

THE EXHIBITION.

Rain Interfered With the Second Day's Attendance.

Every Department is Now in Full Running Order and Open for Inspection

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW.

Nearly all the exhibits in the main building and annex are now in position, and the finishing touches are being put upon the decorations. As a whole the display is more attractively and more tastefully arranged than heretofore, and the general effect is above the average reached at St. John exhibitions. Yet there are here and there glaring instances of ignorance of the harmony of colors. There is a great field open in this line for the art instructor. Red, white and blue hunting has been pretty freely used by the exhibition management in setting of the building. There is nothing like being patriotic these days. What at first glance are taken for returned South African veterans are only khaki clad boys at work packing tea for a wholesale exhibitor. This is beating the sword into a pruning hook with a vengeance. It may be here remarked for the benefit of the ladies that some ludicrous mistakes are made in copying the style of head dress worn by our mounted infantry and rough riders. The most noticeable is that the brim of the hat is turned up on the left instead of the right side. The soldier's reason for turning up the right side is that it may not interfere with correct sighting of the rifle in active warfare by casting a shadow.

As above stated, the exhibits in the main building are about all ready for inspection. The visitor will find on the ground floor of the main building, starting from its northern end, where is situated the entrance to the large dining hall, the grand display of Chickering pianos made by the W. H. Johnston Co.; the large section where Red Rose tea is put up in packages; a dining room; a lunch room; a restaurant; a cigar and leaf tobacco; a comfortable smoking room near by, open to all comers; and White's candy pagoda and a stand where the H. C. Edmunds Co. of Boston show the results of the passageway leading from the main entrance to the grounds are Magee's fruit stand, H. H. Pitts' samples of the Eclipse acetylene gas machine, with Mr. Pitts in person, and the sale of Sussex mineral waters; the Tourist association's snug parlor; a comprehensive exhibit of Heintzman pianos; the Easy Ice cream freezer display; a stand for the sale of ice cream; and a very taking wall display of saws, large and small, by R. H. Smith & Co. of St. Catharines, Ontario. To the east of the passage connecting the annex and main building the James Robertson Co. have one of the most attractive displays in the entire exhibition, and on the western side of this passage is the live stock exhibit. According to the plan of the main building there are to be seen, starting on the western side, a lighting picture artist and his display; Beebe Bros' pianos and organs; O. H. Warwick's splendid assortment of valuable art china; the fine art section in the area of the main building; the entrance hall; and Risling's extensive and well arranged display of boots and shoes; also a very creditable exhibit of fancy work by Mrs. W. A. Toole of Tennant's Cove, Kings Co.

Currie's Business University has possession of the entire northern gallery, and their showing is attracting great attention. Along the eastern gallery is a soda and mineral water stand; an exhibit of stained glass by the Maritime Glass Co.; the booth of the American Glass of correspondence; the display of the great display of jewelry; Rick's self-teaching system of music; the Peerless hand laundry exhibit; a booth for the sale of sheet music; a highly creditable exhibit by the inmates of the Boys' Industrial Home; Armstrong's exhibit of Shaper's steam, that standard cure for coughs and colds; C. E. Everett's rich display of furs and fur goods; the Chautauqua kindergarten's desks, blackboards, etc., and a booth for the sale of photographic views of St. John. The gallery passage from main building to annex has been utilized by A. O. Skinner for the display of carpets, rugs and art squares.

IN THE ANNEX. The eastern gallery of the annex is occupied by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., with a monster showing of western grains, grasses and products of the prairie, flanked by a booth whose advertising matter is freely distributed. The C. P. R. always does business on a large scale. Along the northern gallery are Haley Bros' structure, showing doors, furniture and other first class woodwork; the display of the Brantford Starch Works; a collection of shreds of wheat; the Egyptian oil pyramid; Frank B. Merritt's attractive and interesting display of Regal Cream Cheese and the Charlottetown Condensed Company's products; Gerbell's picture framing bazaar; and the Royal Arcanum's tasteful booth. The southern gallery is occupied by the florists with their display of blooming plants and hot house productions; and a stand where confectionery is sold by the White Candy Co.

The great feature of the main floor of Manchester, Robertson & Allison's display of furs, furniture and furnishings, which attracts as much attention as any part of the entire exhibition. This house occupies all the central floor and under the galleries except a small space, while Dearborn's extracts and spices are tastefully piled up, and the stand of an optician.

On the southern side are the exhibit of the Cloverdale Apiary, a manufacturer of the Lawton Saw Co., Emerson & Fisher's model kitchen and their attractive display of mantels, tiles, grotto and all nickel ranges; the Joshua Fowler Co.'s array of edge tools, a tent where scientific palmistry is demonstrated by an oriental student; J. Lambert Wood's stand for making stamps, etc.; J. V. Russell's fine showing of boots and shoes; Haslam, Irons & Co. (St. John west), a big assortment of stoves and ranges.

At the western end are a quick lunch counter; the catchy wall display of the Lawton Saw Co., a booth filled with Dearborn's coffee. On the northern side are situated J. E. Wilson's extensive assortment of stoves, ranges and galvanized iron work; Carnall & Son's contribution of mounted animals and birds, and the educational natural history section, which is larger and better than ever before. Lung testers, weighing and electrical machines and such like are scattered here and there on the ground floor of the main building and the annex, furnishing amusement for those who want to get rid of their pennies and nickels.

MACHINERY HALL.

Machinery hall has always been an attractive feature of the exhibition. In most people there is a secret desire to see the "wheels go round," even though it may not be equally attractive in all. For this class of people machinery hall is the most attractive spot in the building, and it always has its quota of visitors. This year, owing to the decision of the manufacturers of agricultural implements, not to exhibit at any of the various fairs this season, the usual large number of mowing machines, threshers, etc., are absent, but their place has been taken by a grotto which promises to become very popular with the patrons of the fair. The display of machinery is not as large as in former years, but what is shown is of good quality. James Pender & Co. show an exhibit of their products, wire, wire nails, horseshoe nails and hot forged iron castings. There is also a nail-cutting machine making fourpenny wire nails in full view of the public. This machine cuts 275 nails per minute and uses 300 lbs. of wire in a day. A wire-testing machine is also shown.

E. Leonard & Sons occupy the bulk of the space, showing several engines of their manufacture. Among the engines shown is a Peerless self oiling engine of 80 h. p. This engine is connected with a motor and runs the electric light used in the hall. They also show an automatic 25 h. p. engine of their own make and one of the same kind from the Westhouse works. A duplex steam pump is also shown, as well as a display of the Dodge split pulleys. The exhibit is in charge of J. W. Irwin.

The Londonderry Iron Co. of Londonderry, N. S., shows a slotting machine and a boring machine. The most of the space is taken up by the grotto which is embowered in spruce trees. Rustic seats are picturesquely arranged, and it makes an ideal resort.

BUTTER MAKING COMPETITION.

In agricultural hall at 3.30 p. m. yesterday the butter making competition began. It is to last until Saturday. Each day the competitors are provided with cream by the Exhibition association, and each proceeds with the manufacture with his own utensils and in his own favorite way. The competitors are G. M. Wilson, Lewisville, Westmorland Co.; Percy Stewart, N. W. Guelph, and G. W. Fowler of Sussex; S. L. Peters of Queenstown and Mrs. Geo. Burns of Spruce Lake. The other entries, Wm. Shampier of New Glasgow, are not competing. The competition is in charge of Messrs. Mitchell, Tilly and Daigle, the local government's dairying experts.

A LIVE EAGLE.

An object of interest at the exhibition today is a grey eagle, the property of J. H. Carnall & Son. The bird is confined in a cage near Mr. Carnall's exhibit, and though somewhat subdued is still not easily handled. It flew into the barn of the infantry school at Halifax and was caught by bounds.

THE LIVE STOCK EXHIBIT.

Living creatures are always an attraction, and the exhibit of fish at the exhibition is no exception. As the visitor approaches the exhibit from the main entrance the first thing he sees are the windows behind which are the turtles and frogs.

The snapping turtle occupies first place, and when he is disturbed he does not hesitate to snap. This monster turtle, weighing thirty-five or forty pounds, was caught on the Nerepis river and kept in captivity until wanted for the show. Turtles do not have the next space, but though not nearly so large, they are more brightly colored. Then they have a model frog pond with three varieties of frog. Next comes the fish. The first tank is a large one, and may be said to contain the happy family. They are mostly salt water fish, but on account of the difficulty in procuring suitable salt water, fresh water is now given to them. The list includes a toad fish, a crab, sturgeon, flounder, pickerel and sculpin. The crab and flounder are not expected to survive under the new conditions. A number of large trout, weighing from two up to seven pounds, arrived last night and notwithstanding the large tanks. The other fish exhibited are white and brook trout, salmon, black bass, hornout, suckers and perch. A number of fish have died since the show opened, including pickerel and sunfish. The last tank is labeled "Fond life." It are water plants, clams, snails, worms, etc. The exhibit is being constantly changed and renewed.

IN AGRICULTURAL HALL.

No visitor can afford to miss seeing the display of vegetables, roots, grain and other agricultural products. In many features runs well ahead of all former years. A curiosity is two fine watermelons, grown by A. W. Purdy at Upper James, N. B.

The showing of potatoes is simply wonderful for uniform high quality. The variety of potatoes is in water plants, clams, snails, worms, etc. The exhibit is being constantly changed and renewed.

Among the new exhibitors are the Albert Manufacturing Co. of Hillsborough, N. B. They show some fine specimens of egyptian of various colors, direct from the quarry. Plaster is also shown in bottles, and as applied to the wall. The Rock Wall, Calced and Dental Plaster are the names given to their products.

fireworks display had to be laid over till this evening. There was, however, plenty of amusement in the throng and the old amusement hall, where Hill's variety troupe and the Waragraph are the attractions. The bad weather had its effect, too, on the dining hall patronage, where arrangements had been made to feed a large multitude. Even the peasant boys were complaining last night of the dullness of trade. Visitors to the stockyards were few, the bulk of the people confining their sight-seeing to what was within doors.

The dairy exhibit, which is in the order now, came in for much attention. In the cheese department, Nova Scotia is but slimly represented, only factories at Wallace Bay and Plaisance having exhibits. Prince Edward Island, however, comes well to the front with exhibits from the Winslow road, St. George's, Cowan, Erase, Stablesy Bridge and Dink River factories. The New Brunswick factories showing are Havelock and Salisbury, Mechanics, Newton, Cornhill, Richmond, St. Jacques, Ivey's Corner, Jeffries' Corner, New Denmark, Mt. Whitley and Hartland. The cheese making competition, which is now in progress, continues till next Monday.

Among the new exhibitors are the Albert Manufacturing Co. of Hillsborough, N. B. They show some fine specimens of egyptian of various colors, direct from the quarry. Plaster is also shown in bottles, and as applied to the wall. The Rock Wall, Calced and Dental Plaster are the names given to their products.
