

The Kodak Story

Is a continued and never concluded story that grips and fascinates every member of the family. Perhaps it may be a picture story of the home folks—of interesting places and still more interesting people. You can make it history with an Autographic Kodak, for you can date it when you make it.

We have Autographic Kodaks at from $8.50 to $65 and Autographic Brownies at from $7.50 to $14.00.

Our specialty is Developing and Printing for amateurs.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO.

Practically only one load of fresh cattle came on the Union Stock Yards yesterday, but the 900 or 1000 left overs from Monday's training was more than the market could handle and a lot of stuff of one kind or other remained, unsold at the close of the market yesterday.

The buyers for the big packing houses were apparently not out for any extended buying and the bulk of the sales were made at Monday's decline of from 50c to 75c per cwt. The 75c cut will practically apply to all classes of cattle on the market. Some good loads of butchers that yesterday sold for $10.75 per cwt. would really have brought $11.50 on Monday week.

One leading commission man who sold a load of good fat steers, averaging 1250 lbs. for $11.50, said that he had sold exactly the same class of cattle Monday week at $12.50 and this fact was confirmed by the buyer himself.

The market is off a good 75c and in some cases a little more. There is no doubt of it and the cut is pretty well applicable all round.

There was practically no hog market yesterday and no quotations would be available or trustworthy under the abnormal conditions at present obtaining. What effect the restrictions will have upon the market in the immediate future it is hard to say.

Conscription of labor to help in the food production campaign is proposed in some quarters. To a certain extent that is already being done by the tribunals, who exempted thousands of young men from military service on condition that they get on the land or remain on the land. Out of Ontario's population of 2,500,000 there are about 1,000,000 engaged in farming. Taking for granted that every man thus engaged is doing his utmost for food production, it stands to reason that with each one working out his own plan there is a tremendous waste of effort through lack of system and co-operation. Our armies of producers should almost be organized on a plan similar to that of our armies of fighters. It is through such industrial organization that Germany is able to continue to defy the world in arms and maintain her food supply. While we may not look for any move to form our farmers up into battalions of land workers, it may become necessary, if the struggle continues much longer, to call every able bodied young man into the army and conscript many other classes of labor to do the work on the land. Not only will it be necessary for the Government to assist farmers to procure workers, but also to formulate a scheme for raising grain extensively on the great stretches of fertile vacant land in the west. Youths under military age, men over the age, also girls and young women can all be trained to assist either the farmers or such government plans on the food line, and their services be made a great factor in beating the Germans.
