

MARITIME LIBERALS APPROVE ACTION OF LATE GOVERNMENT IN AIDING THE UNEMPLOYED

Failed to Fall in With Other Members of Their Government Who Criticized Placing Steel Orders in Sydney Mills and at Amherst Last Fall.

Ottawa, May 11.—(By Canadian Press)—The House tonight saw the tables turned. Instead of the Opposition doing its best to give one of the Ministers a trying time when his estimates were under review, Government members were doing their best to give the Minister of Railways, a couple of uncomfortable hours as they queried him with regard to the placing of contracts for car repairs, steel rails and equipment for the Government railways. The order-in-council authorizing the placing of the contracts was passed in October last, in the days of the Meighen administration, and members supporting the present Government were critical of an item in supplementary estimates of $755,000 to provide for payment for the materials and repairs between then and Dec. 31.

Conservative ex-Ministers explained that the contracts had been placed by the board administering the Government railways, after consultation with the Minister of Labor, to relieve unemployment. The railway boards had been asked to administer the contracts as far as possible, their requirements for this spring in new rails and car repairs, and to place those orders last fall in order to relieve unemployment. Liberal members generally expressed suspicion that the Government had considered political expediency in letting these contracts, or indicating where they were to be let, rather than unemployment conditions. The shops of the Government railways had kept idle while contracts were given to private corporations, it was alleged.

Meighen Commended. H. J. Logan (Liberal, Cumberland) declared, however, that in view of the suffering in Amherst, through unemployment, would have been in their duty had it not placed some orders there. He supported the action of the Meighen Government in placing these orders. George W. Kyte (Liberal, Cape Breton S. and Richmond), urged further that it is possible steel rails orders should be placed in the city of Sydney. He said, very serious unemployment there. The city had built up around the steel industry and it was the best local market for coal. Some orders had been given last fall, but unfortunately, the steel company had not received sufficient general business to keep their plants busy. If it was possible he would urge the Minister of Railways to try and have an order for $5,000 tons of steel rails, placed with the company at Sydney. The Government would soon require more rails, and even if it anticipated next year's requirements, the benefit which would result would be well worth the expenditure. He served notice on the Government that he would continue to press for this order in order to relieve unemployment condition in Sydney which might be alleviated.

Hon. T. A. Cresser said that he must dissent from the "strange and remarkable" doctrine which Mr. Kyte was preaching. He sympathized with the unemployed in Sydney, but the steel industry in Canada had been subsidized to the extent of fifteen or twenty million dollars. Now Mr. Kyte asked that a large expenditure be made in order to employ workmen who had been drawn together round the steel plants. The Minister of Railways would be very unwise if he departed from sound business principles in a matter of this kind. The only consideration that should govern in purchasing rails and supplies for the National system was that of getting the best supplies for the smallest sum. Mr. Kyte returned that he did not think conditions in Sydney were any different from those obtaining in other sections of the country. Western farmers, suffering from hard times, demanded a wheat board. He passed to support the western farmers in their efforts. He considered it unwise, however, that Mr. Cresser should oppose his efforts to obtain relief for the steel workers of Nova Scotia.

On Advice of Labor Department. Hon. J. A. Stewart, former Minister of Railways and Canals, said that last October the Minister of Labor had advised that the unemployment situation was grave, and it was for that reason that all rail orders would assist the unemployed to get through the winter. The rails were ordered but the Government was not forced to take delivery until they wished to do so. He contended that the Government of that day had followed the wisest course. The Hon. J. A. Stewart (Liberal, Lotbiniere) asked: "Does the ex-Minister not think the date of these orders was of some political significance?" "No, absolutely and emphatically," was the reply. Hon. James Macdougall said certain gentlemen had told him during his first three months of office that all that was necessary to get an order for rails placed was to get the Minister of Labor to requisition the Minister of Railways who would, in turn, ask the railway management to place the order. Was it necessary, he asked, to haul cars 800 miles to the Maritime Provinces, to be repaired. Hon. Dr. Manion asked if the late Government was to be blamed for relieving unemployment because an election was coming off. Dr. Manion touched on steel bonuses, complimenting Mr. Fielding for following this plan in 1920. It had built up the iron and steel industry in Canada, but he did not notice Mr. Fielding attempting to reply to Mr. Cresser's criticism of the bonuses, probably because Mr. Fielding would rather not quarrel with Mr. Cresser. George Bovin (Liberal, Shefford) and the Government made no move to relieve unemployment last year until the election was declared, and then it ignored its own shops at St. John, Moncton and other places and gave the work to private firms for profit advantage. The Government passed an order-in-council authorizing the placing of orders to put a gun to the head of the board or to wield the big stick telling them where to place the orders for rails. Mr. Stewart heatedly denied that any such order-in-council was ever passed. The Minister of Labor was only concerned directly through his department being in touch with the employment situation. The Hon. J. A. Stewart, Liberal member for Pictou, defended the action of the late Government in arranging for the repair of cars in the Maritime Provinces when another item, one of $800,000 for staff and repairs, Department of Railways and Canals, was under consideration. He said that the farmers of the West would be the sufferers in a very unpleasant situation in the fall when the grain was moving if there were insufficient cars. The late Government, in ordering repairs to be made, was perfectly justified, especially in view of the unemployment situation in the Maritime Provinces. There was not a single repair shop on the Canadian National Railway system for repairing steel cars. It was much better to deal with unemployment by giving work to people than by making grants to municipalities.

New Yorker Sold Bogus Beer To Rich Scraped Labels Off Near Product and Marked It Special for Chicagoans.

Chicago, May 11.—Daniel W. Davis came to Chicago from New York to make $1,000,000 by selling near beer under the guise of real beer. Today he sat in the lockup at the Federal Building and told how he had fooled the persons whose names go into the Blue Book and the Social Register. Davis was sorry the Government had interrupted his career as a Wallingford, bootlegger. He defied prohibition agents to prove that the kick in his brew registered more than one-half of one per cent.

"The Government does not dare to produce an analysis of that beer," Davis said. "I came all the way here from New York. I knew from newspaper reports that Chicago was one of the best cities in the country in which to make money by liquor." He came from one of the best families in New York. I am not a thief, either; but when a fellow can figure out three or four ways to make a million dollars through being fooled, I believe he is entitled to the dough.

"It was my proposition. I knew there were a number of beer lovers among the wealthy. I know, too, they would buy beer if it were delivered safely to their homes. After three years the average man forgets the taste of real beer. He can be fooled on the near stuff. "So I bought up a lot of near beer, scraped off the labels and replaced them with a big, red label bearing the word 'Special.' I got a Blue Book and prepared a list of names. Later I called upon several of the families of prominent men, too, and told them all the same story: 'I'm the fellow you have been looking for. I am selling good near beer. In Chicago it is called your home without payment in advance.' "They all bit. I delivered all my goods to automobiles, in a nice, neat little carton, you know—labeled 'bright daylight'—front door. I had a string of live salesmen who knew their business. One of them attempted to get an order from the member of the Anti-Saloon League. They told him he was in the wrong place to sell beer—or all-the-way beer. That ended the business. Davis said his profits last month ran close to $10,000. He is 22 years old and says he is engaged to marry the sister of one of Chicago's prominent lawyers.

Red Tape Halts Wedding of Hero And Belgian Spy

Romance of French Soldier and Nurse Begun in War Hospital.

New York, May 11.—Camille Asp, a soldier of France, fell in love with Laure Galle, a Belgian girl, when she came to a Belgian hospital early in the world war, and they have been trying to get married ever since. They thought they had reached the end of their trouble when they arrived in the United States yesterday on board the Grace liner Santa Teresa from the Argentine Republic, but the Immigration Bureau stopped in and held the young woman's files in Belgium because the quota for Belgium was exhausted. Asp went with her, and now they cannot get married until the red tape in Washington is untangled. Asp and Miss Galle planned to get married at the time he was in the hospital, before he went back to the front, but he was sent back hurriedly when the West would not be held in a very unpleasant situation in the fall when the grain was moving if there were insufficient cars. The late Government, in ordering repairs to be made, was perfectly justified, especially in view of the unemployment situation in the Maritime Provinces. There was not a single repair shop on the Canadian National Railway system for repairing steel cars. It was much better to deal with unemployment by giving work to people than by making grants to municipalities.

In all this time her betrothed had not heard from her and believed her dead. He fought through the war and then came to New York and from here went to Uruguay to represent the produce firm of Aspergen & Co. There he learned that Miss Galle was all right and he wrote her in Belgium. She answered that she had been bloodied again to such an extent that they made an appointment to meet in Buenos Aires. They had hoped to be married in Buenos Aires, but they must live in the Argentine for three months and cut innumerable lengths of red tape. So they decided to come to the United States and from there to the extraordinarily curious idea that there was no red tape in this country. But the ship hardly had docked before the immigration authorities surrounded and hopelessly entangled them. They will be examined today by a board of special inquiry and eventually, through the aid of the Belgian and Uruguayan Ministers, they hope to be allowed to come ashore long enough to be married in a church.

Six Passersby Hit By Gunmen Bullets In Bootlegger Feud

Four Men, Two Women Shot Within Block of Police Headquarters.

New York, May 11.—Five men paused late yesterday afternoon in homegoing crowds in Grand street between Mulberry and Broome and within a block of Police Headquarters and began shooting at each other with pistols. They fired some thirty shots, throwing the neighborhood into an uproar and bringing scores of patrolmen, detectives and high police officials from Headquarters. When the battle was ended the gunman had shot four men and two women, but had not harmed each other. All escaped but one, who was caught after a chase of two blocks. The police said they had not for many years seen such a shooting in East Side give way to such excitement. Men, women and children poured from tenements and small stores along Mulberry and Mott streets at the sound of the firing, jamming Grand street from curb to curb and making it difficult for ambulances to get through. Reserves from the Oak street station were sent from Headquarters and within an hour before the police dispersed the crowds. Detectives declare the battle was an outgrowth of the murder eight months ago of a bootlegger named William "Red" Peppé, who was shot and killed in a pistol duel in Broome street. According to them the man caught yesterday, Joseph Massera, of 49 Broome street, was the man who shot Peppé. He was shot and killed in a pistol duel in front of 261 East 116th street.

Stiff Sentences For Smugglers

Springfield, Vt., May 11.—Liquor smugglers from the province of Quebec into Vermont, is on the increase and the law this summer will be great unless every smuggler caught has the maximum sentence imposed. Rev. Clarence G. Clark, head of the Vermont Anti-Saloon League, told delegates to the State Congressional Conference which opened here today. Clerical and lay delegates from 200 churches in the State were in attendance when Judge Frank L. Fish of Vergennes called the conference to order. Declaring that a careful investigation of the rum-running business over "we have underestimated not over-estimated the amount of incoming liquor." Rev. Mr. Clark, who is pastor of the First Congregational Church here, asserted that prison sentences must be imposed on smugglers as fines would not stop smuggling. "This smuggling business," he said, "is too profitable to feel the handicap of an occasional fine. "What do you think of the call proposal of the Premier of Quebec who, claiming a profit of four millions a year and admitting that 4 per cent of the liquor was sold to people outside the province, suggests that the government should devote two millions of this to education, one million to good

PEACEFUL BLUE SUNDAY FOR THE ENTIRE NATION

Lord's Day Alliance to Make Campaign Against Films and Baseball Games in U. S.

New York, May 11.—More strict enforcement of the Sabbath laws is to be demanded by the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States. A board of directors decided yesterday to renew their campaign against all Sunday sports and amusements carried on for money making purposes. They are against Sunday baseball, Sunday movies and all other similar activities for which admission fees are charged. The Alliance is extending its activities to all parts of the United States and in the summer campaign will be preparing for a new assault on the Legislatures which meet next winter. The board of directors had luncheon yesterday at the Aldine Club, 300 1/2th avenue, after which they had a long discussion of their programme. A new headquarters is being opened in Chicago to push the Alliance's work in the Middle West, an organization is being launched in Indiana and plans are developing for work in other States, including Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota. The work is also carried into the Rocky Mountain States and into the South and in all these places it is planned to carry on an extensive campaign for better Sabbath. In a statement issued at the end of the session, the Rev. H. L. Bowby, general secretary, said: "Every State and district auxiliary and affiliated society will be advised to watch the State legislatures, and every effort to pass commercial Sunday bills will be resisted as was done last winter in Albany. "The board was unanimous also in its determination that more constructive legislation must be enacted in order to protect every laboring man and woman in every State in the right of one full day of rest in seven. "After a five year trial of Sunday closing for the slaughtering and packing houses of New York a number of appeals were made recently by the packing houses of New York and vicinity to the Alliance to the effect that the Alliance use its utmost efforts to keep all of these establishments closed on Sunday. "All agreed that the experience had proved advantageous both for employers and employees. Four big Jewish establishments were among those that made this earnest request. About seven years ago many of the packers persistently opposed this reform movement. Now 99 per cent of this trade does not want any Sunday work of this character."

Mr. Feltin was an officer in the Russian army during the revolution which followed the late war.

Beware of Tender Gums

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound, keep the gums well. Watch for tenders and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty. Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills. To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U.S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid. LONDON BEGINS TO BRIGHTEN UP

Hotel Men Looking for a Big Influx of Americans This Summer.

London, May 11.—London business men, particularly hotel and restaurant proprietors, are expecting a huge influx of Americans this summer, which cannot materialize to anything like the extent predicted in the local press. If 30,000 Americans come to England on first class ship tickets and use only first-class passenger facilities, Londoners are interested in London will be lucky. However, some traders are expecting 100,000 or more, which is impossible with the present steamship facilities. "London is making a valiant effort to brighten up, and the few places where visitors may enjoy cabaret life are widely advertised; but there is still room for improvement, in the opinion of Gordon Selfridge, head of the large Americanized department store, who arrived on the Olympic last week. He depreciated the fact that half the Olympic's passengers disembarked at Cherbourg and went straight to Paris, where they knew they could have a good time. But London is brighter than for eight years, and Americans who know their way about can find cheaper hotel accommodations than for several years while restaurant prices are not so high as in either Philadelphia or New York.

Austria Near Collapse; Credits Fail to Give Relief

Vienna, May 11.—Economic conditions in Austria are growing worse daily, notwithstanding the credits given by the Allies on the Entente. The dearth of necessities is increasing and the cost of living is reaching an incredible height. Within a week the price of meat increased 300 per cent. It is not known how the credits have or will be employed, but the fact is the rate of the crown in the world money market is at its lowest. To make matters worse, a strike of public officials threatens the shattered country, for they are demanding an increase in salary, which, if granted, means a new burden of 11,000,000,000 crowns a month. The officials are asking ten times what they received a year ago, claiming that they had to spend 64 per cent of their salary for food, as against 23 per cent, now. Chancellor Schober and the Minister of Finance are, at Genoa, consequently the Government has not succeeded in the financial demands. They threaten to strike within a week. As evidence of conditions in Austria, an employer who yesterday dismissed forty laborers because of insufficient work, was raised today, dragged from his office and thrown into a lake, the
