 Complaints have been numerous in town lately of parties finding their wood-piles disappearing very suddenly and mysteriously. Woodpiles have not been the only attraction for these night prow-lers, whoever they may be. Not long since a resident of Main street discovered that his pork barrel had been depleted of considerable of its contents while re-maining in an outer apartment of the house. Stringent measures should be adopted to eatch these fellows who have such a strong attachment for their neigh-bors' property. In the meantime it will be well to keep a shap lookout and not leave anything of particular value ex-posed.

At a late meeting of the Public School Board it was decided to have one hun-dred young maples planted in the grounds surrounding the new school building. This is one commendable step forward. The next one suggesting itself is to have the grounds haid out with shrubbery and flower beds. Before this is undertaken, however, it night prove well worth the slight expenditure entailed to appoint a delegation of trustees to visit some of the obler schools of the province in order to arrive at the best mode to be followed in decorating the premises.
