

be secured before the Mission begins. The collections at all public meetings are received and cared for by the Finance Committee. A thank-offering in envelopes supplied, is made on the closing nights of the Mission. The surplus ^{Sabbath} ~~over~~ the average loose collection on the ~~Sabbaths~~ should also be added to the above. These offerings are for the Board's work.

No greater mistake can be made than not to encourage regenerated or revived people to give to their Master's work. They usually want to do so. This the Board considers unquestionable, and of the greatest importance.

(3). An Advertising Committee. In some places it may be wise to ask the Finance Committee or the Executive to do the work of this Committee. It will make the meetings known throughout the district to be reached—thoroughly known, and a vital interest aroused. Not a few records show that no earnest effort was made to acquaint the public of the services to be carried on until after the Missioners arrived.

Advertising may be done (a) by reporting the plans decided upon at each meeting, in the local press, and by the insertion of carefully worded advertisements; (b) by asking the active help of the Committees on Prayer,
