A Million a Minute

A Romance of Modern New York and Paris
By Hudson Douglas

Later in the evening he again called up O'Ferral's rooms, and this time it was the correspondent himself who answered the phone.

"Hello, Steve," said he. "Get my message. I did. I've sent an answer already. How did you happen across the ad?"

O'Ferral laughed.

"Facility of observation again, I suppose," came the cheery reply. "Hope you'll have luck with it, Steve. I'm only sorry I can't do better than that to help you. I'm off tomorrow."

"The devil you are!" A long pause.

"When do you think you'll be back?"

"No idea at all. Wish I had! Ah, say, Steve. Don't tell anyone that I'm out of town. No, not even Corroyer. Keep an eye on him for me. He's not a bad sort when you know him. Must ring off now. Good-bye, Steve."

"Good-bye, old chap, and the best of luck. Let me know here when you return."

"Right."

Quintance hung up the receiver sorrowfully. He would be still more lonely without O'Ferral, and of late the feeling of loneliness had grown upon him. He was no longer quite content with the company of an unknown multitude. His views change since the afternoon on which he had first walked up Fifth Avenue on his return from exile. For two more long days he scoured the country without avail, and waited with all the patience which he could muster, an answer to his modest request that the owners of the Cadillac advertisement for sale would not on any account part with it before affording him an opportunity of inspection.

Returning from a very dusty pilgrimage on the second of these, fortune favored him with a little encouragement, bringing enough but none the less to be accepted and a more minute survey confirmed his first instantaneous impression. It fitted in every respect the description O'Ferral had supplied him with, and, if anything, there was a small grey gaudier creeping forth from a fold of the hood. He had great difficulty in repressing the exclamation of joy which had almost escaped his lips.

"Ahem!" said he, so noisily that the woman looked her astonishment.

"Does it—who are you, Mr. Smith?" asked in confusion, and not knowing very well what to say next.

She nodded, and folding her arms again watched unblinkingly while he walked round it.

"I'm sure I've seen this car somewhere before," he remarked, tentatively, rising from an inspection of the rear tires, and regarding her from behind the hood.

"Does it—who are you, Mr. Smith?" he replied very shortly, and her lips snapped together again.

"I think it was this one," he maintained, and she let his contention pass without either assent or contradiction. He found her nigardliness of speech highly aggravating.

"A bright thought suddenly struck him. He made a most workmanlike examination of every vital part.

"Is four-fifty the best you'll take?" he asked, for the sake of appearance, and he relaxed her air of detachment a little.

"It is worth more," she said, with the first sign of feeling she had yet shown, a faint expression of anxiety in her eyes. "It is worth more. I would not be willing to take less, and I ask so little because I desire to sell at once."

"All right, then," he answered. "I'll take it. If you will allow me to write you a cheque and let me have your receipt we can call the deal square."

But the suggestion did not seem to meet with her approval either. She glanced toward the closed door under the porch, and again at him.

"If you will let me have the cheque when you come or send for the car, that will be sufficient," she differed. "Then I will give a receipt also."

Quintance smiled inwardly. He had foreseen as much.

"I mean to take it away with me now, if I may," he said pleasantly. "My car will tow it with ease, and—"

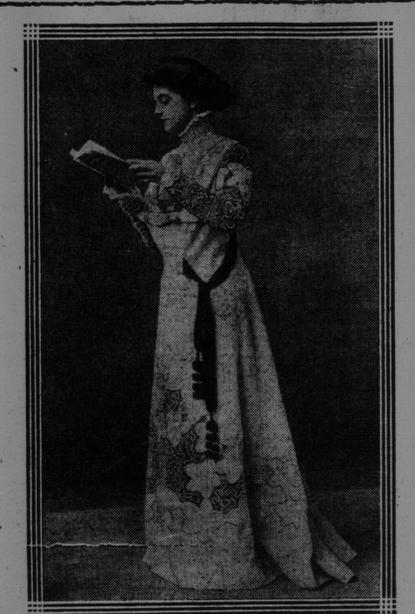

She made up her mind to accept the inevitable, although with ill enough grace. "There's only the kitchen," she said doubtfully, but turned toward it without further speech.

He followed her dumbly, well pleased, through the porch into a small square room, which, except for the cook-stove, might have served for parlor, so comfortable it was furnished, so dainty were all its appointments. She crossed it, in haste to close the door which led through to a room adjoining, but not before he had caught a quick glimpse of its interior also. And what he saw caused him to draw a deep breath of contentment.

It was a sunny, pleasant chamber, with a wide window looking out to sea and a low couch thereat, upon which lay the selfsame hat the girl had worn at Martin's. But she herself was nowhere visible.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

A GOOD FROCK FOR 1909.

Braded net will serve as a trimming for many of the summery linens, and this graceful one-piece model will suggest a new idea to the woman making up her summer wardrobe. Motifs of braided net are set into the skirt, and over this net and edging it are big conventional flowers of the linen, also braided with soutache. The sleeves carry out this trimming design and the square bertha which surrounds the yoke of lace insertion is braided with the soutache. The black satin girdle is a Parisian note with white frocks. Blackashes and black suede shoes both being worn with snow white frocks.

FIVE DROWNED YESTERDAY IN CANOEING ACCIDENTS

Danvers, Mass., April 19.—The wild lashings of a heavy thinder equal on the usually placid waters of Little Middleton Pond were responsible early this evening for the death by drowning of three persons, when a frail canoe overturned with its four occupants, Ernest Norton, of Salem, cashier of the Merchants' National Bank in Boston, was saved.

The dead are: Victor Durgin, of Salem, automobile editor of the Boston Traveler, about 26 years old; Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Norton, two and a half years old; Of nearly a dozen persons watching from beneath the sheltered piazzas surrounding the pond, only one was a good swimmer. He was Matthew M. Merritt, of Danvers. Plunging into the pond, Mr. Merritt first encountered the form of Mr. Norton, then fatigued and nearly helpless after his short but strenuous battle for life. The transfer of the rescued man to a solid position on shore took some time, and when Mr. Merritt had reached the bank, although exhausted, he scanned the water for the other persons. They had sunk for the last time, however, and when their bodies were recovered, a short time after, life was extinct. The bodies of the mother and her child were close together, giving evidence of the mother's efforts in her dying moments to be near her baby.

Mr. Norton and his wife have for several years had a cottage on the shores of Middleton Pond. Annually, during this time, they have made a preliminary trip there on Patriot's Day, to look over their cottage and enjoy a little outing. Today they brought with them their infant son and Victor Durgin, a close friend of the family. After paddling across the pond this evening they started to return and had accomplished much of the distance to the opposite shore when a heavy squall broke out of a comparatively clear sky.

Mr. Norton and his wife and Durgin were experienced canoeists and made progress despite the contending elements. A Danvers man, who was with them, had been reached when a gust mightier than any preceding one overturned the frail craft, plunging its occupants into the water.

Lawrence, Mass., April 19.—A canoe containing four young men was capsized late today and two of the occupants, Henry Crombie, aged 22, and William Farriesty, aged 19, both of this city, were drowned.

AMERICAN OFFICIAL COMMITTED SUICIDE

W. E. Bainbridge Who Shot Himself in Paris on Saturday Was Probably Insane From Overwork

Paris, April 19.—The desk in the consulate of Wm. E. Bainbridge, confidential agent of the United States Treasury Department in charge of the Paris customs bureau, who committed suicide in this city Saturday, was opened this morning. It contained a box of cartridges, five of which were missing, and a slip of paper in Mr. Bainbridge's handwriting describing himself as "killed by a bullet."

None of the official papers found, however, disclosed the slightest evidence that the applicant was dissatisfied with Mr. Bainbridge's work. Washington had sent neither criticism nor reproach, and a letter received this morning, from James Burton Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury, was of the most friendly character. The documents found confirmed the opinion of Neuman, who entered at the consulate that Mr. Bainbridge had broken down from overwork, that he was temporarily insane, and that he had his life while suffering from the mania of persecution.

VESSEL HAS A CARGO FROM AMERICAN JUNGLES

Steamer, from Calcutta, Brings Hundreds of Wild Beasts into Boston

Boston, Mass., April 18.—One of the biggest and strangest consignments of wild animals ever imported into the United States came into Boston harbor late today aboard the Hansa liner from Calcutta, Tennessee. A number of man-eating apes from Borneo, 1,000 monkeys, a dozen or more forty-foot pythons, half a dozen beautiful plumed cassowaries and thousands of birds of rare and brilliant plumage, were aboard the vessel. The 8,000-mile voyage was full of trying experiences for the officers and men of the vessel. The richest Neuman, who entered at the wrist by one of the apes and painfully injured. Two days ago one of the apes jumped into the sea with it. Some of the pythons took sick, and one which died yesterday, cast overboard outside of Boston light. The animals will not be unloaded here, but will go to New York with the vessel in a few days.

THAT OLD WINTER COUGH

The Cough Syrup You've Taken Has Sickened But Not Cured You

You'll Never Be Well Till You Heal the Lungs with 'Carrizozone'

Nothing pulls down strength, makes you wretched, miserable and dependent like a chronic cough. The old-fashioned liquid mixtures slip down the throat, enter the stomach and do little else but ruin digestion.

Carrizozone is the only breathable, cold, catarrh and cough medicine. Instead of taking drowsy drugs, chloral, morphine and opium mixtures, you simply inhale the richest pine balsams, breathe into your lungs the healing, soothing vapor of a scientific remedy that commands the admiration of all good physicians.

The extraordinary efficacy of Carrizozone is without a parallel. A mostening cold is cured in ten minutes, a harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system. In case of asthma and whooping cough, relief and certain cure that comes from the healing balsamic extracts in Carrizozone is simply wonderful.

"For more than twenty years I suffered with a cough, bronchitis, asthma and nasal catarrh," writes J. E. Fenwick, of Staunton, Pa. "Every attack I had seemed to grow worse and I could hardly breathe on account of an accumulation of phlegm in the nose and throat. One day I tried Carrizozone and in ten minutes was wonderfully relieved. I could breathe freely and naturally through the nose, and blood spitting was stopped—my phlegm was cleared away and my regular breathing restored. No remedy can do more than Carrizozone."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Carrizozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitute. Carrizozone lasts two months, price $1.00. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Carrizozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Take Father Morrissey's "No. 10" (Lung Tonic) And Be Sure that it will cure your cough, cold or lung troubles. It is the very same medicine which the priest-physician himself prescribed so often and so successfully during his lifetime, and thousands are the cases it has cured.

Take it—or give it to the children—with confidence, because it is absolutely free from opium, morphine or any other harmful drug. Many cough medicines are loaded with these dangerous ingredients, but Father Morrissey would not use anything that was not perfectly safe even for a baby.

"No. 10" contains nothing but Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams—combined as only Father Morrissey knew how to combine them. Keep a bottle in the house as a safeguard against all troubles of throat and lungs. Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c.

At your dealer's.

Rheumatic Liver Overstrained Kidneys

Caused Sickness That Puzzled Able Physicians—Was Cured by Ferrozone

A Real Miracle

"My doctor told me I had gouty or rheumatic liver and kidneys," writes G. O. Forde, from Halifax. "I guess he was right for I was a mighty sick man and felt the game was pretty nearly up. So many remedies failed me that I was completely puzzled. As for symptoms—I had bushes of them in the morning a sort of nausea. Sometimes the bowels were constipated, at other times quite relaxed. I felt dull, and a sense of weariness in the back and over the liver, was very distressing."

Lost 15 pounds in Weight

"My color resembled a yellowish pallor, and gradually I lost weight to the alarming extent of fifteen pounds. I looked jaundiced and felt sure I would die."

"Then I read of the wonders worked by Ferrozone and in desperation I bought six boxes. As soon as I began to mend, Ferrozone must have put a peg or two into the nervous system for things at the end of the month began to look up. In three months I felt like new, but kept on taking Ferrozone. In six months I was cured."

Ferrozone saved his life

MONTCALM DID SPLENDID WORK

Ice Breaker "Bucking" St. Lawrence Flies Has Opened Navigation to Montreal Ten Days Earlier Than Last Year

Montreal, April 19.—To the Montcalm belongs the chief credit of making possible navigation of the St. Lawrence between Montreal and Quebec, open today. The weather had something to do with it, but the Montcalm did most of the business.

Since the 12th of January last, this 2,400 horse power ice breaker has "bucking" against ice, in a record attempt to clear the St. Lawrence.

Today the work was completed, and navigation is open ten days earlier than last year. But for the good work done by the Montcalm, it might have been two weeks yet before the channel was clear.

Next year, with equal facilities, it may be possible to open the St. Lawrence for navigation by April 10. The whole route to the sea is now open and ready for any steamer to come up to Montreal.

WHO KILLED MORIARTY

South Hadley Falls, Mass., April 18.—The state police have been called to assist the local officers in fixing the responsibility for the death of John Moriarty, a plumber, about 32 years old, who lived with his two brothers over the latter's plumbing shop in this town. A doctor who was called in by Maurice Moriarty, one of the brothers, this afternoon, ordered John taken to the hospital, and he died tonight of a fractured skull. Maurice, the police say, knew nothing of his brother John's whereabouts until two o'clock this morning, when he broke in the door of the room in which John was lying. The story of Patrick, given out by the police, is different. He says he was in the room with the injured man all day, and Maurice did not have to force the door to gain entrance. He says John was carried home early this morning by two unknown men. He stayed with him thereafter. Where John received his injuries he did not know, he said.
