THE REV. WM. J. DAWSON.

THE REV. W. J. DAWSON was born in 1854, at Towcester, and is the second son of a Wesleyan minister. He entered the Wesleyan ministry after going through the Methodist Colleges, but in 1892 he resigned, and became minister of the Congregational Church of Highbury Quadrant. It was as a poet that he made his début, his Vision of Souls being published in 1878. His first novel, The Redemption of Edward Strahan, published in 1891, won the commendation of Mr. Gladstone, since when all that he has written has been most favourably received on both sides of the Atlantic. Nothing that he had previously published attracted so much attention as The House of Dreams, concerning the authorship of which much curiosity was aroused on its appearance in 1897.

An intensely dramatic, powerful, and picturesque romance. Readers of the Novels of Mr. Hall Caine, Mr. Baring Gould, and Mr. Robert Buchanan's earlier work will thoroughly enjoy this story. East Anglians, especially those who know the neighbourhood of Yarmouth, will find the local colouring a strong attraction.

By WILLIAM J. DAWSON,
Author of "The House of Dreams."

Dr. Conan Doyle says: "Exceedingly strong and good—the character drawing excellent. It is some time since I read anything which I liked so much."

Ian Maclaren in British Weekly: "'Judith Boldero' is a strong book."

Spectator: "The story is finely conceived, and its sombre picturesqueness loses nothing by the manner of its telling."

Daily Telegraph: "Described with masterly vigour and impressiveness."

To-Day: "I can only thank Mr. Dawson for his magnificent story, and beg all my readers to buy it."

Christian World: "It has all the strength, originality, and fascination of 'Adam Bede.'"
