

SAYS CODE TOO FREE WITH SILKS

Four Pairs a Year Ample for $20 Week Girl, Declares Expert.

Boston, Dec. 1. — "A $20-a-week working girl should spend $4 a week for clothes, not more, and maybe a little less," said Harriett Ainsworth, a prominent Boston budget expert, who claims that 23 per cent. budget recommended by the Plymouth Church Institute of Brooklyn is excessively high. The girl, she says, is spending $20.80 too much.

Too Many Silk Stockings.

Four pairs of silk stockings is all she says a girl earning $20 a week ought to buy each year against the eight pairs allowed by the church budget of Mrs. Newell Dwight Hillis, the expert who planned the church budget. These four pairs of stockings allowed annually by Miss Ainsworth should not be purchased separately, but at least two pairs at a time should be bought.

"The average business girl wastes much money by not knowing how to buy. They purchase one pair of silk stockings at a time, and then buy a new pair. This is a shocking waste and absolutely unnecessary."

Wash Every Evening.

"We have cases that come to us daily in our research department of working girls buying a new pair of silk stockings every three weeks," Miss Ainsworth declared.

"If a girl buys four pairs of good silk home at one time during the year, she can make them last for 12 months. She must wash them after every evening, and when she notices the slightest break or hole she should immediately mend them herself, or where the tear is treacherous take them to a professional mender."

Fur Coat Not For $20 Girl.

Referring to the 22 per cent. allowance made by Mrs. Hillis, she said: "This means that a girl earning $20 a week spends $28.80 a year for clothes, and I believe this is an excess of $20.80 over what she ought to spend. This money might be used for her vacation or for an educational course, or any number of things in which she would derive greater benefits than from clothes."

She said no girl earning $20 a week should buy a fur coat. An economical girl earning $25 a week might by judicious saving be able to put away enough for a practical fur garment. A fur coat worn by a girl earning less than $30 a week ought to be worn at least five years.

AT LAST!

The girls have had their chance. Now the good-looking men are getting theirs—in Cleveland, at least. A WOMAN HURT IN JUMP FROM TRAIN

While the express for Boston was going over the Mill street crossing at 6.45 last evening, Mrs. G. G. Cotter, of Channel, Newfoundland, fell from the train and was so badly shaken up and cut that she was taken to the General Public Hospital in the ambulance. Her condition is not serious. Mr. and Mrs. Cotter were on their way to Boston. Shortly before the train pulled out of the Union Station Mr. Cotter left the train for some purpose and when he did not appear in the car where his wife was seated Mrs. Cotter went on the platform to see if she could see him. The train was under way at this time. Fearing that Mr. Cotter had been left behind the woman jumped from the car steps and fell on her head and shoulders. C. N. R. Officer Young and others rushed to her assistance. Mr. Cotter was on the train at the time and would have reached the side of his wife a minute or two after she plunged from the platform. Mrs. Cotter is about 65 years of age.
