BREEST PARAGRAPHS OF ORDIN-ART HAPPENINGS.

cees on the Visit of the Right Honorable Sir Wilfred Laurier E. O. M. G.—The Premier's Wonderful Personality Con-quers St. John as it Conquered Europe. The people would fain have said—Linger Longer Laury.

> Canada would be sorrier If she had not Laurier! With Laurier out Out lawry her lot!

Is Union street, Carleton, going to slide into the harbor? That is the question, The authorities say it will not and it is to be hoped that their prediction will come true. The wharf went tobogganing into the harbour once before and we do not want one of the streets to follow suit.

People would like to have heard the great Tarte whose fame partakes more of the nature of notoriety perhaps than real distinction. But he opened not his lips. They say that he knows how to pick out the plums. But then where else should the plums go but to the tart.

And by the way, there is one thing noticeable about leading Salvation Army officers. They are almost without exception, that is the men, distinguished by strong square chins and full mobile features that respond readily to changes of emotion. It is a face that draws out the sympathy of audiences, the effect being ced by their full powerful, and well modulated voices.

The Booth tamily is one of the greatest teams in the world. We have had Papa Booth and various other Booths here and this week we had his daughter Eva. She has zeal and courage, has been through all sorts of experience in the progress of her work of carrying out the central thought of the Holy Book of helping her brothers. She holds her audiences spellbound and is one of the great women of the close of the nineteenth century.

There were no less than thirty or thirtyfive legislators attending ceremonies in connection with the opening of the exhibition on Tuesday, about equally divided between members of the Dominion and provincial houses and among them there was a good sprinkling of honourables. If these men are interested enough to attend the exhibition they ought to be interested enough to help it along with substantial grants. They got nothing this year from the governments.

There is some talk of the Ancients comng here for their annual fall outing. There will be "a hot time in the old town" if they come after their conquests in old England. These New England pioneers of bon vivants will expect much in the way of entertainment. Dinners at 50 cents a plate might, in the estimation of the aldermen, do for the premier and the cabinet ministers but it would not do for the Ancients. Oh, no! They are not Puritans even though they come from Ibsen-reading bean-eating Boston. Fifty dollars a plate would suit them better. If our city is going to invite them they had better negotiate a new loan and make a sacrifice of their handsome improvements.

Wiltrid while here was presented with bouquets by Misses Maysie Willis, Faith Hayward, Emily McAvity and Daisy Sears and in all cases Sir Wilfrid was not satisfied with the bouquet but also claimed a kiss as well. Lady Laurier was not here her tuture husband; it will bring a wish to which explains it. But the premier is a lover of children and makes himself agreeable to them. Little Miss Sears made the presentation at the depot and she and her mother accompanied the right honourable as far as Westfield in his private car. He made himself very pleasant to the little girl and it was evident that the social side of his nature is well deve-

A fact that well exemplifies the wondertul power of influence is the manner in which people who associate much together begin to resemble one another in a more or less degree. This is especially true in the case of man and wife, and instances are numerous when, after some years, if they are at all congenial, they begin to look like each other and in tastes and manner me very similar. In reality they carry out the marriage contract and become one. But there are other instances of this. A city merchant has an employee who is in many respects an enlarged edition of himselt in manner of speaking, general carriage of his person and little eccentricities.

SHADES OF CITY LIFE It is quite noticeable and is a very good al-

The beauty of our shool system is shown in the fact that nowadays there is no one without education. Fvery child goes to school and every family has a newspaper.

There are, so Chairman Trueman of the Board of school Trustees told the Premier over 6000 children in the city schools which shows up well in comparison with the city's population of about 40,000. There are five daily papers with a total city circulation of probably 1200. (There are not the figures of the cirulation editor.) Among 800 or 900 families these divide up into more than one paper to a family. At last Saturdays's meeting of the Council the aldermen indulged in some pleasant benter in regard to the political proclivities of the tide of St. John harbor. They were talking about the excursion to be given the Premier about the harbor and through the falls. One aldermen asked if the tide would serve. "Ol course it will, said the Mayor; it has get to zerve for the premier." Will, if it won't, said Ald. MacRae, we will command the sun and moon to stand still." Then Ald. Christie wanted to know if the tide wasn't tory. 'No,' said Ald. Purdy, 'it is liberal because it's free."

But it would seem to me that it is mugawump, because it leans both ways and part of the time it is on the fence.

Let us take, first of sill, those relating to times and seasons. We find, at the outsef, a statement about February weather; 'Il Feberweer be fair an' clear, the course, and counter-charms. But the outsef, as statement about February to the course, and counter-charms. In the course, and counter-charms. The beauty of our shool system is shown in the fact that nowadays there is no one relating to times and seasons. We find, at the outset, a statement about February weather; 'It Feberweer be fair an' clear. There'll be twa winters in the year.' This further south is limited to Candlemas Day. The belief in the potency of dew collected on May Day morning, especially as a cosmetic, exists in Galloway as it did in Lonon in the days of Pepys. On Sunday it was unlucky to out 'hair or horn;' and, as everywhere, great care must be taken in the disposal of the 'clippings;' on Saturday a piece of work should never be begun.

On New Year's eve, which bears the wide spread name Hogmanay, the fire was banked up with special care, for ill luck came to the house when out and to those who gave a turf next morning to light it again. Lucifer matches, at any rate have been a safeguard to neighbours. In fact on New's Day you must neither sell, nor lend, nor give, outside the house, which obviously, is not the centiment of our neighbours across the Channel; but inside its head formally presented some food and drink to all its inmates early in the morning, and even gave a little grain to his horses and cattle. There was a general rule that on New Year's morning something should be brought into the house before anything was taken out of it, and neither ashes nor 'slops' were to be carried. Much depends on the 'first foot;' that is, the first visitor. Some persons were harbingers of ill luck-women were always among these, particularly if they were walking baretoot. Even on meeting them outside, some people would turn back and give up an expedition. Candlemas was an important day in the schools. The boys and girls brought presents to the master, generally money; then he ap-It is good to be a premier. It seems to give unlimited osculatory privileges. Sir Wilfrid while here was presented with formed a mumming play. The moon was the centre of a numb of fancies. A hen should be set when it is waxing; the new moon, when seen for the first time, can help a girl to the name of pass if you turn the money thrice in your pocket; but ill luck comes if look at it through a window. All these beliefs are widespread. That a man should not build a house for himself was believed in Galloway, as elswhere, and those who quitted a house showed their good will by not cleaning it up, for this 'took away the luck.', Newcomers potected themselves by throwing a cat or a hen or some other animal, inside before they entered themselves, for this became the victim if a curse had been lett on the building. It was the rule in Galloway, as in most other places, that the beginner 'paid his tooting,' and new works of most kinds was consecrated by a libation, poured not on the ground, but down the throat, The clergy are held in honor, or at least Birth, marriage, and death have each their own customs and superstitions. As regards the second, there are many don'ts—though not to the extent of the well-known advice—don't meet a funeral or have the bridsscake chipped, or meet after the banns have been proclaimed, or hear your own banns read, or enter the house a'ter the wedding, till the minister has gone in, or let him shake hands with either till the knot is tied. The bride also, should not try on her wedding dress, when once it is finished nor should her mother witness the ceremony.

Portents of death are much the same in Galloway as in other places, and so also are many of the customs such as opening doors and windows, putting salt on the breast of the corpse, offering refreshments at the funeral, together with a host of superstitions about suicides, drowned folk, and the like.—N.
