Public Amusements At the Princess.

In these days of psychic research societies, the making of books without end on mental telepathy, personal magnetism and psycho-therapeutics, to say nothing of a flourishing crop of "New Thought" pamphlets and magazines, it is inevitable that a play should be written around automobile faults, one stage offering at least with scenes laid in the submarine craft, while a number of playwrights have made use of the generous store of material furnished by investigations into the unorthodox of high finance, but it is for Richard Harding Davis to do pioneer work in the field of the occult.

Verne, the Medium, besides being a well-executed play, has the merit of bringing to Toronto Eleanor Robson, who has been a very great favorite in this city since her appearance here several years ago in "Zangwill's 'Merely Mary Ann'." The audience of last night was drawn partly more by the personality of Miss Robson than by her new vehicle, but the peculiar fascina-
