HOW TO KEEP COOL AND OTHER INFORMATION
Procure a large bucket of snow, place in shady spot and moisten wrists and temples frequently. This causes the superheated blood to cool and creates a pleasant feeling.
The thermometer has been known to register 90 degrees below zero near King William Land in 1880.
To make frozen pudding use the half of a broken egg and two teaspoonfuls of common baking soda. Add other necessary ingredients in sufficient quantities and let stand until frozen.
The Rhone glacier moves at the rate of only a few inches a year. Last year the body of a Visigoth appeared at the mouth of the glacier. He probably had fallen into a crevasse during the Gothic invasion of Italy in A.D. 483 and had been on his way ever since. Except for a slight immurement in his speech he was in a state of perfect preservation.
The Eskimos live on whale blubber and axle grease.
It is said that certain mountains in the higher Himalayas are covered with nearly a hundred and thirty-five feet in thickness.
The muskox lives in cold climates and is a useful beast of burden.
Reindeers shed their horns once a year. The male reindeer lives to be 70 years of age. Young reindeers often exceed this age.
Walrus live in a temperature of 50 degrees. They are hardy animals, or fish, as the case may be.

Teaching Ignorant Mothers.
Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) News: Every city in the country should emulate the example of Chicago, where a campaign is being carried on for saving the lives of babies in the tenement districts. The city council has appropriated $10,000, a very generous sum, with which to pay the salaries of a number of physicians during the heated term. But singularly and significantly, the physicians are devoting their time, not to the treatment of infants actually sick, but to carrying on a campaign of educating ignorant mothers in the proper care of their children, and already a notable mortality has been cut in two.
Before the special campaign was begun something like 550 children one year of age died in Chicago every week. To put it even more startlingly, every twenty minutes, day and night, a baby gasped out its life, and in at least a majority of instances this awful sacrifice could have been prevented.
It was not that the mothers wilfully neglected their children, or did not love them, or did not grieve when they died. These children were victims of the deadly ignorance of their parents, and the campaign of education that is being carried on is producing the most encouraging results.
The general view is that most of the evil, misery and death in the big cities is brought about by some one or more forms of graft. But in the foreign tenement districts ignorance comes more directly than poverty and more wretchedness than poverty and in venting these missionaries of knowledge into these districts the city is performing an inestimably valuable service, which is being gratefully received by the beneficiaries.
Women Discard Veils.
By way of Berlin comes the news that the Turkish veil, which has for ages hidden the traditional beauty of the Turkish women, has been torn away in the wake of the old regime and to-day, according to despatches from Turkey, thousands of unveiled women are rejoicing in the new found freedom.
The innovation, the most startling in the history of the Ottoman empire, is the unveiling of women at every opportunity. The whole outward appearance of the empire has been changed. On every hand the smiling faces of women are seen, instead of the sombre veils that hid them.
The most remarkable feature of the political upheaval in Turkey, which has just resulted in the granting of a constitution by the sultan, has been the participation of hundreds of thousands of women, who emerged from veils and marched bravely thru the streets.
The first women to abandon their veils were those of Monastir, the hotbed of the revolution. The command of the Koran that women should appear veiled in public was canceled by a Moslem priest, who issued his proclamation from the mosque.
"We will help to make the world beautiful by this act," the priest declared.
Many remarkable scenes greeted the radical change, but without exception the innovation is approved.

Can't Impress Mexico With Sincerity of Operations.
WASHINGTON, July 31.—Inability to extract offenders for so-called political offences, but which, in the opinion of the administration, are really crimes, which should be extraditable, is proving a source of great irritation in the effort which the government of the United States is making to break up the revolutionary activity along the United States-Mexican boundary.
This, coupled with the difficulty of detecting and proving violations of the neutrality, is making it difficult to convince the Mexicans of the sincerity of the United States Government in its expressed determination to punish the guilty, and this notwithstanding every possible bit of machinery at the disposal of the government is working to a common end.
