

It's a Question Of Dollars With Most Of Us

That's why we put in the sort of Ladies' $2 Shoe we have now. Every store in town sells one at that price. We don't make much on ours, but you'll want the second pair. The only difficulty we have in getting the shoes before you is that we know what good shoes are and you'll tell us the $2 shoes sold here are as good if not better than you get anywhere for $2.50 and $3. Why do we sell them so cheap? We are out for new trade.

LITERARY NOTES.

The October number of Self Culture Magazine presents a handsome portrait of Admiral Dewey, and Table of Contents displays a list of articles that will please all classes of readers. The illustrated papers are delightful by the super-excellence of the engraver's work, the places having a clearness that is not surpassed by any other magazine. An account of our life and struggles of Dr. Gelling, of gun-making fame, is quite pathetic in its description of the failure of his last experiment with gun-casting. The "Social Salons of Our National Capital" continues the series of beautiful illustrations begun in the September number under the title of "Homes of the Diplomatic Corps at Washington." FIVE VIEWS OF A MAN.

A healthy man, a man with a cough, a man with congested lungs, a man in consumption, a dying man, a man in the treatment of all throat and lung affections.

THEY DID WELL.

"One of the Crowd" hands in the following concerning the Chatham degree team:

Capt. Wm. Potter, the Grand Chief Patriarch of Ontario, was a busy and happy man while attending the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Detroit, and very well he might be, as he commanded a body of Oddfellows which received more honor and applause than any other on the continent. Among the delegates, from Maine to Oregon, the topic of conversation after our Chatham degree staff had exemplified the beautiful dramatic floor work in the Light Infantry Army in the Detroit, was where did a small city like Chatham get together a body of Oddfellows possessed of such talent to do the beautiful floor work which are captained in our rituals, so forcibly.

This, together with the beautiful floor work, kept the audience, which comprised 2,000 of the smartest men in the United States and Canada, entertained from 9 p.m. until 2 o'clock in the morning. Many expressed themselves in public as enjoying the treat immensely. William, who was in the United States and Canada, entertained from 9 p.m. until 2 o'clock in the morning. ROUND ABOUT JERUSALEM.

The Wall of Lamentation as Described by the Painter Tissot.

J. James Tissot, the distinguished French illustrator of "The Life of Christ," writes in The Century of a walk "Round About Jerusalem," and gives this picturesque description of a scene at the Wall of Lamentation.

"Let us now turn down into the Jews' quarter and go to the Wall of Lamentation. Friday is the best day to choose for this, because on that day the Israelites were there in greater number, and one thus has a wider variety of types at hand. All along this Solomonic wall, every stone of which is of the greatest antiquity, are leaning crowds of men, most of whom are clad in more or less shabby fur great-coats. The majority of them seem to be poor, but one must not be certain as to that point. Some hold their heads in their hands and press their brows against the wall; others read. From time to time one notices a fellow in particular, who was as fat as a hog when he had been fed from birth on sugar-kraut and had drunk nothing but beer his whole life long. He swayed to and fro and nearly choked himself in his efforts to provoke a few reluctant tears. He struggled vainly, making all manner of piteous and frightful faces; he then began moaning in a feeble voice, and finally, at the crescendo, the climax of his fetid grief, he bellowed at the top of his lungs and shook from head to foot. His antics so disgusted me that I was forced to change my place. Notwithstanding such exhibitions as this, I saw among those present many who had real sorrow, profound grief, several of whom were fine dark Jewish types, and who, I learned, had come from Portugal. What touched me most deeply, however, and that which at the same time caused the tears to dim many an eye, was the sight of a group of Jewish women, who were easily distinguishable by their costume, the striking features of which consisted of black-velvet bandeau about the brows and a yellow shawl thrown over the head and shoulders, half veiling away, with tears streaming gently down their cheeks; they were quite silent. They would walk a few paces, then turn back, and, drawing their hands from their black mits, they would throw a good-bye kiss, a last adieu to their beloved wall—their consoler, their confidant, their true friend. 'For,' said an honest Jew who often acted as guide for me in this wall, 'this is a friend to whom we confide all our sorrows; it has known our fathers when they were happy and prosperous; it sees us now in our misery and many troubles; it links us with the past, it consoles us, it comforts us, and we go through life aided, sustained and uplifted by it.'"

Why Japanese Love America.

Japan has seemed at times to coquet with England, with France, with Germany, but it has only been with each case for special ends. There has been all the time but one genuine love and preference, and that is for the nation which, in her early modern childhood, her quick preceptions recognized as her sincere and generous friend. It was not that America first discovered and opened Japan to the world; it was not that alone of the western powers she refused her share of the Illegitimate Shimonoseki spoils; it was not even that, from the first, the western republic was seen to have no "ax to grind" in its professions of friendship for the rejuvenated empire. It was for none of these things that Japan has so steadfastly cleaved to her first love. These were mere incidents in the course of that love, which has been all the time a deep undercurrent of real sentiment based upon an instinctive recognition of American magnanimity. Russia, from the beginning has been the object of an equally strong instinctive dread, which is now always will be impossible to overcome. England, admired and respected as the masterful nation of the world, has never won the Japanese heart. Quick to recognize the unconquerable British prejudice against all Asiatics, no such thing as genuine affection has ever existed between the island empires of the east and of the west. France, in turn, has appealed to the esthetic sensibilities of the Japanese, but there the friendship ends, for it rests on nothing solid or enduring. Germany, with its impressive imperialism and its spirit of intense loyalty to the Fatherland, has struck a responsive chord in the Japanese breast, which always thrills at the watchword of empire and loyalty. But apart from this sentiment there is nothing in common between the German and the Japanese natures. Had there ever been Germany, together with France, has forfeited all possible claims to the nation's regard by joining hands with Russia to inflict upon Japan its bitter humiliation. England and America alone, among all the powers of the west, can now count the rising empire of the east as a friend; and as between the two, there is no shadow of doubt where the preference lies. Japan, for many reasons, would situate long before forming an alliance with England alone, but should the latter join hands with America, instinct as well as policy would draw this nation with irresistible force into the triple compact which, we all now trust, is to dominate the peace of the world.

Uncle Testified Against His Two Nephews in Nova Scotia

And His Sister Then Had Him Arrested on a Charge of Arson—He is a Collector of Customs.

Guysboro, N. S., Oct. 7.—Enos L. Munro, collector of customs at Whitehead, was arrested yesterday on a charge of conspiracy and arson, the information being laid by his sister, Mrs. Hugh Munro, who deposed that between October 1 and November 1, 1897, Enos L. Munro, Grandson of Munro and Howard Munro, all of Whitehead, set fire to an oil house and boat house belonging to the Dominion government.

Perry Munro and Arthur Munro, sons of Mrs. Hugh Munro, were sentenced to eight years' imprisonment each for scuttling a schooner for the purpose of securing the insurance on the cargo, Mr. Munro was here as a witness against them in the scuttling case, and was about to leave for home when arrested. Information has been laid with the crown, it is reported, alleging the willful destruction of other buildings by fire and the scuttling of vessels. More arrests are looked for.

The affair has created a tremendous sensation, the Munros, hitherto, having been looked upon as among the most respectable residents of Guysboro county.
