity congregation at the No. 3 Corps, Brindley street Salvation Army citadel, last night, when Miss Ida Blanch Morel became the bride of Charles Wesley Sprague. The ceremony was carried out in real Salvation Army style. A programme of vocal and instrumental selections was much enjoyed. Those who took part were Staff Captain and Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. (Major) Burrows. Treasurer Robert Winchester spoke on behalf of the corps and told of his happy association with the bridegroom. He also congratulated the bride on having such good prospects of a happy future.

Among those present were the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. Candidate Byron Cobham acted as best man and Miss Muriel Brehaut as bridesmaid. A reception was held in the officers' quarters where the bride and groom were met by the bride party and officers sat down to well filled tables which had been beautifully arranged and fully provided by a committee consisting of Mrs. Norton,

The Y. P. A. of St. James' church last night repeated their successful play, "Safety First," and greatly delighted an audience which filled the schoolroom. Pre-School Age is Habit-Forming Period Of Child's Life

(By Dr. Richard A. Bolt, medical director of the American Child Health Association.)

The pre-school age is the golden one for habit formation and character building. There are many health activities that the parents and guardians of children of this age should carry out with the assistance of the family physician and public health nurse. There should be a regular monthly weighing and measuring the child, keeping a careful record; consultations and health supervision by a physician, with a complete physical examination at least twice a year, or oftener when needed; follow-up work by the nurse in the home, urging correction of defects, arranging for special care, and seeing that children return to health centers for regular examination; provision for dental care under dentists or dental hygienists; and inducting the child into health habits through its daily activities.

The pre-school child, that is, the child between two and six years, is peculiarly susceptible to infectious diseases, such as measles, whooping cough, diphtheria and scarlet fever. He should, therefore, be kept away from other children who have these diseases. We should employ the successful immunizations against these diseases, vaccination for smallpox, toxin-antitoxin for diphtheria, anti-typhoid inoculation for typhoid fever and immune blood serum for measles.

The prevention of heart disease is another pre-school problem. Between 80 and 90 per cent. of the cases of heart disease in childhood is due to
