The Chance.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Every one of us believes that he could amount to something while—do something big—if he only had the chance! We are convinced that it is not we who are lacking, but the chance to prove ourselves. It is a great thing to have, this chance to prove ourselves. In one of our newspapers I was reading the other day how the man who heads England's great fleet got his chance. He was a young lieutenant then and was in command of one of the several squadrons placed ashore in a sham battle, with orders to get their guns to the top of a steep hill. Jellicoe's squad got there first. It was only a little thing, but—

The Admiral asked who the young lieutenant was and from that day Jellicoe was given chance for promotion. How a Little Chance Became a Big Chance.

In a magazine article I read recently of how Sidney B. Williamson, head of one of the three great divisions of the Panama Canal, got his chance. Williamson, in 1889, worked under Colonel Goethals as the foreman of a gang of negroes on the Muscels Shoals Canal. The day after he was hired the colonel found Williamson down in a sandpit with the negroes, working away himself. The explanation of this unusual conduct was that the negroes were afraid of a cave-in and hung back, until Williamson threw dignity to the winds and led the way.

A little thing, that incident, but twenty years later Goethals still remembered and when Williamson asked for a job on the canal he got it, and a big one at that. The way in which he filled it is, of course, canal history.

This is the way two men "made good."

Plenty of Chances to Go Around. Now no man or woman lacks chances like these—that is chances to do their ordinary work in the best possible way. They come every day, in every life. The chance people are always waiting for and missing and complaining about is the chance to do really good work when somebody big is looking and the reason they miss it is simply because they are waiting for it, instead of doing the good things right along, whether anybody is looking or not.

Take advantage of the little chance to do good work that every day offers and you need not be afraid that you won't happen to be doing good work when the big chance of the great man's eye lighting upon you, comes along.

Questions and Answers.

Question: M. O. B. says she is a high school senior. She wants to go to college, but her parents, whose means are limited, want her to spend the money preparing herself for some particular work.

Reply: If M. O. B. has her own way to make, I quite agree with her parents in this particular case. There are many splendid schools leading to definite employment, such as kindergarten, corrective gymnastics, decorating, library work, etc.

Question: L. K. C. says she believes in woman's suffrage, but cannot answer the argument of her husband.

Reply: L. K. C. might ask her husband if conditions existing in states where men alone have the vote show that the privilege should be taken away from them.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Dandruin at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops falling.

BLAME CURRENTS FOR COLLISION.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—On the question of currents in the St. Lawrence River it is understood, depends largely the fate of the C. P. R. Company's $2,000,000 suit against the steamship Stord, for sinking the Empress of Ireland, and as the C. P. R. sought in the Admiralty Court to-day to show that the up-current caused the upward-bound Stord to ram the Empress, which was going down-stream, both vessels having supposedly been standing still in the fog prior to the collision.

The C. P. R. finished its side of the case to-day, when Pique Berlier, of the Empress, between Quebec and Father Point, testified to the phenomenon of upward currents in the river. He was positive that the Empress' steering gear was working well the night of the collision. He said if there had been anything wrong with it he would have noticed it.

The hearing of the case for the defendants may last several days.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Feb. 23, 1915.

At this time of year when changeable weather is the rule, many people who do not ordinarily suffer from chest and throat troubles, are liable to attacks, which are often very annoying. It is a great safeguard during the winter and spring months to have a box of Pine Tree Lozenges in the pocket. A few of these sucked at intervals when the slightest sign of roughness of the voice or hoarseness is apparent, or when the throat begins to feel dry or sore, will usually cut the attack short, or at least greatly lessen its severity. Pine Tree Lozenges contain the healing, soothing antiseptic essence of the Pine, with other softening and expectorant ingredients, and contains a sufficient amount of medicament to produce good results from the very beginning. Price 25 cents a box.

CARD TOURNEY.

An exciting card tournament, which was largely attended, took place at the Star Club Rooms last evening. The winners of the three prizes offered were Messrs. Reddy, James and Butler. At the close the chairman announced that the first of a series of lectures would be given on Thursday evening by Rev. Dr. Kitchen on "Louvain in History and Remembrance."

Makes Hair Grow

The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

It destroys the dandruff germ, the little pest that eats the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

Youthful Perpetrator

Of Serious Assault on Police Officer Peet, Rounded up—Made Severe Threats for anyone who would tell on him.

The mystery surrounding the dastardly assault on Head Constable Peet is cleared up, and the perpetrator of the rash act is Ronald Simpson, aged 16 years, who is now behind lock and key, having been sentenced to six months imprisonment, without the option of a fine, that being the severest penalty that could be meted out to him by that Tribunal.

It was on the night of the 16th that the episode happened. From the evidence disclosed it appears that two boys named Skeans and Hayes were together on the night in question and noticed Simpson, who was seldom a chum of theirs, standing in the dark near Holdsworth Street. They saw Simpson picking up a large package of a brick. Just then Head Constable Peet happened to come along the thoroughfare mentioned. Skeans and Hayes saw Simpson throw the missile at the officer who was at once seen to put his hand to the back of his head, where he was struck. Simpson then fled and up to the time of his capture had been keeping himself in secluded places. During the investigation of the authorities Simpson warned his comrades not to tell on him threatening them with a knife that he would have revenge. Detective Byrne interviewed Simpson on Saturday night last, and he informed that officer he had been to-night school on the 16th, which, on enquiry, was found to be untrue. Working on the case sufficient evidence was established for an arrest and last night Constable O'Keefe rounded up the suspect. While at the Police Station, Simpson was interviewed by Supt. Griffin, who was told by the accused he would have revenge on the man who said that he committed the assault. He was arraigned before Judge Knight and convicted. On being asked if he had any questions to ask or anything to say for himself, Simpson replied "No." His Honor commented strongly on the offence, intimating that it was beyond his comprehension how anyone could so liberally and without malice, commit such a foul deed. He then sentenced the accused. The charge of threat was not brought into account.

Things Seldom Just "Happen."

There are sound reasons if you look for them. Homestead Tea is as distinctive in cup quality as it is in name. This didn't just "happen." The reason is that in Homestead we use a proportion of the rich, strong teas of Northern India—teas grown in the district of Assam, where the tea bush is said to have had its origin. These teas when blended with the finer sorts of Ceylon tea give that rich strength and pleasing flavour possessed by Homestead.
