C. G. I. T. HERE IN CONFERENCE

Nearly One Hundred Girls From all Parts of County—A Splendid Program

A very successful C. G. I. T. Conference was held in the United Baptist church, Hartland, Saturday afternoon and evening, under the leadership of Miss Marjorie Trotter, Maritime Girls' Work Secretary. The first session was opened at 2.30 when about 80 girls registered coming from all over the county. Following is the program:

2.00—Song led by Miss Estabrook.

2.30—Opening ceremony led by Miss Margaret Kennedy, president of the C. G. I. T. department of Hartland Baptist church.

3.45—Ten talks were given on the lives of famous women by the following girls: Ruth by Eva Carter, Esther by Margaret Cluff, Joan of Arc by Myrtle True, Queen Victoria by Kathryn King, Jenny Lind by Amelia Hayward, Sophia Wright by Dorothy Morse, Anne Judson by Helen Rideout, Clara Barton by Glenna Rideout, Florence Nightingale by Clara Kelly, Edith Carr by Mildred Dickinson.

4.15—Pageant—The Gate which leads to womanhood. This was very effective and well rendered by 20 girls of the Hartland group.

4.45—Miss Trotter led a very helpful discussion with the girls on C. G. I. T. work.

5.15—The girls enjoyed games on the hall which Mr. Teddie has very kindly given the girls and boys of the C. G. I. T. and C. S. B. T. groups, the use of for the winter.

6.15—A banquet was served in the vestry of the Baptist church. Over one hundred girls and leaders sat down and enjoyed the good things served by members of the Philathen and Junior Philathen classes. The following toasts were then given. To the King, proposed by Muriel Miller; responded to by singing, God Save our King. To the Church, proposed by Kaye Seely, responded to by The Church. One Foundation. To the Home, proposed by Inez Smith, responded to by Mabel Nevers. Leaders of Today, proposed by Victoria Irvine, responded to by Mrs. G. F. Bolster. Leaders of Tomorrow, proposed by Miss Kingston, responded to by Elizabeth Hayward.

The various groups had their own songs and yells which were heartily sung and applauded.

Miss Trotter held the girls in very close attention while she related the story of the "Three Weavers," emphasizing the need of teen-age girls choosing the highest and best things of life.

Sunday morning the girls attended service in the Baptist church and set together in reserved seats. Sunday afternoon at 2.45 the closing session was held. Miss Mildred Orser presided. Miss Doris London read the Scripture lesson followed by a solo beautifully rendered by Miss Elizabeth Hayward. Miss Trotter then gave her closing talk on "The Coming of the Kingdom," and how the teen-age girls can help to realize it. She opened her address with an elaborate picture of Christ growing into young manhood and accepting the call to the establishment of the Kingdom. She then proceeded to show how teen-age girls may help to establish this Kingdom by cultivating the qualities of Truthfulness, Sincerity, Unselfishness, Consecration. She closed by urging the girls to follow ever upward life's high quest and find through knowing God the very best.

Following are the girls who were in attendance together with the names of their hostesses.

HARD TO KEEP A GOOD MAN DOWN

A. W. Phillips, Burned Out at Bristol Week Ago Today Is Open for Business Again

True is the saying that "it is hard to keep a good man down." Just a week ago today the big and widely known store of A. W. Phillips at Bristol with its entire contents was completely destroyed by fire. Undaunted with this disaster, with characteristic courage and enterprise, he has arranged to take over the M. W. Caldwell store and stock and he is now open for "business as usual."

Mr. Phillips carried substantial insurance as every wise business man does, and is able to go ahead restocking the Caldwell store with fresh new goods. On Monday he left for Montreal and other Canadian markets where he expects just at this season to purchase goods at rock-bottom prices. Since the fire Mr. Phillips has taken into copartnership his son-in-law, H. R. Marich, and the new firm will do business under the name of A. W. Phillips & Co. Mr. Marich will also go to Montreal this week to assist in the restocking.

In a letter to The Observer Mr. Phillips states that he wants to thank all the people from far and near for their kind help and practical expression of sympathy. "We certainly never knew we had so many friends until the hour of need and it is certainly a comfort to us." He is hoping his old customers will stand by him, as the new firm will need the help of everyone and will promise to give, as always before, the best trades and values.

Mr. Phillips wishes the people who owe him money to call and pay the old accounts as every cent of available cash is needed right now.

AT THE HARTLAND UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

"In remembrance of me" or the meaning of the Lord's Supper will be the subject of the sermon at the Hartland Baptist church next Sunday night. Many good people look upon this service of the church as a means of salvation while others regard it with feelings of superstition and so absent themselves from the Lord's Table. What did our Lord really mean by this service? Let us hear about it Sunday night.

Sunday morning the pastor will take for his subject "Withered Faintness."

In connection with the evening service there will be a reception of members and at the close of the service the communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

MAY TAKE OVER THE FACTORY

W. G. Briggs of Bristol Looking Over Property of Hartland Manufacturing Co. With View to Operating Wood-working Plant

W. G. Briggs, whose wood-working factory and grist mill at Bristol were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago was here on Saturday conferring with H. H. Hatfield in the matter of taking over the wood-working plant of the Hartland Manufacturing Co. and commencing work this spring. Mr. Briggs informs The Observer that if suitable arrangements can be made he will come here and make the effort of putting the factory on a profitable basis. This would be an excellent thing for the town and Mr. Briggs should be given every encouragement. All the housebuilding materials used here of late years have been brought in from other towns, the product of outside labor and enterprise, while this town should be built up of materials manufactured here. Not only should this be the case, but there is no reason why a properly managed wood-working factory might not be supplying materials to all the surrounding country.

The building which houses the Hartland plant was built through the enterprise of the late R. W. Richardson some twenty-five years ago. Mr. Richardson was a progressive man and was largely instrumental in giving Hartland its first building boom. He built many houses here. Later the factory was operated with J. P. Alcora as manager, but was top-heavy with managerial and clerical force, there being a larger office staff than operating crew. For a number of years the plant was idle and W. H. Keyes became manager for the owners, for a time, and then operated under lease, with fair success. The war came and mounting building costs made business too slow to be profitable. Still in war times Hartland Manufacturing Co., Ltd., with H. H. Hatfield at the head, took the plant over and added machinery for the manufacture of potato starch and flour, but the whole industry died with the closing of the war. For several seasons the wood-working plant has been operated only spasmodically, but there now seems hope that the business may be revived and made to pay.

BARACAS ANNUAL MEET MAR. 4

The annual reunion and business meeting of the Baraca class of the United Baptist Sunday school will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Miller on the evening of March 4. Besides the members of the large class a few other friends will be invited. The occasion is planned to be a "New Brunswick Literary Evening" and a program made up of the literary work of local and provincial writers will be heard.

Mrs. Miller has taught the class for years and these annual reunions are very bright occasions for the members.

Edmund Robinson who was brought to Hartland from his home at Armand suffering from a serious ailment was recently operated on by Dr. Belyea at the home of Mrs. P. C. Barber, R. N.
