Business is Good

Vern Willis sells a load of wheat, And all the world grows fair and sweet;

He hums a couple of cheerful tunes,
And pays S. Weaver for his prunes.

S. Weaver, who has had the blues, Now buys his wife a pair of shoes.

That ten the Shoeman thinks God-sent,
And runs and pays it on the rent.

Next day the Rent Man hands the bill
To Doctor Gillrie for a pill.

And Doctor Gillrie tells his Frau That business is improving now.

And cheers her up and says: "My dear,
You've been quite feeble for a year.

I think you need some country air, You better spend a week out there.

And in a couple of days the dame Is boarding at the Willis "home".

She pays her board to farmer Vern, Who takes the bill and says, "be darn"

Here's something that can't be beat, This bill's the one I got for wheat.

He hums a couple of cheerful tunes,
And goes and buys a lot more prunes.

A Canadian School of Missions

The Canadian School of Missions is a new enterprise that is conducted in Toronto as a co-operative effort of the Anglican, Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches.
The Foreign Mission Boards of these denominations have organized the school as an agency for the specialized training of missionaries and missionary candidates, working in co-operation with theological seminaries or universities having theological departments. Instruction is given at a minimum of cost, under a director Rev. J. Lovell Murry, D. D.

Appreciating Grandfather and Grandmother

Paper given by Mrs. Walker Drummond at October Meeting of the Women's Institute.

This subject is a very vital one in these times. Then to, it is appropriate for this meeting in that it precedes "Grandmother's Day", and I trust we shall all show our appreciation that day by coming out in full force to their meeting. Since the Women's Institute seeks always to uphold and promote the welfare of the community, from the youngest to the eldest, it is fitting that we should take time to consider my subject in this too fast an age.

Appreciate means to value or know the worth of. Think then of the value or worth of grandparents. Are we not and have we not just what they have made us, or made for us?
We go on where they left off, and the next generation will go from where we leave off. Did you ever think it would be that much easier or harder for your child to do, or not to do, just because you tried and won, or failed. Our grandparents have sown in many ways, and we reap of their labors. They chopped the trees to make homes and clear the fields, built roads and formed governments, etc. Surely then we owe them a debt not easily paid.

Yet there is a lack of appreciation especially among our young people, and what is the reason? Ours is a young country. We are continually looking forward; we live more for today and tomorrow—very little in the past. Young men and women have the opportunities and hold the positions of trust in our land. So noticeable was this that an eminent statesman from England while visiting here commented upon it through the newspaper. In the old land it is the very opposite, the white hairs are honored.

However we do like to hear of respect, and we should show respect, for where would we be if some one had not shown care and kindness toward us. The very least we can do is to try and return what was done for us. It is a very foolish person who says we do not owe a debt to the past, for we are only one link in the great chain of life. There is real splendid genius in the older person. Even Marconi says he would rather have been able to do some of the things of the past, as discovering the letters, than to do what he is doing today.

As blades of grass, color of hair, sounds of voices, etc., are different, so are ones likes and dislikes. With fleeting years and the scope of activities becoming less we notice these little trays of character more—flesh falls heir to these. The young person must remember this and hold the laugh we often hear, for the day is coming when we shall reveal the very same.

Now in conversation young people will often exclude older ones. How ignorant! What pleasure it gives somebody you know to tell of bygone times. Listen, it will do you both good. Perhaps it will let you know of hardships, victories, joy, or sorrow or true love. There is a discipline of mind in elders not found in the younger.

There seems to be a feeling of superiority with boys and girls today over their elders. Is because of education or money? We all know of some faithful families saving and working to get this one or that one through college, and then the bitter sting of ingratitude.

Then too, I think we should show our appreciation to grandfather or mother by remembering all red letter days—birthdays, wedding anniversaries and Christmas. Write a letter or send a little gift at least, and if it is possible all meet together for a grand Christmas celebration with turkey and a Christmas tree. For after all the world works on the basis of love.

In conclusion let me give this clipping.

"God so loved the world that the gave,—runs the glorious gospel story.
Men so love that they give,—runs all human history.

The story of civilization and progress of all that has counted for good the earth over. Men have so loved liberty, that they have given up ease, fortune and safety to secure it for themselves and others. They have so loved the truth that have sacrificed home and loved ones for its sake. They have so loved their fellows that they have given hospitals, missionary effort, benevolence of every sort for their healing and uplifting. To love is to give always, and love in some form lies at the root of all endeavor. It is the moving power that is speeding the ships of commerce and whirling the wheels of industry in all this busy world today. For somebody's dear sake the drudgery is bravely borne, the picture painted, the invention and the difficult task completed.

Love sings over the washboard, toils in the shop, the kitchen the schoolroom and everywhere every day of the year, gives lavishly of time, strength, labor and thought.
No other force equals it in heaven or on earth.

When you hear some would-be person of wisdom remark that love has very little to do with affairs in this practical age, just think for a minute what would stop if all the love in the world suddenly died out of it.

Suppose This Were YOUR Home!

Carefully consider fire protection when you build or remodel your home.

Every waking and sleeping moment you and your family spend in an inflammable house you risk your lives.

Build for safety by using Gypsum Board and Gypsum Plaster.

Then all your partitions and ceilings will be made of material that can't burn—Gypsum.

Tight joints, no cracks or crevices, air-space insulation between walls (all features of this type of construction), positively prevent the spread of heat and flames.

Added advantages of Gypsum Board and Plaster are their sanitary and sound-proof qualities.

Ask for the Gypsum Board booklet—it's free.
