should have the say about such an expenditure as $5,000.

Coun. McMulkin said he had been interviewed by hospital commissioness with respect to his voting for this additional expenditure and he, after hearing their explanation, agreed to support it. Still he thought it would be well to have the matter go to the committee named.

Coun. Kelly wanted the whole matter to come back to the council.

Coun. Fownes was willing to second the motion, but its passage would entail a delay of three months.

Coun. Maxwell pointed out that the commissioners asked in the first instance for $25,000, but the council voted only $15,000. When the tenders came in they were much higher than was expected. This was because of the increase in the price of materials and the pay of laborers. Now they wanted the pay of laborers. Now they wanted the materials and the pay of laborers. This would bring the total up to $21,000 which was $4,000 less than the original request. The commissioners were acting properly in this respect and were making changes which would greatly improve the institution. The motion to refer the matter to the finance and accounts committee with power to act passed.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, of Sept. 26, 1895, says: Sept. 26, 1895, says:

"If I were asked which single medicine I should prefer to take abroad with me, as likely to be most generally useful, to the exclusion of all others. I should say CHLORO-DYNE. I never travel without it, and its general applicability to the relief of a large number of single ailments forms its best recommendation."
