QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

BARBED-WIRE WOUND.

Mare got cut in front of the hock with barbed wire a year ago. It has not entirely healed up yet. It heals, and then cracks open again. We are working her all the time. The leg swells some when she stands.

J. S. K.

Ans.—On account of the constant flexion and extension of the hock, wounds in this region are very hard to heal. Apply, three times daily, a little oxide of zinc ointment to which has been added 20 drops of carbolic acid to the ounce of ointment. Do not wash the parts. Give her a purgative of 8 drams aloes and 2 drams ginger. Feed on bran only for twelve hours before and twenty-four hours after administering the purgative, and do not work until her bowels regain their normal condition.

WORMS.

1. Mare is thin, and passes white worms.
2. Her sucking colt also passes worms.

F. J. S.

Ans.—1. Take 1½ ounces sulphate of iron, sulphate of copper, calomel and tartar emetic. Mix, and make into twelve powders. Give a powder every night and morning in damp food, or mixed with ¼ a pint water as a drench. Feed bran only after the last powder has been taken, and in twelve hours give a purgative of 8 drams aloes and 2 drams ginger, and feed bran only until purgation ceases. If she is again in foal, omit the purgative, but give the powders as above.
2. Treat the same, only use but 2 drams each of the drugs to make 12 powders. For a purgative to follow the powders, give 4 ounces raw linseed oil.

ABORTION.

Cow, six years old, has had four calves. Each was born from six weeks to two months before full term. This year we tried the carbolic-acid treatment, but she aborted all the same.

M. B.

Ans.—This cow has acquired the habit of aborting. The accident in this case is not due to contagion. The habit is very hard to correct. I would advise you to not breed her for eight to twelve months. After you breed her, treat her very kindly, and when she reaches that stage of pregnancy at which she has aborted several times, keep her very quiet in a partially-darkened box stall, feed on sloppy food, and watch closely. If she shows symptoms of aborting, give her 3 ounces tincture of opium in a pint of cold water as a drench, and repeat the dose in three hours, or longer if the symptoms indicate the necessity.

CHRONIC COUGH

Mare commenced to cough last fall, and coughed more or less all winter; when turned on grass in the spring, the cough ceased, but has returned since she has been stabled again this fall. She coughs for about half an hour in the morning when fed. She has had no nasal discharge, or swelling of the glands.

G. W.

Ans.—Chronic coughs are very hard to treat, but in many cases treatment is successful when the lungs have not undergone change of structure. Give her, every morning, a ball composed of 2 drams solid extract of belladonna, 1½ drams powdered opium, 30 grains digitalis, and 1 dram camphor, with sufficient oil of tar to make it plastic. Roll in tissue paper and administer, or dissolve in a pint of warm water and administer as a drench.

Miscellaneous.

WYANDOTTE WITH RED-TINTED LEGS.

How many points will a White Wyandotte male score that is perfect in every respect, but his yellow legs are tinted with red?

H. O. H.

Ans.—The bird you speak of should be cut about ¼ a point on color of legs, that would make him score 99½. I never saw as perfect a bird. A 95-point bird would be worth from twenty-five to sixty dollars, and one that would score 99½ would be well worth one hundred dollars. I would like to see this bird, if possible. I would like to see one so perfect.
