London, for two years, following the "Cingalee." George L. Greaves, the English comedian, will be seen in the role he originated, while a feature will be the appearance of the Misses MacFarland, two young ladies of stage accomplishment, who are twins, and marvelously alike, taking roles called for by the plot of the comedy. Geo. Fortescue, the heavyweight comedian, is also of the company.

"While Frisco Burns," the 20th success won by Lincoln J. Carter on the stage of this country, and his very latest play, will be seen at the Majestic next week. The audience sees seemingly the entire stage move in three different directions and break into a chaos of ruins. Whole rows of buildings are crumpled in minute pieces; yawning chasms open up in streets and facades of monster houses; a vast sea of flame advances on the ruins and umult reigns supreme.

The concert in Association Hall last evening was largely patronized and was largely enjoyed. The trio of artists, Iona Robertson, Janet Duff and Harold Jarvis were enthusiastically received. The Scottish character of the program seemed to appeal strongly to the large majority of those present.
