BANKS IN CANADA

SHORTENING SAIL

Are Curtailing Credit on Speculative Investments.

The Statement for April Reflects the Remarkable Progress of the Country—
Big Increase in Call Loans

OTTAWA, May 24.—The bank statement for April reflects the remarkable progress which the Dominion is making. It also shows that the banks are "shortening sail" and curtailing credit upon speculative investments.

The notes in circulation in April, 1907, were $73,842,909, against $76,346,013 in March, and $66,530,677 in April, 1906.

The deposits payable on demand increased by over ten million dollars in the year, the figures being:

April, 1907	$167,317,947
March, 1907	183,837,988
April, 1906	157,147,012

The deposits payable on notice also show a substantial increase. In April, 1907, they totalled $373,376,049, in March, 1907, $404,299,134, and in April, 1906, $407,370,491.

Dominion note circulation increased by nearly $2,000,000 in the month, and by nearly $4,000,000 in the year, the figures being:

April, 1907	$58,489,135
March, 1907	42,831,094
April, 1907	45,407,377

Call loans on stock in Canada are over $5,000,000 less than in April, 1906, when they totalled $5,255,913. In April, 1907, they amounted to $30,357,266 against $32,576,592 in March. Call loans elsewhere, on the other hand, in April were valued at $961,100, in March, 1907, $51,340,792, but in April, 1906, had been reduced to $45,487,477.

Current loans in Canada have increased by nearly one hundred millions in the year. In April last they totalled $188,149,738, against $79,067,554, in April, 1906, and $488,383,324 in April, 1906. Current loans elsewhere, on the other hand, in April were valued at $961,100, in March, 1907, $51,340,792, but in April, 1906, had been reduced to $45,487,477.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—A friendship stronger than family ties prompted policeman Thomas Goodchild, of the Twenty-fifth District, to give from sixteen to twenty ounces of his own blood to save the life of Archie McLearn at the Methodist Hospital yesterday.

The transmission of blood from one living being to another is a rare and trying operation. It is much more severe than skin-grafting and the recipient, which the healthy person makes for the invalid is infinitely greater.

Goodchild is as weak now as though he had gone through a long illness, and the hospital physicians are endeavoring to get a leave of absence for him.

"He certainly needs it," they said, "and if ever a man earned it he did. He is a real hero, and the kindest hearted man that ever lived."

McLearn lives at 2104 South Broad street. Some time ago one of his sons was drowned. Then a brother committed suicide, and after that McLearn lost a position he had held for thirty-five years. He worried himself into a condition of utter hopelessness, and on Sunday afternoon slashed one wrist and his throat with a razor.

By the time they got him to the Methodist Hospital he had lost so much blood that the resident physicians thought he was dying. They telephoned the chief surgeon, who lives two miles away from the hospital, and he got there in his automobile in six minutes.

The chief said the only means of saving McLearn's life was by transfusion of blood. Application was made to the patient's relatives, but one after another they refused to give their blood for the operation.

It looked as though McLearn would have to die. There were no volunteers, and the patient's life was slowly slipping away.

C. P. Edger, a clerk in the office of the received of taxes, had heard of the state of affairs, and when he met the patient Goodchild on the street, he stopped to tell him about it.

"Say Tom," he began. "You know McLearn, don't you?"

"Sure, I do," replied the policeman. "Poor fellow, he must have been clean out of his head when he did that."

"Well, the doctors said, they could save him if they could get somebody to give up blood enough, but nobody seems anxious to be bled," he said.

"If that so," said Goodchild, thoughtfully, and then he hurried off to the hospital, hunting up the chief surgeon.

"I can do anything to save McLearn's life, I'm here to do it," he said. It was explained to him that the operation was a serious and trying one, and that it might take him weeks or months to get over it, but he did not flinch.

"A life is a life," was his terse comment.

Without any unnecessary loss of time Goodchild's arm was bared and treated with cocaine. An incision three inches long was made at the wrist. The artery was cut and raised, after which it was sewed fast to the severed artery in McLearn's wrist.

For fourteen minutes the two men were sewed together, and the policeman's blood was flowing into the patient's veins. Goodchild became pale and weak, and his pulse became feebler and more rapid, while exactly the opposite effect was noticeable in McLearn.

At last, after the surgeon thought at least sixteen ounces of blood had been transmitted to the dying man, the connection was severed and Goodchild's wound was sewed up. It will take nine days for it to heal.

Not once during the operation did the policeman complain or show any desire to take back his offer or abridge his service. Although he felt himself

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY, PASTOR STICKS TO JOB

Despite Ministerial Conference Continues to Conduct Religious Services.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 24.—The hand of providence has been withdrawn from the Rev. E. D. Dromgoolle, pastor of the Mount Pisgah Baptist Church, under bail to answer for alleged bigamy, by the Baptist Ministerial Conference.

When first arrested, Mr. Dromgoolle denied having two wives. The ministerial committee says it has an affidavit from a Princeton woman showing she is Dromgoolle's first wife, whom, it is asserted, he left after infidelity.

The Rev. Dromgoolle, when cornered, admitted the ministers say, having two wives, but declared that he only recently ascertained that his second wife had a husband living, and she at once left him and returned to Washington.

The Rev. Dromgoolle has conducted services regularly since his arrest, and says he will continue as pastor, not recognizing the action of the Ministerial Conference.

NO TRACE OF EITHER KEEPER OR LUNATIC

MONCTON, N. B., May 24.—No trace has yet been found of the lunatic who made his escape from the Maritime express Wednesday, and the I. C. R. police who went out today, were unable to find the keeper who is supposed to be still searching in the vicinity of the escaped man. People who live in the locality have seen nothing of either.

It is possible for your STAR Want Ads. to be productive of more results by wording your advertisement properly. For instance, in renting rooms the answers will be better and more numerous if you tell the size, price, direction, locality, accessible car lines, etc., than if you merely give the street address. Tell the whole story, and readers will be interested. Think before you write. Word your ad. carefully.

WIGGINS EXPLAINS WEATHER.

OTTAWA, May 24.—Prof. E. Stone Wiggins, of Ottawa, the well known meteorologist, has a good explanation for the prevailing cold weather. Wiggins, he says, starts about this time of the year, and travel in one of two courses. They may go up the course of the Mississippi river and cross north of Ottawa to connect with the Gulf of St. Lawrence, or they may cut across the continent, and passing south of Ottawa, find the Gulf by that route. As is well known the action of the cyclone is such that it has a strong attraction for winds, and pulls them in to it from all sides. Prof. Wiggins says that this year the cyclone has taken the course south of Ottawa, and is attracting the cooler breezes to blow across the capital.
