RED CROSS TEA ROOM.

While in Montreal I had a delightful afternoon tea at the Red Cross tea room, which were then in Ogilvie's building. I say then, as they are to be moved to Bir's later. With a former St. John resident we came into a very pretty flag-draped room with artistic decorations in just the right shade of blue. The small tables were covered with blue linen cloths, having a red cross applied in the corner. The tea cups and tea service were all of blue ware, the tea pots having brown initialed covers which keep the tea fragrant and comforting instead of lukewarm, as it sometimes gets. The young ladies serving were dressed in blue linen dresses with white caps, aprons, kerchiefs and cuffs. Several

THE FLAG WAS THE OLD EMBLEM.

"The Cross of the Dauntless Knight." A thorough canvass was made of the city, and while there was no house to house visiting, the large establishments were covered and contributions solicited from everywhere. Not that it was necessary to solicit, the cause was certainly a popular one, and no one could refuse to give towards the comfort of the wounded soldiers. Over $1,900 was raised. At the heart of the whole thing was the Knights of Pythias Hall, the Y. W. P. A. were busy making tags, for the flags were sold before noon. It was strange, but it seemed to be always the case that the more poorly dressed the person the larger their generosity. It was the poor man who gave the quarter and the rich man who said, "Ten cents" and put in exactly that sum. However, one must remember that many are the calls, and that several large amounts came from the rich who gave of their wealth. The contributions included such a cheque of $100 and a ferry ticket.

MISS ANNIE L. BROCK, vice-president, and Miss Jessie Church, secretary of the Y. W. P. A., were convenors for the day, and to their organization much of the success of the effort is due. Convenors for the wards were Misses G. Heniger, G. Wales, Helen Church, Emaline Climo, Marion Drivine, Violet Stillphant, Anita Harrison, Elida Harrison, Ethel Daps, Ruth Milne E. McAvour, Miss Short and Miss Shaw counted the money. Mrs. P. R. Warren looked after St. John and Miss Pike and Miss McAvour. The association were assisted by members of the Loyalist Volunteer and Seven Seas Chapters, L. O. D. E. and friends of the Y. W. P. A.

Potatoes have again soared to such a price that they are beyond the reach of ordinary people. On Tuesday the Observer man was able to purchase a bag containing fifty pounds for $2.50 and hopes by serving them only as a garnish on Sundays and "when company comes," they will last until a new crop arrives. Today dealers quote $2 a barrel, and some farmers have been offered more during the past week than they have plentiful but the price is still good. Butter continues high. Oats bring around a dollar a bushel. —Harland Observer.

hope of being cured if you have some chronic sore or skin trouble. Zam-Buk has cured thousands of obstinate cases.

The superiority of Zam-Buk comes from its rare herbal composition and the skill with which Nature's healing substances are blended. Zam-Buk contains none of the severe animal fat or poisonous mineral drugs which are to be found in common ointments, but is all medicinal.

So refined are the herbal essences in Zam-Buk that the balm has unusual powers of penetration, and whereas an ordinary ointment remains on the surface skin, Zam-Buk reaches the underlying tissues where the disease springs from. It then kills the germs and cures from the root up. Zam-Buk cures are thus thorough and permanent.

Zam-Buk is of unique value in curing eczema, chronic skin, scalds, burns, scabs, and all skin injuries. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto: 50c. box, $1.25.

In marking the tenth anniversary of his experience in the theatrical world, Manager Golding has shown that we do not have to go to Broadway for a fine show as we can have one at the Imperial Theatre, St. John, N. B. This city surely should be congratulated on the possession of such a motion picture theatre as the Imperial and on such a manager as Walter H. Golding. Mr. Golding is always on the side of every movement for good and no one knows the many calls upon his one and only "help" in this or that patriotic effort. Every effort is met in the same courteous way and if it is at all possible the Imperial with its management is placed at the disposal of the enterprise. Almost every society in the city is indebted to Mr. Golding for assistance, and it is valuable assistance given with a hearty good will. There is no doubt about the patriotic sentiment displayed in the Imperial Theatre for advantage is taken of every opportunity to make the most of any celebratory and patriotic roll and their treatment of soldiers show plainly that it is not all flag waving either.

The Imperial is noted as being not only one of the best kept and the most comfortable of every one is well looked after by a competent and courteous staff. Mr. Golding is extended best wishes for many more successful years.

"Broadway Jones."

My advice to my readers is to go and see "Broadway Jones" for if you don't you will miss a very fine picture and a good laugh. Now it is not hilariously funny like some comedies, but it is George Cohan at his best and to those who know him that is enough said. Those who have not seen him will want to, to appreciate him. This second Artcraft picture is showing to us what a perfection the art of the motion picture is attaining. The production is perfect—when they wanted to show a cabaret they went to Murray's and took one there, and the Knickerbocker Hotel set is lavish in the extreme. Certainly "Broadway Jones" has a way with him. He just walks down Broadway and you are interested as if something was happening in a serial. The night photography is of course splendid. What would Broadway be without its white lights? The picture is worth seeing for the life in a big city anyway to say nothing of the personality of the star.

Much of the humor of the picture is in the subtitles which are taken from the play itself. George Cohan's great stage success, but there is plenty to smile over in the expressions registered by the fine cast and in the ludicrous situations of the plot. The supporting cast includes Marguerite Snow, Crawford Kent, Ida Darling and Russell Bassett.

Besides the special feature there were some lovely views shown of Southern California and while they were on the screen the audience were treated to several selections on the Edison (through the courtesy of W. H. Thorne and Co.) A re-creation of the bird song by Miss Anna Case, was especially charming, and music lovers in the audience applauded heartily. Scenes of natural beauty and of historic interest were among the California views, the Mission at Santa Barbara being most beautifully photographed. A Pathe British Gazette picture for us and stirring scenes of the Mediterranean and Miss Mollie King the heroine of new Pathe serial "The Double Cross Mystery," displaying some very attractive costumes.

The Imperial orchestra for the feature played special music which was both appropriate and very enjoyable.

"Pathe, The Purple Mask."

As I saw two more episodes of Pathe in Montreal I hardly know where I am in the story. If you can tell me anything more confusing than seeing a serial in the wrong order I want to know what it is. However, I think I can straighten out what was at the Unique today. First, Pathe and Capt. Donald Parr were quietly having breakfast at a hotel while the Baron Morales and his slim friend were removing the gold. It was rather a good situation, for the Secret Service men were watching the entrance to one place while the conspirators were slipping it out at another. Pathe and Parr apparently inspired by their good breakfast got back to the house where the gold was; find out the plot and start the chase. Parr gets after the treasure while Pathe gets into the vault and meets a man who is under a chair and points with a flashlight to a lighted fuse leading to a dynamite charge. Pathe manages to pry her little gun out of her pocket and bang!—the rope is shot in two. Then there are a few more good parts on board the ship where Parr is a prisoner from which he is rescued by Pathe. Believe me, this serial gets better and better and Mrs. Vernon Castle is certainly a sport and a very accomplished lady.

The Unique is also showing the ending of "The Purple Mask," which is called Love's Prisoner and winds up with the marriage of Patsy and Kelly, and a sweetly domestic picture of "Five Years Later," and a little Purple Mask, her parents' pride and joy.

LYRIC.

"Her Beloved Enemy."

Good Title, isn't it? Gets your curiosity aroused right away and women have not a monopoly of that fault either, do you think? This is a Pathe Gold Rooster Play, and an interesting one featuring Doris Grey and Wayne Arley. The story begins with Sylvia Leigh (Doris Grey) as a little girl at boarding school with a mysterious father who does not want her home for her holidays, but who loves her dearly. The picture of the boarding school, and the joy of the pupils over a hamper from home are very well done. Later Sylvia goes home where she finds trouble. She tries to straighten things out, but sets into rather an unpleasant predicament from which she is, luckily, a stranger comes to her aid. Later she meets this stranger at a ball and he tells her not to recognize him as it may cause him trouble. It all comes out in the end and everything is satisfactorily explained. The plot is a good one and the picture moves along well. There is quite a fight on a stairway where the stranger gets in one or two good ones. Other in the cast are J. H. Gilmore and Gladys Leslie.

Couldn't Keep Back Tears

When the Nervous System Breaks Down—Queer Feelings in Back of Head Caused Much Alarm.

Midland, Ont., April 22—Collapse or breakdown of the nervous system leaves one in a most pitiable condition. Strong, healthy-looking women, and men, too, will weep from helplessness and despair.

The case reported here was a most severe one, as is indicated by the hysterical condition, the pains in the back of the head and the futility of the many treatments used.

This is further evidence that the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a reasonable length of time will positively restore the most exhausted nervous system.

Mrs. S. Sharp, Midland, Ont., writes:

"About eleven years ago I had a serious nervous breakdown, and was so bad at times that I could not keep back the tears. I also had a queer feeling in the back of my head. Sometimes I seemed to be going backwards. I could not do any sewing, and finally could do no work at all. I tried other remedies and doctors' medicines, but they gave me no temporary relief. Last fall I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had not taken very many until I found I was getting better. I kept on taking them, and am at present greatly improved. I am now able to do my work, and they have strengthened me splendidly. I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous trouble of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmonson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.
