THE general election in New South Wales has greatly strengthened the protectionist and federal parties in the Legislature. Mr. Reid the premier of the free trade Government, has had his majority of 40 cut down to three, and it is a question whether the protectionists will not prove to be in the ascendant when the Assembly meets. The result is favorable to the federalist movement, as the difference between the free trade tariff of New South Wales and the other colonies has been one of the main difficulties in the way of a settlement.

THE Moncton Times says: That bloated democrat, Sir Louis Davies, who a year or two ago made it a point to travel in second class cars and smoke his clay pipe with the heavy handed nose-tail, like that other "up to the hilt democrat," Sir Wilfrid Laurier, has had his views considerably modified since his accession to office. He no longer has any use for second class cars—one of Mr. Blair's luxurious Wagons is not even good enough for him or his family; nothing but a private car suits the taste of this quondam democrat.

Maladministration in the Yukon

EVIDENCE is accumulating from day to day of the rascally conduct of the officials appointed by the Dominion Government to administer the laws and regulations in the Yukon district. More than this, the Government have shown and continue to show that they are not desirous of initiating any investigation into the charges made against their officials, in this matter. No other conclusion can be arrived at than that they desire to leave Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, free to manipulate and mismanage affairs in this district, through his heels, as to him and them may seem best, as regards their personal interest. So shockingly glaring has become the maladministration in the Yukon district that several Liberal papers have manifested sufficient independence to break away from the morose management of the Government and are subservient, and have made the public acquainted with something of what has been going on in these regions for some time.

son City letter in the St. John Globe, is a case in point: "The administration here is rotten to the core. Every official is looking out for his own interests only, and if a minor without influence wants to find out anything he has to grease somebody's dirty paw. One cannot even see the mining records to find out what claims are or are not recorded without bribery and corruption. This is the greatest dissatisfaction shown on all sides about the way things are run."

"A number of indignation meetings have been held, but they have not amounted to anything. The officials also use their knowledge illegally in staking claims on the richest creeks. I myself know of one case in which an official sent a man to stake a claim for him on Dominion creek, and when the claim turned out to be no good refused to pay the $100 promised for the job. Later on the same official got the same man to stake another claim on El Dorado, a bench claim promising him $115 for doing it. The man staked the claim, but when the official told him to go and get his money for it, the man made excuses and is still holding the claim. So he got even. Of course the claim was first made out in the man's name, and was to be made over to the official. This claim may prove to be a very good one, as it is in a good locality."

Certainly the indictment above recorded is pretty severe, yet it is but a sample of the evidence accumulated from various points of the gross mismanagement in the officials of the Yukon. Here is another specimen from another Liberal paper, published in the west. It is in the form of an interview accorded Samuel Taylor, of Middleburgh, who describes himself as a staunch Liberal. "Dawson is dead," says he, "What is the cause?" "The miners cannot stand the 10 per cent. imposition on the gross output and the government plan of reservation of claims is very unsatisfactory. The commission had the power to remit the royalty—where it worked too much hardship, but the whole thing was unsatisfactory. The water front lease to Macdonald and Morrison is a matter which gave very general dissatisfaction. This firm was to give $1 to the government for every foot rented, and they charged in turn from $8 to $12 per foot. The whole thing was an outrage. A miner could not land a boat in front of Dawson City without paying dearly for it. Mr. Taylor knew of several persons who were anxious to bid for the privilege owned by Macdonald and Morrison and he thinks if tenders were called for at all, that the notice must have been very short. But certain newspapers say that the Americans are doing all the grumbling." "Nothing of the kind," replied Mr. Taylor indignantly. "The complaints are chiefly made by Canadians and British miners from Australia and South Africa, are loud in their denunciation of the regulations and the administration of the country."

Mr. Taylor proceeded to describe the difficulties experienced in recording claims. He instanced the case of a man who had recently come from Dawson with $15,000 or $20,000. This man put down a whole in a side hill claim, and struck it rich. He did not go to register his claim right away, and while he was working some one got wind of his discovery and went and recorded the claim in his own name; so when the discoverer came to record he told the claim was already recorded. After enumerating many other instances of gross mismanagement Mr. Taylor says there seemed to be a "side-door" for nearly everything in Dawson City, and the man who was prepared to pay a few dollars always had an advantage at the government offices, over the individual who simply stood on his rights. There was a "side-door" at the gold commissioner's office and another at the post office. For the payment of $5 to a clerk a man could get an advantage over others who had stood in line for hours.

Mr. Wade recently returned to Winnipeg from Dawson City, and undertook to make a defence of his conduct. To this defence the Winnipeg Tribune, edited by Mr. Richardson, a parliamentary supporter of Mr. Laurier's made moderate but powerful reply. In the course of his article, Mr. Richardson says: "Mr. Wade, in an interview, has asserted that all stories of malfeasance or mismanagement on his part are 'slanders.'" This assertion, of the capacious intellect of the local machine organ, is conclusive proof that the complaints which have come from all quarters are simply the fabrications of an unsuccessful and disgraced adventurer. We have reason to believe that the organ knows a great deal more than it affects to, about the real condition of matters in the Yukon, but of course that would make no difference in what it publishes as its business is not so much to publish facts as to promote the supposed interests of its masters, upon which we fear it operates in a most boomerang fashion. However, the Tribune is prepared to possess its soul in patience till events force a disclosure of the real situation in the Yukon. And it will not be compelled to wait long. The fact is, however, that the Tribune's ventures the prediction that the pressure of developments and public opinion will be such as to render an investigation unavoidable. Mr. Wade has referred to him as Registrar of Mines, whilst it knew he was really Crown Prosecutor. When Mr. Wade's appointment was announced it was given as Registrar of the Yukon district and Crown Attorney. We believe that at present these are Mr. Wade's offices. But this is a mere trifle which has no bearing whatever on the question at issue, which is whether Mr. Wade squitted himself from the Yukon, and the importance of the matter to Canada, both direct and indirect, has not been realized. One thing is very certain, and that is that British travellers and journalists have been, without exception, amazed, surprised and saddened by what they have seen and heard there. They have been accustomed to contemplate with justifiable pride the record of British government in other lands for able and entirely honest administration, and to congratulate themselves on the high standards and ideals which are lived up to by British officials at home and abroad. They have experienced from no less a personage than Col. Donville, Grit M. P. for King's, N. B. He recently returned from the Klondike where he has a heavy interest, and where he went to represent England from the Klondike. He freely and forcibly disapproved, while at Winnipeg, the deplorable condition of affairs that exist at Dawson City, due to official rascalities. The Colonel intimated as a member of Parliament he would be heard from in the House. In the meantime he would not care to go further than to say that the Government should at once appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the very serious charges made in such a wholesale manner, and power should be given the commission to deal with all cases, that is to see that justice is done to all who have been cheated and swindled. Surely we have here a pretty kettle of fish.

The Paulist Mission in the Cathedral.

THE mission for the men of the congregation closed in St. Dunstan's Cathedral at half-past three on Sunday afternoon last. The attendance was large, and the closing exercises were very solemn. The sermon on the occasion was preached by the Rev. Father Hughes, and was on perseverance. A baptismal font, appropriately decorated with lights and flowers, was erected in the sanctuary, and at the conclusion of the sermon all present rose to their feet, held up their right hands and solemnly renewed their baptismal vows. The Papal benediction was then given; this was followed by a grand Te Deum, and the services were brought to a close by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. During the men's mission about one thousand six hundred and fifty approached the Sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist. This number added to the two thousand women, places the number who approached the Sacraments during the two weeks' mission at about three thousand six hundred and fifty, or about all the communicants of the congregation. During the two weeks of the mission the Church was crowded at all the services, beginning at five o'clock in the morning. The excellent instructions and sermons of the Fathers were listened to with the greatest attention, and all the exercises of the mission were attended to with scrupulous exactitude. The Sacraments were approached after careful preparation, and apparently with the most profound devotion. With the grace of perseverance, which can estimate the lasting benefits that must result from such a mission!

One result of the mission was the signing of the total abstinence pledge by nearly two thousand members of the congregation—over one thousand women and about eight hundred and fifty men. Father Clark preached a powerful temperance sermon to the men; but it must not be imagined that these pledges were signed in a moment of excitement immediately consequent upon a strong appeal to the feelings against the evils of intemperance. They were signed after due deliberation. The cards were distributed to the people's evening service in the Church to take home with them, and twenty-four hours afterwards they were taken up. It will thus be seen that each one who signed this pledge had ample time to consider. Should all those who signed this total abstinence pledge have the grace to persevere in the good resolutions that a giant stride forward shall have been made in the temperance cause. Such a consummation would be a practical advance in the cause of genuine prohibition. The mission on the whole was without any doubt a most gratifying success. Let us hope and pray that all who have been so highly privileged as to assist at the exercises of the mission and to partake of the spiritual benefits attached thereto, may have grace to persevere in the good resolutions they have taken.

As previously announced, Father Elliott commenced in the Church on Sunday evening last, a series of four lectures intended for the special benefit of non-Catholics. Of course Catholics attend, and attend in large numbers, at these lectures; but the members of the non-Catholic community are specially invited, and the Catholics are expected to give way, in the matter of seats, for the accommodation of their outside friends. At the door of the Church there is a question box, and into this all who have any questions to ask drop slips of paper with their questions written thereon. Before the lecture, or after the lecture, Father Elliott takes up these slips of paper, and answers them. It is quite unnecessary to state that he answers them well and to the point. The questions as a rule, are the same as one usually hears objected to certain doctrines of the Catholic Church. The lectures contain nothing controversial; nothing that hurts any one's feelings. They are able and lucid expositions of Catholic doctrine bearing on the subjects treated, and clear explanations of the points regarding which non-Catholics seem to have difficulties. The exercises commence each evening with some music by the choir. The Rev. lecturer then usually answers the questions that have been put in the box. Next he proceeds with his lecture, which generally lasts about an hour. After this, while the choir sing a hymn, lectures are distributed to those present and then the exercises conclude with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The attendance at these lectures has been very large, indeed the church has been thronged each night. The subject of Father Elliott's lecture on Sunday evening was "The Pope, his power, its origin and its limitations." He went on to show that the Catholic doctrine regarding the Pope as an infallible teacher is. He pointed out that the great mass of mankind had to be taught; they are so constituted by God. Moreover all religious denominations employ religious teachers. It was the object of our Saviour to impart wisdom and love for all time, and with His own authority. A book alone could not do that; hence he appointed an infallible teacher. This teacher was St. Peter, and Peter speaks through his successors, the Popes. The Rev. lecturer

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The city of Victoria, B. C., has contributed no less than two cartloads of provisions and $20,000 each towards the relief of the sufferers by the fire at New Westminster. The total insurance amounts to $1,050,300.

The schooner Zana M., coal laden, from Parraboro, N. S., for St. John, struck on the reef of Grindstone Island the other day, while trying to reach Five Fathom Hole for refuge from the storm, and almost immediately sank. Miner F. Foster brought up to Halifax a fine brick of gold from the Leary lead, Tangier, last week. It weighed 170 ounces and was worth $3,400. Another clean-up is being made and the total returns for the month promise to be larger than ever.

A Canadian postage stamp, valued at seven pence half-penny, Halifax currency, or sixpence sterling, sold by auction in London and sixty times its negotiable value. This stamp became obsolete in 1857.

Eight hundred and fifty million deans of eggs are used in the United States during the year. Placed end to end they would girdle the world twelve times at the equator. Yet this year is not excessive, since allow less than three eggs a piece to each person in the world.

Lammal L. Gilmore, of Lewiston, a lineman on the Lewiston, Brunswick and Bath electric road, was killed at Lewiston, Tuesday afternoon of last week, by a shock from an 18,000 volt wire. He was at work repairing a wire about three miles from the city when the accident occurred. Gilmore was about 20 years of age.

The highest balloon ascension on record was made from the Crystal Palace, Sydney, England, a few days ago, by Stanley Spencer and Dr. Berson. An altitude of 27,000 feet was attained, and a temperature of 61 degrees below freezing point. The occupants of the car were compelled to breathe compressed oxygen in tubes at 25,000 feet, the air had become so rarified. And 65 degrees below zero is nearer the North Pole than Professor Andree succeeded in getting.

The marked coolness of Admiral Cervera and his officers towards the Minister of Marine is much commented upon at Madrid. When the Admiral arrived last week the minister and his staff, in uniform and Cervera and his party at the depot. The Admiral halted before the Minister saluted, and said stiffly: "I am at the orders of your Excellency. I shall present myself at the Ministry today as my duty." The Admiral then started to leave. The Minister offered the use of his carriage to the Admiral, but the latter declined to accept it and entered another carriage.

Madame Paulmier of Paris, wife of Ernest Paulmier, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, has added another tragedy to the bewildering intricacies of the Dreyfus plot. Madame Paulmier on Friday entered the office of La Lanterne, and asked for M. Millerand. Millerand was absent, and M. Olivier who was present, stepped forward to receive the lady, who without waiting for any explanation whipped out a revolver and fired twice. Olivier fell to the floor wounded. Madame Paulmier was taken into custody, and when questioned only answered, "I wish to kill M. Millerand." She explained that La Lanterne had slandered herself and her husband because her husband had written a letter to General Champs, Minister of War, with reference to putting a stop to the attacks upon the army provoked by the Dreyfus case.

SUCCESSFUL AT LAST.

"I was a sufferer from neuralgia in my side, and headache. I followed numerous prescriptions without benefit and was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken only one bottle I realized it was doing me good and I continued taking it until I was cured." Mrs. CAROL FRANK, Georgetown, Ontario.
