Facilities are on line

Preparations are underway as the 1983 World Student Games approach.

"I think (the preparations) are going extremely well at this time," says Ross Macnab, U of A vice-president (World University Games).

Three major facilities are being built on the University Campus for Games use. These are the fieldhouse, housing, and tennis courts.

"The fieldhouse, if anything, is ahead of schedule, if not on schedule," Macnab says, adding that the housing and tennis facilities are proceeding on time.

Housing in North Garneau has been modified from its original conception.

"There are fewer units than optimally hoped for at the beginning," he explains, but enough room will be available for attending athletes.

Macnab adds that these units are apartment style residences, with a living room and kitchen. These areas could be used for accommodating athletes. As well, the athletes could double up in the bedrooms. They will not need the same room or convenience the complex will offer a student, he adds.

"Construction of city facilities are on time and on budget," says City of Edmonton liaison to the Games Corporation, Ron Ferguson.

Among the facilities the city will provide are an expansion to Commonwealth Stadium, and the completion of the Convention Centre. Expansion of Commonwealth Stadium means construction of extra seating and upgrading of the track.
