

Norfolk County Council Refuses To Approve Of Government Suggestion

Reeve P. E. Langford, Simcoe, Leads Bitter Attack On the Government Interference At Norfolk County Council Sitting—Letter From Associated Boards of Trade Is Cause of Scathing Comment.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Simcoe, June 8.—Declaring that the Government is becoming altogether too paternal and neglecting legislation to interfere in matters of direct individual liberty, the Norfolk County Council, in session here today, threw out entirely the suggestion that the council should endorse the appointment of women assistants to the county agricultural representatives, it being understood that such appointments would be experts in household science, medical inspection, nursing and lecturing at Women's Institutes.

The suggestion was contained in a letter addressed to the council by the associated boards of trade and chambers of commerce.

Reeve P. E. Langford, Simcoe, declared the council and the Y. M. C. A. had drained the home of all its influence, and now the Government was coming to step in and still further interfere with the home life. He expressed the opinion that the movement had been started by the Government, although the request came from the boards of trade, and added that the system of agricultural representation appears to be a fad and the appointment not "worth their salt."

Reeve Alex. L. Hutchinson, Charlotteville—If we make appointments in Toronto, it is upon us to do so there will soon be more appointments than there are people.

Used to Legislate.
Reeve J. L. Buck, Port Rowan, asserted that the Government has become altogether too paternal. There was a time when the Government used to legislate, but since labor got control of the department of agriculture, it has done everything to help the people.

On the vote being taken the request was turned down by a unanimous vote, as was also the request of the Government, the councillors claiming that if half a mill was added to the assessment the Government would immediately raise the county's share of the cost of the road building.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY IS WEARY REGARDING ANTI-UNION MOVE

Rev. Dr. Gordon To Meet Dissenters Today—Official Salaries Criticised—Budget Report Show $200,000 Increase—Larger Pensions For Ministers and Their Widows.

Toronto, June 8.—(By Canadian Press)—An anti-union party has been formed in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and there is some feeling of uneasiness among the pro-union forces over the possible lengths to which the dissenters will go.

Following the formal adoption today of the motion to embrace union "as expeditiously as possible," Dr. J. Scott of Montreal arose and after reading a lengthy protest against the action of the assembly, asked those who agree with his view to meet in the College of Pharmacy Building at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The dissent was held last evening. At the same time the reply of the special committee which was appointed to examine the charges in Dr. Scott's protest was read to the assembly by Principal McKay of Winnipeg, convener of the committee. The findings exonerated the assembly entirely of any action in bringing church union to its present stage.

Will Meet Dissenters.
Just before closing this evening Dr. Gordon, the moderator, announced that he would like to meet all those signing the amendment opposing union tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. It is understood the dissenters discussed yesterday the property interests of the Presbyterian Church, and to oppose the enactment of legislation ratifying the union of churches. There is another protest being presented early in the union debate by Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor, against going on with union proposals and this will be examined by the special committee tomorrow.

No Official Pledge.
The chief points of the findings of the committee on the Dr. Scott dissent were: That no official pledge was made by the assembly; that every constitutional step had been taken and the people, having been consulted on two different occasions, had given decisive votes for union; that the union had been kept, and all members of the assembly since 1917; that the forward movement of church union separate from the assembly had taken every step in accordance with its practice, and there had been no usurpation by the assembly of the people's rights; that the action of the assembly did not mean the disbanding of the church, but the carrying of the church into a higher unity and larger service; that the consequences assumed in the dissent, if the door of those who have been in the decision of the assembly had arisen in Canada by conditions in the country that could be met in no other way.

Criticize Official Salaries.
The general assembly this evening listened to an overture from the Matland Presbyterian, which offered some criticism of the official salaries. The matter came up while Dr. Drummond, chairman of the general board, was asking approval of some increasing list of head office officials was being viewed with considerable concern, and that the salaries of the officials were out of proportion to the main work of men who were doing the main work of the church. This was causing much discontent. The overture suggested that the salaries of heads of departments be fixed at $1,200 more than that of the assistant heads, and that the ministers in pastoral work, and that the salaries of the assistant heads be fixed at $1,000 more.

Dr. Drummond, replying, said the salaries proposed to be paid officials had been recommended by a committee of laymen to whom the matter had been referred. He thought the Matland overture was lacking in recognition of the facts, and by sending such a document to the members was doing the church more harm than good. The fact was that there were now fewer officials by six than the church had six years ago. The cost of living in Toronto, residence, officials, was much higher than in the towns surrounding.

Dr. J. C. Shearer wanted to know why one sub-secretary was paid $3,500 and another in the same department was paid the same kind of work was paid only $3,250. Dr. Pringle of Sydney, also said he could see no reason why the principal of Montreal College should be paid $4,250 and the principal of Halifax College $3,500 and a house. On his motion the college salary list was referred back to the general board for an explanation.

Budget Increase $200,000.
Dr. Robert Laird, chairman of the treasury board, submitted his budget calling for an increase of $200,000 in 1922, and it was passed without amend-

STRAWBERRY CROP IN NEED OF RAIN

Retail at 27 and 29 Cents Per Box Thursday.

There was a good demand on the local market for oats and hay on Thursday but no hay appeared, and the supply of oats was small.

Strawberries were not as plentiful as on Tuesday, and not of as good quality, but they were in the best of the week if they get rain. They were retailing at 27c and 29c, and wholesaling at 25c and 27c per box.

Live hogs, formerly selling at $5.50 and $5.75, have advanced in price to $5.50 and $5.75.

Asparagus sold at 75c per dozen bunches, a decrease from 90c and $1.00.

The egg and butter market is still firm.

One crate of English cherries was on sale at 50c per quart.

GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE DENOUNCED

Ernest Lapointe, M.P., Quebec, Tells C. M. A. Normal Conditions Would Come Sooner.

Replica of Napoleon's Coronation Chair Given To City of Quebec.

QUEBEC, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—A denunciation of the principle of government interference in business activity was made this afternoon by Ernest Lapointe, leader of the Quebec Liberal members in the House of Commons, before the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which met at a luncheon by delegates attending the annual convention of that body now in session here.

Mr. Lapointe argued that economic conditions were not the result of the government's interference, but of the government's failure to keep the field clear for the operation of the ordinary law of supply and demand. He made poor traders, were poor different industrialists, and were poor different operators. Mr. Lapointe said that Canada, with its vast resources, was not doing as well as it should, and that the government was interfering with the free operation of the market.

He said that the government was interfering with the free operation of the market by its various departments, and that the government was interfering with the free operation of the market by its various departments, and that the government was interfering with the free operation of the market by its various departments.

RAINS ARE HELPING GRAINS IN PROVINCE

Fair Acreage of Potatoes Despite Prices, Say Agricultural Men.

The following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario department of agriculture this week:

Early sown spring grains, where not put in on heavy clay, are looking well. Fields sown later are not so promising, although recent rains are helping them along.

Fall wheat is coming nicely into head in a number of counties, and is looking more thrifty than it did during the period in May, as timely rains have been very helpful. Rye has headed out and is filling well.

Clover is rather patchy in places and somewhat short in stand, and is not likely to give an average yield. However, it is probable that there will be more in pasture this year than last.

Grey is of opinion that sweet clover is not up to the average in growth and general appearance. Waterbury says it will be ready to cut within a week.

Renfrew speaks of peas as looking exceedingly well.

Corn is now coming along nicely, with the good rains and somewhat warmer weather. Essex reports the cut-worm as doing so injury to the crop. This insect has also been damaging other crops in various parts of the province.

Sugar beets are doing well in Essex. Kent reports some re-seeding of beets on account of dry weather at the time of the first sowing.

A fair acreage of potatoes is being planted, notwithstanding the slow and unsatisfactory market for last year's local production.

Orchard fruits, with the exception of cherries, are promising fairly good yields. Strawberry growers are finding that many of the first blossoms were affected by the frost, although a fair yield is yet assured. Norfolk estimates yields as averaging 4,000 boxes per acre as compared with 7,000 last year.

Live stock are in fine condition, generally speaking, but prices are low, and marketing comparatively slow. Lanark says that fewer calves are being raised. Milk is in generous flow, but prices are away down compared with the figures for several years. The price per cow is as low as $1.30 at an Elgin condenser. Feed quotes sales at $1.90 per 25 cents a pound in Huron and Dufferin, and 27 cents in Renfrew. Grey reports that cream in that county are at present working up to full capacity.

The latest cheese sales in the boards ranged from 15c a pound to 16c, 15c a pound. One representative says that some makers are having difficulty in disposing of their surplus whey on account of the scarcity of hogs.

Bacon hogs are selling at from 35c to 38.50 a hundredweight, 15.50 a small pig, however, are in remarkably good demand.

Peel quotes wool as selling as low as 5 cents a pound.

Dufferin describes farmers as being dissatisfied with prices now offered for farm produce, and adds that as a result they are doing little in the way of buying agricultural implements, etc.
