A BACHELOR'S CONSOLATION.

A Romance of the North. BY ROCKEFELLOW.

In a snug little cot, not a thousand miles off, lived a lonely, contented old "bachelor" who looked his own grub and died by himself, and had no one to see on a path.

With his cat, and his dog, and his little pet mouse, he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

There no doubt were maids and maids quite who would fawn to relieve his distress, but he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

Now, this lonely old bachelor heard by a friend, that in his own neighborhood, there was a young lady who was a perfect beauty, and she was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

Having fully determined to get a machine, he went to the "Whisper & Wilson" the other day, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

For some time he had been in the habit of reading the "Whisper & Wilson" the other day, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

And a few for the "Flowers" were ready to fight, but he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

So set to the "Whisper & Wilson" he went, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

Then down at the agent of "Flowers" he went, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

And he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

But our Bachelor friend was disappointed still, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

But the "Flowers" was not to be, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

Our hero replied, "What's the use of the one? Why take in the right one to get all the fun?"

The "Flowers" and the "Wilson" both vainly tried, but he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

The "Flowers" and the "Wilson" both vainly tried, but he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

The "Flowers" and the "Wilson" both vainly tried, but he had declared he would never marry again, and he was contented, and would frequently say, "So on with him in his docting."

Election Cards.

To the Electors of King's County. GENTLEMEN: The General Assembly having dissolved you will shortly be called to elect representatives to serve you for another term in the Legislature.

The Convention which was lately held in this County to elect a Ticket favorable to the maintenance of a system of Free-non-sectarian Education, have chosen me as one of the Candidates. I have accepted the nomination, and cordially rely upon the Ticket so elected, receiving your hearty approval.

I shall again, as I have constantly done in the past, strive to perform satisfactorily the duties devolving upon your Representative.

Respectfully soliciting your support, I remain, Yours very truly, J. H. CRAWFORD.

Hampton, King's County, May 29th, 1874. (my 22d at 1 o'clock)
