OTTAWA LOOK-UP

Torontos Best at All Times and Scored a Shut-Out—Seven-Man Hockey Not Popular.

The Toronto pros have come into their own. The blue shirted Ottawa team of the most decisive beatings of the year at the arena last night and it was a shut-out at that. Ottawa never had a look-in at any time. Ripshank put the play for 55 minutes out of the hour and the final was 2 to 0.

It was Toronto's first home fixture under the seven-man style and it is safe to say that the crowd were anything but pleased with the brand of hockey offered. Seven-man hockey as played by the amateurs is generally good, but the seven-man stuff as played by the pros is anything but good.

The players were in one another's way all night and absolutely no combination was used. The thrilling line rushes that featured the early season play were impossible with the seven-man stuff.

Lesaur provided the best exhibition of tenacious defense that has been seen here since the first game of the season. He was not so much a defender as a man who would not let the other team get a shot at goal.

Lesaur's defense was not so much a wall as a man who would not let the other team get a shot at goal. He was not so much a defender as a man who would not let the other team get a shot at goal.

Torontos opened with a great burst of speed and won every Ottawa rush before it got past centre ice. Lake tried to get away several times but he was checked so hard that it was no use. Ronan showed a nice lot of stick handling and was the most effective capital city man during the first period.

It was five minutes after the start that the first goal was scored. Marshall broke up a rush and went the full length of the ice all alone. He slipped into the corner, but lifted one of Lesaur. It went into the net and hit the top and bounced out again.

Torontos were just as aggressive in the second period, but no goals were scored. It was here that Lesaur got in his prettiest work and turned aside shot after shot that looked like goals.

Torontos again had the better of the play in the last period and the second score of the game was netted after ten minutes of real work. Wilson showed in a pass from the left wing that he was not out of his mind.

It was the same old story right up to the end. Toronto checked the Ottawa rush, crew off their feet and the much-touted forward line could not get going. The game ended in a 2 to 0 victory for Toronto.

The summary: 1-Toronto—Goal, Marshall—5.00. 2-Toronto—Goal, Wilson—10.00. No score—Third Period—10.00.

The hockey public have had a look at the seven-man game as played by the pros and it is anything but popular. Bring us back the six-man stuff in a hurry.

We are still waiting to hear from The News. Charles, the speed merchant, said that the seven-man game was a failure. He said that the seven-man game was a failure.

Harry Cameron was again the favorite at the arena last night. His lone rushes are regular things every night the Torontos play at home.

Jack Marshall kept talking to his boys all thru the game and they were full of the real ginger.

Canadians play Torontos at the arena Saturday night. The Bank of Toronto will be the whole lot.
