Mrs. Gilchrist left on Friday for McDonald's Corner to be present at the funeral

The many friends of Miss Henrietta Musgrove are pleased to know she is recovering now satisfactorily from a painful filness from quinsey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jones are enjoying a week's vacation, motoring through Kings County.

Much sympathy is expressed by the friends of Mrs. Fred Fenwick of Berwick owing to the death of her brother, Lieut Giles Osgoode who was recently killed in action.

In view of her approaching marriage triends of Miss Nina R. Parlee tendered her a pleasant surprise on Wednesday evening when they invaded her home, laden with many pretty and useful remembrances accompanied by hearty felicitations, which, too, were showered upon the prospective young bride who is deservedly popular and much esteemed among her many friends. To the honored guest was assigned the arduous task of renewing the wrappings from the various gifts, each parcel revealing a new surprise and accompanied by satisface inacriptions, many of thems.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. McNaughton and children are leaving on Friday. 24th, for their home in Winnipes.

Mrs. McNaughton and family have spent several months here and Mr. McNaughton arrived last week to return with them.

Mrs. Murray Gilchrist received a telegram on Wednesday announcing the death of her brother. Fred. M. De Ware who died at his home in Maiden. Mass. after a painful and protracted illness.

The late Mr. De Ware was a native of this province, having been born and spent his early life at McDonald's Corner, where, as elsewhere, he has many friends who learn with keen retrief of his early passing.

Accompanied by relatives, the body will arrive in St. John on Friday and be conveyed by bcat to McDonald's Corner where from his boyhood home the funeral will take place on Sun-Ay.

Mrs. Gilchrist left on Friday for Another Age 28—May C. Work of the Control of the Control

No humbug! Any corn, will loosen and can be lifted whether hard, soft or between the foes, will loosen right up and lift out, without a particle of pain or shrivels or rather loosens soreness.

This remarkable drug is called freezone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus. Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the sore ne ss disappears and shortly the corn or callus stops instantly, corn goes!

The Price of Peace Is Prussianism Destroyed

"There can be no peace until Prussianism is destroyed," says the New York World, in answer to the Pope's peace proposal. "Whether it is destroyed from without or from within rests mainly with the German people themselves, but destroyed it must be if there is to be peace in the world. That is now the beginning and the end of the war aims of the Allies, and unless achieved, autocracy has triumphed and German militarism is master of civilization.

"Germany must be beaten and know she is beaten," says the Louisville Post. And the Chicago Herald warns us that a peace on the Pope's terms "would be a truce not a peace."

Not only do strong supporters of the war dismiss the "Pope's Peace" as a German peace, while they urge strenuous waging of war till Germany is made either "powerless or free," but pacifists. Socialists and German Americans agree in predicting the failure of the new papal efforts

In THE LITERARY DIGEST of August 25th is an interesting article reflecting the opinion of the Press of the country on this newest of the peace proposals.

Missing The Point.

It has been asked lately if some of our women are not rather missing the point of all this food conservation talk. When asked to economise you hear it said "Well, I don't know how I can do without anything more," and indeed it seems a mere mockery to preach economy to some hardworking mothers burdens is the central error of large families. But the Bible teaching of bearing one another's burdens is the central truth and real reason back of all the economy advice. It may not be for ourselves at all, but it certainty will benefit others if we stop using certain articles of food.

Where a family might not take the trouble to use a substitute for white flour simply from a hygienic standpoint, surely no one can refuse to use whole wheat flour, cornmeal and other changes of meal when you realise that it is to save the white flour for our own soldiers, for the British soldier and for the people of France. When those who know advise a substitute it is for some wise reason. That is the motto we must adopt. "It is for my country" and that is also the reason we must economize. What are you going to be able to buy when prices go still higher if you have not drawn in your expenditure now? And how are you going to be able to help those who are barely able to get along now, to whom the mere matter of living is one continual question of where to get enough for the next meal.

Money saved must go for war bonds, of course.

You who have gardens must can, so that the food may be left for those who have neither the vegetables or the time to can them. You who can buy the fruit must preserve it so that you can leave that much more food for others.

It is really a most unselfab work viewed from this side.

For it is utilitarian and hygienic, alc, philanthropic and religious. Doesn't it add a new interest to those hours over the stove, the labor of lifting the cans out of the bollers and sterilizing the rubbers. Was there ever an age where the most prosaic work was so glorious? As Owen Seaman writes:

We have heard so much about meatless days" that it was rather treat to hear about meat and its used. At the Imperial Theatre yesterda. Moreone the president of the House wives' League gave a talk upon mea and showed diagrams explaining the principal cuts, the cheaper-cuts and the right way to purchase. Mrs. Lawlo urged personal attendance at the may left and the necessity of the accurate has weledge which will lead to intelligent buying. She compared the price of meat now with those of four year ago and told of some of the reason for the higher prices, some of the resum for the higher prices, some of the resum which are not justified by the circum stances. It was explained how the cheane which are not justined by the cheaner stances.

It was explained how the cheaper cuts of meat are often the more nu-tritious, and while one cannot make a sirloin out of a shoulder, still people can be educated to eat the more inex pensive cuts when properly prepared The diagrams used were prepared by Mrs. Lawlor and the talk was given in a clear and carefully prepared man-ling.

There was a fair attendance. Mrs
