Ferdinand's Sweetheart.

LONDON, April 4.-It it announced that Prince Ferdinand of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, heir to the throne of Roumania. and the Princess Marie of Edinburgh are betrothed, and that the celebration of the event will be observed in Coburg at Easter. The match has the approval of King Charles of Roumania, Emperor William and Queen Victoria, but is opposed by the Czar, who is jealous of the growing influence of Germany and England in the Balkans, and was anxious that the Crown Prince should not marry an English or German princess.

Madrid Startled.

MADRID, April 4 .- Great excitement was caused here to-day by the discovery of an Anarchist plot to blow up the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday. One of the conspirators, however, was taken ill, and the attempt was postponed till to-day. The two men were shadowed, until they placed themselves before the door of the Chamber in the Cortes building, when they were arrested and searched. They were found to have in their possession conical bombs inclosed in cast iron cases eight inches long by three broad, with fuses attached. The bombs weighed each eight pounds, and appear to be loaded with enough dynamite to blow up the whole Cortes. caused here to-day by the discovery of an

"Very well," said this obliging Parsee, "I can be sworn by holding up my hand to the sky or, as we are fire worshipers, I can be sworn by standing by the fire or I can take some of the fire in my hand, or, as I have the seal of my prophet on my watch chain, I can swear by that." After solemn deliberation the court expressed preference for the seal as being something tangible, and thereupon the usher administered the oath, while the Parsee held on to his watch chain and appurtenances.

Sir Robert Denny's Hard Luck. Sir Robert Denny's Hard Luck.

LONDON, April 4 .- A good deal of sym pathy is being expressed for Sir Rober Denny, baronet, a descendant of the famous Sir Anthony Denny, to whom King Henry VIII. on his death bed gave a pair of gloves worked in pearls for having the courage to tell his Majesty that he was dying. Sir Robert's affairs are at present the subject of investigation in the Bankruptcy Court, although he says he would be solvent if he could realize on his property, which is of the estimated value of £195,000. Sir Edward, the present baronet's predecessor, had been a recluse some years before his death, occupied chiefly with philosephical speculations upon the mystery of life, the duration of the world, and that sort of thing. Nobody was a penny the worse for the old baronet's solitary deliberations during his life time, but two years ago his heir found himself saddled by a will with the obligation to publish two books, one entitled "Chart of the Prophetical Stream of Time," and the other "Seventy Weeks."

Nobody was able to make head or tail of the books, but they were duly published, and the incidental worky and expense. Denny, baronet, a descendant of the famou the books, but they were duly published and the incidental worry and expens-helped Sir Robert toward the Bankrupte Court, whence it is generally hoped he wil soon emerge creditably to himself.

The Secretary of State replied that the utmost expedition was being exercised to gather the papers. Application had been made to the Supreme Court, Toronto, Judge Elliot and the revising officer, London. The papers were voluminous, and would be brought down as soon as possible. Sir Adolphe Caron, in reply to a question by Mr. Taylor, said that it was not the intention of the Government to increase the interest upon postoffice savings bank detained control of all the cotton factories in the Dominion except one small one. The Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company, with a capital of $5,000,000, has bought out the colored cotton factories, while the Dominion Cotton Company, also with a capital of $5,000,000, had control of all the gray cotton factories. The same men are the organizers of both companies, so that really the whole cotton trade of the Dominion is in the hands of one gigantic monopoly. Each of the companies' capital Dominion is in the hands of one gigantic monopoly. Each of the companies' capital stock had been originally $100,000, and subsequently they had it increased to $5,000,000. This, Mr. Edgar said, should have aroused the suspicions of a government concerned for the protection of the purchasing public of the country. That the Government did nothing to protect the public was evidence to him that the statement to him was true that the men at the head of the combine—Messrs. A. T. Gault and D. Morrice—had contributed liberally to the elections of contributed liberally to the elections of 1891. The colored cotton combination was 1891. The colored cotton combination was only completed last Saturday. Mr. Edgar held the policy of the Government responsible for making this huge combine pessible, and contended that the Government had not taken ordinary precautions against the formation of the monopoly.

Sir John Thompson replied very briefly, denying that the Government had any responsibility for the company and promising that if it showed itself an oppressive monopoly the Government would reduce the tariff. But he contended it was premature to say it was a combine.

TORONTO, April 4.—A deputation representing the Pioneer and Historical Societies of the Province waited upon the Government to-day to ask for aid in celebrating the 100th anniversary of the history of the parliamentary government in Upper Canada. They purposed to have two celebrations, one at Niagara on July 16, to commemorate the issue of the first proclamation by Gov. Simcoe, and another at Toronto Sept. 17, to celebrate the opening of the first Parliament. It was suggested that in the latter case the new Parliament buildings ought to be declared formally opened, and that the corner stone of a monument to Gov. Simcoe ought to be laid.

The Tyne Full of Tied-Up Vessels-Heavy Failures in Business Anticipated.

The effects of the strike of the coal miners in Durham threaten to be more deplorable than was anticipated. The stocks of fuel in the large factories are almost gone, and it is probable that in a few weeks a number of heavy failures will be announced. There has never been so grave a crisis in the history of trade and industry in the North of England. All the berths on the River Tyne are occupied by vessels tied up by the strike, and the firms with a European reputation are in jeopardy. Huge coal yards, formerly the scene of the busiest activity, have now become idle.
