T. H. Belyea, P. M., Proves That
Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Permanently

Some Years Since He Used Them
Now And He Has Had Good Health Ever Since—Story of Well-Known New Brunswick Man.

Lower Windsor, Carleton Co., N. B., Feb. 19.—(Special)—"Yes, I have good health ever since I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The speaker was Mr.
T. H. Belyea, postmaster here, and one of the most highly respected men in this part of the country. Asked to give his experience with the great Canadian Kidney Remedy Mr. Belyea continued:

"I had been troubled with my kidneys for a number of years. I tried several kinds of medicines, but did not seem to get any lasting benefit. Hearing Dodd's Kidney Pills so highly recommended I decided to try them and they made a complete cure of me.
That is two years ago and as I said before I have had good health ever since. I used Dodd's Kidney Pills." Dodd's Kidney Pills cure once and for all. There is no stage of form of Kidney Disease that they do not cure completely and permanently.

crease of 1,551 in the immigration to Canada during the seven months ending Jan. 31, as compared with the same time in the previous year. There was an increase of 978 from the United States and a decrease of 2,327 from the British Isles, and European points. The total arrivals were 57,624; of these 26, 286 came from the United States, and 27,355 by ocean ports.

ARE GOOD LOOKS VALUABLE?

If nature had her way every complexion would be clear and delicious. But many allow their blood to become weak—hence pimples, sallow skin, dark circles under the eyes. To skin, dark circles under the eyes. To have a beautiful complexion use Fer-rozzone regularly. It brings a rich, ruddy glow to the cheeks, nourishes the blood and thereby destroys hu-

Mine Workers Adjourn.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 19.—After being in session fifteen days, the delegates to the seventeenth annual convention of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, adjourned Saturday meantime a special referendum election will be held, and when the convention re-assembles it will be to receive the report of the tellers and install the newly-elected officers.

STARTLING BUT TRUE.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theatre in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives. Yet more than five times this number, or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice.
Every one of those deaths of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have ward off the dreadful disease by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a very severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. Wilcox, Logan, New York. Sold by all druggists.

His Own Chair.

"Beg pardon," said the garrulous passenger, "but I think I heard you addressed as professor. Might I inquire what chair you hold?"
"The chair right next to the door," answered the professor. "I run a shop of my own."

$25,000.00 GIVEN AWAY.

In the past year Dr. R. V. Pierce has given away copies of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, at an expense to him of $25,000.00 exclusive of postage. This standard book on medicine and hygiene, contains 1008 pages and more than 700 illustrations. It treats of the greatest and gravest problems of human life in simple English, from a common sense point of view. It answers those questions of sex which linger unspoken upon the lips of youth and maiden. It is essentially a family book, and its advice in a moment of sudden illness or accident may be the means of saving a valuable life. This great work is sent absolutely free on receipt of stamps to defray the cost of mailing and customs. Send 3 1-cent stamps for the book in paper binding, or 50 stamps for cloth covers.

TO CATCH A RATTLER

SIMPLY STOOP AND PICK HIM UP WITH YOUR HANDS.

If the Snake Is Coiled, Lay One Hand Over It and the Other Under It, and It Will Not Move to Get Away.
Some Facts About the Reptiles.

Here are some facts about snakes given by a young man who has studied them since he was ten years old:

The best way to catch a snake is to simply stoop down and pick it up, as you would a toad or a turtle. Sometimes with a rattler it is as well to put a stick on his head until you get your hand on him. If the snake is coiled, simply lay one hand over it and the other under it, and the snake will not move to get away.

There is a sure cure for snake bite than any brand of whiskey. It is strychnia sulphate, nitroglycerin and potassium permanganate, which may be carried in tablet form and must be dissolved in water and injected hypodermically.

This young naturalist was without his antidote the first time he was bitten by a rattler. It was on the Mojave desert, and he was prowling around among some old prospect holes. Stooping down to pick up a piece of copper ore lying at the mouth of a hole, he disturbed a big rattler, and it struck him. He placed his fingers on his hand and arm and started for camp. At the first camp he got a razor and bled his finger as well as he could, but it was nine hours before he could get to his medicine. The next day his whole side was numb and stiff, and it was three weeks before he entirely recovered from the effects of the poison. He had not neglected, however, to catch the snake, and this became his special pet.

The lesson he learned was that a quick movement in front of a rattler's eyes is a most dangerous proceeding and it will make a snake strike quicker than anything else. In handling strange rattlesnakes he is always a little careful, and usually draws them into his hand over his coat sleeve. A caressing little pat on the head seems to have the same effect on snakes as on other animals.

After putting a rattler on the floor of his room and teasing it, to make it coil and strike, this snake trainer picked it up in his hand, patted its head and then pried open the big mouth with a nail to show its fangs, seven on each side, in different stages of development, from one like a pin point to one the size of a bird's claw.
The large fang is likely to drop out at least once a year, but if injured it may be replaced three or four times a year.

There is about the same danger from the bite of a venomous snake as from the bite of a dog or a cat. It may or may not be serious. All depends upon whether a poisonous germ is transmitted and upon the condition of the blood of the person bitten.
Baby rattlers are fitted from the beginning with fangs and sacs of poison and are ready for business, but they have only a little button on their tails where the fangs are to come later.

In the matter of food snakes vary.
They cannot be treated to cold scraps of all kinds. In fact, most of them are rather particular about having their food served alive. If they are very hungry they may take something freshly killed, but they vastly prefer to do their own killing.

Gopher snakes live principally on rodents, and birds and occasionally small birds' eggs as delicacies. Rattlers also prefer rodents. Water snakes have a weakness for frogs. The coral snake, which is very common in the southwest, is quite a general enter.
He takes birds' eggs, lizards, horned toads, gophers, rats and frogs. He is a cannibal too. A coral snake will devour a rattler who sends her tail inches longer than himself. He did not eat again for some time.

Constricting snakes squeeze their victims until they can no longer resist.
Viperine snakes strike and poison their prey. Water snakes start right in on a frog while it is alive.

A snake's teeth are fine and sharp and numerous. They look like fine fish bones, all curved backward. The under jawbone is divided in the middle, and the food is worked in with an alternating movement of the lower jaw, aided by a forward and back movement of the upper jaw with its row of hooked teeth. With such teeth it would seem impossible for a snake to swallow disgusting, yet this young man made one give up a bird which had been partly swallowed and stuck fast by its beak having gone through the snake's body.

A snake's digestive organs may be slow, but they are very sure. Teeth, skin, hair and every part of the prey is digested. The hard, flinty teeth of a rat will be found, if the snake is dissected within a week, to be soft enough to crush in the fingers.

Snakes only eat to eat once in three or four months, though they drink much water. Through the winter they hibernate in captivity as when free.
Occasionally they may be roused and will possibly eat something, but they are very sluggish.

Constricting snakes have a powerful grip, but it can be broken instantly by unwinding from the head or tail.

Old Japanese Prints.

The collector of old Japanese prints must be guided in his selection by the quality of the paper, which should be soft and vibrant, the fibrous tentacles upon its surface often forming shadows where it has been exposed to the dust. The register must be perfect, each color being confined absolutely to its prescribed space. Perfection in the register is an infallible guide. The colors must be soft and melting, in many cases one tone shading into another, not harshly determined by the lines of the color—Extract From "Impressions of Ukiyo-ye," by Mrs. Dora Amsden.

When You Sneeze.

The alarm signal of a draft is a sneeze, which is a spasmodic effort of nature to start up the circulation and relieve the congestion. A person may be far gone toward contracting a cold before he sneezes, but the moment he gets this warning he should change his position, look around for the draft and move out of it or protect himself against it. A draft is something to be sneezed at—and to be avoided. Drafts cause more deaths than war, whiskey, football, consumption and yellow fever put together. Almost everybody who dies from disease dates his sickness from taking cold. This is especially true of elderly people. Yet it is a matter in regard to which there are great ignorance and inattention.

Difficulties of English Tongue.

"It makes warm," said the French man, wiping his brow.

"You mean it is warmed—not it makes warm," said his English friend laughing. "You remind me of the Frenchman at the English Alpine Club."

"This Frenchman said enthusiastically to a red-faced, stout Englishman, with calves as big as barrels:

"Ah, you have climb 20. Matterhorn? It is a foot to be proud of."

"Pardon me, the Englishman returned. You don't mean foot. You mean feet."

"Ah," said the Frenchman, "you

THE KAREN WOMEN.

They Have Peculiar Ideas of Personal Beauty and Adornment.

Like the Siamese, the Karen women are not good to look upon and do not improve their appearance any by the style of ornaments they affect.
When very young their ears are pierced to admit a small round stick, which is gradually lacerated in diameter until by the time the little girls have become women their ears easily accommodate a two inch disk of blackened bamboo. This stretches the ears hideously, as may be imagined, and when the ornament is laid aside temporarily—well, picture the thin strip of pendent ear lobe! As a rule, the Karen women wear their hair long, but, like the Siamese, some cut it short and others again keep in cropped close, except on top of the head, where it is allowed to grow to its natural length, which does not add to their by no means overabundance of good looks. Sometimes the unmarried woman wears a breast cloth, but for the most part men and women wear a loin girdle, and sometimes even that is set aside in hot weather.

To thoroughly appreciate the Japanese women one should begin the far eastern trip at the Malay peninsula, journeying thence through Siam, Annam, Canton and China, though I confess to preferring a good looking Chinese girl to the alleged Japanese beauty.

Bracelets and necklaces of bamboo are the other usual ornaments, except when they can afford a narrow neck-band of silver, which protects, so it is believed, against many evils that lurk along life's wayside, even in the jungle. The men also wear this neck-band and bamboo an inch in diameter and about four inches long struck through their ear lobes. Some of the boys are rather good looking. They wear their hair in a knot like a horn on the forehead or at one side or the other of the head or on top, and usually a turban crowns the topknot. All in all the Karens differ not a great deal from the Siamese in physiognomy, but the people in this section of the far east shade into one another rather easily—Caspar Whitney in Outing.

CUSTOM.

Custom may lead a man into many errors, but it justifies none.

Custom, though never so ancient, without truth is but an old error.

Custom is the tyranny of the lower human faculties over the higher.

It is hard to abolish a custom once introduced, however foolish or effeminate.

There is no tyrant like custom and no freedom where its edicts are not resisted.

If you are determined to live and die a slave to custom, see that it is at least a good one.

It is of great advantage when the customs of a nation are such as are likely to lead to good habits among the people.

Custom is the sovereign of mortals and of gods. With its powerful hand it regulates things the most violent.

Custom governs the world. It is the tyrant of our feelings and our manners and rules with the hand of a tyrant.

Bells.

Bells have been employed in association with religious worship since the early days of Egypt. Cymbals and hand bells and small crotals served for the festival of Isis. Aaron and other Jewish high priests wore bells of gold upon their raiment. In camp and garison the Greeks employed bells. The Romans announced the hour of bathing by their melody. Copper and tin, the old composition, is still regarded as the best bell metal. Steel has been tried, but does not make a successful bell. Glass bells are mellow and beautiful in tone, but the material is too fragile. The one metal which is impossible is that which everybody imagines makes the best bell—silver.

Battle of the Herring.
