

larging the opening lecture on the Daniel fore-view, and the closing one on the Reformation, I have availed myself of the valuable help of my beloved wife, who has for so many years been my fellow labourer both in literary and evangelistic work.

I shall rejoice if these lectures obtain a wide circulation, for they contain, I am sure, truth for the times,—truth deeply and increasingly needed, not only for the preservation of the civil and religious liberties of our country and empire, but for the practical guidance of the people of God in these last days.
