WANTS TO CHANGE WILL HOWLAND APPLIES TO COURT

Sir William Pearce Howland has applied to the high court to have certain clauses in his marriage settlement struck out. Three children, Alice Muriel Easton, Mabel and Gladys are defendants in the suit and object to the change. By the treaty of marriage, Sir William gave his wife life interest in half his estate at Lambton Mills. By a will made later he gave it to his wife, and on her death to O. A. Howland, and after his death to Wm. Howland. He since mortgaged and sold the property. He says the clauses were put in the will by clerical error.
