POBTET.

LOVE'S LIKE A FLOWER. Oh, Love's like a flower, that blos me in May, It blooms for an bour, then withers away; A phantom that hovers around her repose. A cloud o'er the sunbeam-a thorn o'er the rose. "Tis pleasing.

Though teasing, Then freezing. Perplexing alike to the grave and the gay; 'Tis trying, 'Mid sighing,

And crying, Then dying. Oh, Love's like a blossom that withers away: Oh, tove's like a bark that is borne on the sea, It wars with the tempest and strives to be free; But love, like the bark, that is toss'd up and down,

If wrecked 'pon the sand, leaves the lover to drown. 'Tis pleasing, Though teasing, Appeasing, Then freezing. Perplexing alike to the fair and the brave; 'Tis trying, 'Mid sighing, And crying,

Then dying. Oh, Love's like a bark that is toss'd on the wave

An almost Miraculous cure of a Bad Leg! Of Five Year's standing. The Patient had been Discharged from Guy's Hospital, without deriving the LEAST BENEFIT from that Institution. Mrs. FRY, residing at No. 35, Trafalgar street, Walworth, London, was some time since admitted as an In-door patient at Guy's Hospital, with a Bad Leg of Five years' standing. The flesh on the leg was in some places nearly as hard as bone, it resembled in appearance the trunk of an old tree, being in knots and lumps; it was greatly swollen, and NINE FRIGHTFUL ULCERS in it; she derived no benefit whatever at the Hospital, and returned to her home. Her case was so bad that for three years she was carried up and down stairs every day like a child, being perfectly helpless. She was in this deplorable state when she commenced the use of HOLLO-WAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS, which, in the course of shout Three Months, performed a perfect ways when of about Three Months, performed a perfect cure when every other means proved unavailing.

A Man's Face Prevented from being Eaten away By Cancerous Sores, by means of "Holloway's Ointment and Pills." JAMES WEBB, a Brewer's drayman, residing in Robin Hood Court, Leather Lane, Holborn, London, had a large hole which went through his cheek and several other Ulcers which were on both sides of his face, eating all the flesh from it. He was an in-door patient in Char-ing Cross Hospital for six months, without being able to hment get a cure. He expected that nothing could save his life until he was advised, as a lust resource, to use "FOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS." which minediately stayed the ravages of this terrible complain and ultimately healed all the Cancerous sores, and with he exception of frightful marks in his face, he is as well

A Case of a Loathsome Skin Disease, Attended with Dreadful Swellings of the Whole Body, that had resisted the treatment of nearly all *the Hospitals in London, cured by Holloway's Ointment and Pills. A child five years of age, named JONES, whose father is a shoemaker, living at No. 4, Horse Shoe Alley, Wilis a shoemaker, living at No. 4. Horse Shoe Alley, Wilson street, Finshiry, London, have been afflicted from the age of sixteen months old, with fearful and dreadful swellings all over her body, which used to affect her periodically, at such times her face would change its colour and remain perfectly BLACK; her body was all ways covered with large malignant sores. For this unknown complaint, the child was taken by her mother to nearly all the Hospitals in London, and most of the surgeons of eminence; none appeared to understand her disease, and she got no better from their treatment. As a forlorn hope HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and FILLS were tried, which not only gave relief but completely cradicated the disease from the system, so that the child is now restored to perfect health and not the
