To My Cousin,

James Hamilton, Esq., Parrillad, Glasgow, Scotland,

After an absence of a quatter of a century, during which friendly correspondence was regularly maintained between us-"An" are will we yet?"

Join all the graces in one genial soul, A trinity of virtues-God's first plan,-Mind, soul, and body under wise control, Each acting out God's will as best they can: Such art thou, Cousin, -EVERY INCH A MAN!

Home is to thee a garden of delights, A field where love and hope hath vernal spring; Mind over matter hath its daily fights, Intellect prevails-triumph songs to song! Long may thy useful life be spared to twine True friendly hearts round that dear heart of thine !

One kin in blood, and none less kin in soul, Nor parted we though seas Letween us roll!

JOHN IMRIE.

Toronte, Canada, January, 1895.

On the evening of the 17th inst., a very successful soirce was held by the Presbyterian congregation at Crawford, Grey county, for the increase of their Sabbath school library, and other purposes. The manner in which it was got up, on short notice, and the atyle in which it was executed reflects considerable credit on the youthful committee appointed by the congregation for that purpose. Music was furnished, and well performed by the choir of the Presbyterian congregation at Durham; both the vocal and the instrumental part of their service met the entire approba-tion of those immediately concerned, and the large audience were delighted, so that they were enthusiastically applauded each time. The church was chastely decorated for the ocsasion with evergreens, mottoes, emblems, and festoons, largely also the work of the committee—church was crowded; there were committee—church was crowded; there were but few speakers, only those belonging to the sister denominations adjoining, and these gave expression to the kindliest feelings to ward the congregation, and the success of their undertaking. Refershments were choice and abundant; and there was a smaller gathering next evening, at which the Crawford choir did credit to themselves. Proceeds reached the handsome sum of fifty dollars, which is thought to be amply sufficient for the object contemplated. the object contemplated.
