KILLS FAMILY HE WAS

UNABLE TO SUPPORT

Wife and Five Children Victims

of Former Forester of Saxony's King.

The Dead Was Planned by Both Parents

After Fruitless Struggle Against Poverty.

DRESDEN, March 29.—In despair at his inability to support himself and his family on his meagre pension, Herr Wildorf, formerly chief forester to the King of Saxony, murdered his wife, three sons and two daughters and committed suicide at Dresden last night.

His eldest daughter, 22 years old, was also shot after a frantic struggle to disarm her father. She is still alive, but is in a dying condition.

The family lived in a flat, but the neighbors, though they had heard nothing of the Wildorfs since Friday, suspected something wrong until early this morning, when the janitor discovered that a milk can left in front of the door had not been touched. He summoned the police, who forced open the door.

Upon the floor of the first room lay the body of the eldest daughter, in whom a spark of life was still flickering. After she had been removed to hospital the police searched the other rooms, discovering the body of the mother in bed, with a bullet through her temple.

In an adjoining room, littered with broken furniture, were the bodies of the remainder of the family, three boys and two girls, the eldest of the boys 12 years old, and two of the boys twins aged 12.

Wildorf had attempted in a variety of ways to earn enough money to support his family, but without success. The sevenfold tragedy appears to have been prearranged by Wildorf and his wife, who were reduced to the belief that simultaneous death was the best and happiest escape from the menace of starvation.

Not until the eldest daughter entered the flat after her mother, brothers and sisters had been murdered was the father disturbed in the execution of his mad resolve. The girl even then fought hard to save her father's life and her own, but fainted before she could disarm him from his bullet wounds in the head and breast. The father, believing her dead, then stretched himself upon a sofa and blew out his brains.

PAPA PHONES CONSENT

AND SPOILS ROMANCE

Elopers Were Held Up by Hard-Hearted Marriage License Clerk.

LEWISTON, Pa., March 29.—Edith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Miles, of Lewistown, and H. Z. Harwood, a civil engineer from Harrisburg, Pa., left here Monday of this week and went to Huntingdon, thirty-eight miles away, where they applied to the clerk of the marriage license bureau for a license. The fact that the bride was only sixteen years old and didn't have her parents' consent acted as a bar to their hopes and there was nothing to do but spoil the romantic side of the elopement by appealing to papa by phone for his consent.

This was freely given, and the pair were married by J. R. Patton, justice of the peace. They returned to Lewistown last night, where the parental blessing was bestowed.

The bride is an exceptionally pretty and accomplished young woman and the bridegroom is the son of a railroad man in Philadelphia, and a stepson of E. M. Nead, a prominent attorney of Harrisburg, being known under the name of Nead until his marriage made public his real name.

He is employed as a telegrapher with the Pennsylvania Railroad Engineer Corps now running lines between Marysville and Petersburg for the new low grade freight line.

BOY, AS THIEF, SCARES

MOTHER; SHE MAY DIE

Lad of 12, Playing Burglar, Frightens Woman Into Fatal Convulsions.

BOSTON, March 29.—As the result of a practical joke played upon her by her 12-year-old son, Fred, last night, Mrs. Annie Williams, of 3803 Cuthbert street, lies writhing in convulsions in the Presbyterian Hospital, where physicians fear she may die.

Mrs. Williams retired early in the evening, and her son, Fred, wishing to scare her, crept quietly up to her bedroom door and gave it a kick and said in a gruff voice:

"Open the door, or I'll break it down!"

He was more successful than he had wished, for his command was answered by shrieks from his mother, who believed a burglar was attempting to gain entrance to her room.

Frightened by the child's cries, neighbors rushed in, forced the lock of the door and found Mrs. Williams lying in a swoon.

When she came to she writhed in convulsions, and was removed to the hospital.

WOMAN SWALLOWS

PINS AS SHE SNEEZES

Half Dozen of Brass Kind in Her Stomach—She May Die.

RICHMOND, March 29.—Mrs. C. H. Lewis is in a critical condition at the Virginia Hospital as the result of a very peculiar accident.

She was in her own yard and in the act of placing some clothes on a line to dry, when instead of using the ordinary clothespins to fasten them on the line, she used the common brass household articles. These she carried in her mouth. She sneezed suddenly, and in doing so, swallowed at least half a dozen of the pins.

A physician was immediately summoned and the woman sent to the hospital, where she has been kept in intense agony ever since. It was stated at the hospital this afternoon that no operation had yet been performed. It was announced that the condition of the woman was critical. The X-ray will be used in an endeavor to locate the pins. The surgical knife will probably be used today in an effort to remove the foreign articles.

FOUND $1,400 HID IN

DEAD WOMAN'S CLOSET

Estate of Recluse Yields Unexpected Return to Only Living Relative.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 29.—While Nathan Farnbo and Thomas Farnbo, who had been appointed executors in the estate of Miss Sallie Rambo, were making an inventory of the goods in her home today they found hidden away in a closet $1,400 in gold and paper money.

The dust-covered but valuable find was turned over to the executor of the estate, Benjamin Thomas, who will transfer it, with the other portion of the aged woman's estate, to Miss Rambo's surviving relative, Mrs. Sarah White.

Miss Rambo was a recluse, living alone for years in her unpretentious house adjoining Christ Saviour's Church, of which she was one of the oldest members and a faithful attendant.

SITS UP AND TAKES

NOTICE IN HIS COFFIN

Man Ready for Burial Rides in Ambulance Instead of Dead Wagon.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 29.—Turbidly crushed by a fall of 100 feet and believed to be dead, John Brady was carried to the Wright undertaking establishment at Monessen to be prepared for burial.

In the coffin, where he had been placed, he sat up and took notice, and his next ride was in the ambulance, not the dead wagon, as had been expected.

With other workmen, Brady was assisting to put a pine line on the boiler house of the Monessen Steel Works, when he lost his footing and fell into a steel car. Both legs were broken and one arm.

When picked up he was, to all appearances, dead. It was almost a half hour later when he revived at the mortuary.

Brady was taken to the hospital, and will recover.

STAGE WAR MADE ON

WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

Italian Government and Aristocratic Women Join in Novel Crusade Against Evil.

ROME, March 29.—With the consent of the Italian Government and under the special patronage of a committee of women of the Roman aristocracy a movement has been set on foot in Rome for combating the growth of the white slave traffic by stage plays.

Last night the expensive was initiated in the performance of a powerful five-act melodrama by Signor Giuseppe Parini called "The White Slaves." The plot unfolds a sad story of wives and violence used to enslave with the offer of a remunerative post as governess in a wealthy family at Buenos Ayres.

A beautiful Italian girl just bereaved of her mother. The author's thesis is that the first fall is either irreparable in its consequences or else inclines the woman to seek refuge from her shame and misery in death.

The large and popular theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity, all the boxes and stalls being thronged with prominent citizens of either sex. The author received enthusiastically recalls before the curtain, and an effective verse prologue setting forth the moral of the play was recited by Gabriellino d'Annunzio, a son of the famous poet.

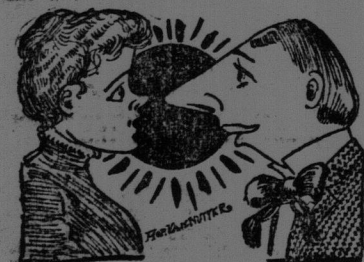

UNDER A LOCOMOTIVE,

HE DIRECTS RESCUERS

SHARON, Pa., March 29.—"I saved a der his locomotive, it is true, but I was a poor fellow, a Pittsburgh and Erie engineer, directed the work of rescue early this morning until rescued, four hours later. He was conveyed to the hospital, where he died at noon.

The rain washed the chubbers away, under the Erie truck near Paltax, and when the freight struck the weakened roadbed it left the rails and the engine rolled over on its side. The driver jumped, but Engineer Lewin was caught and held down and saved by escaping steam and hot water.

Enough Wedding Gifts.

"Aren't you going to send out any more wedding invitations sweet heart?"

"No, precious. I think we've sent out about enough to make everyone happy."

A Corker.

"Yes, poor old Pete was drowned in 'feet' of water."

"Why, how could that be?"

"His cork was floated and held his head down."
