

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20301

3000
3000
3000

Statement by Mr. E. M. ... at the 1967 ...
Expanded Program of Technical Assistance and Special Funds
Thursday, October 12, 1967

Mr. ...

A little over two weeks ago, in his address to the General Assembly, the Prime Minister of Canada, the Right Honorable John G. Diefenbaker, emphasized the importance which Canada attaches to the role of economic and technical assistance in today's dynamically changing world. He also stressed the imperative that assistance be provided through United Nations channels to the newly independent states, particularly in the area of Africa, and he emphasized that the level of development in the United Nations is not only a matter of national pride but also a matter of national interest. The Canadian Government has been committed and is maintaining additional efforts to meet the needs of the developing countries.

It is clear that the United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance. The United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance. The United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance.

The United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance. The United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance. The United Nations is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance.

It is a matter of national interest in the United States of America that assistance be provided to the developing countries. The United States of America is a vital link to the United Nations for economic and technical assistance.