CALIFORNIA.

A NUT FOR THE GENLOCIETA.—H. De Witt, of this town, who has recently returned from California, brought with him a piece of the amiferous quartz rock, of about the size of a man's fast. On Thanksgiving day, it was brought out for exhibition to a fitend, when it accidentally dropped upon the floor, and split open. Near the centre of the mass was discovered, firmly embedded in the quartz and slightly correded, a cat iron anil, of the size of a siz-panny nail. It was entirely straight and had a perfect bend. By whom was take nail made? At what period was it planted in the yet uncrystallized quartz? How came it in California? If the head of that nail could talk, we should know something more of American history, than we are ever likely to know.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Exports of Golde.—During the month of October, California exported $6,836,875 in treasure.—This would give an aggregate of $82,618,300 for the current year. Most of this large amount, of course, finds its way to the Allantic States, and thus the whole confideracy is benefited. The amount which will be carried forward during the period of twelve months by returning Californian, will not, probably, be less than $30,000,000, giving an aggregate of ore $100,000,000 as the products of the mines this year. Who will say, that the inexhassible treasure of California is a fiction?

Diving for Golde.—We are credibly informed, that a large party of Masicans and Indines are now making from ten dollars to an onnes a day about one and a half miles above Oregon Bar, on the Mokelmme river, by diving for gold. The water is very cold and deep, and being in the centre of a steep channel, there is no way of turning the river. The divers go down with a round-pointed shovel, or a common tip yan, which they bring up half full of sand shovel, or a common tip yan, which they bring up half full of sand shovel, or a common tip yan, which they bring up half full of sand shovel, or a common tip yan, which they bring up half full of sand shovel, or a common ti

NEW CONVICT SETTLEMENT.—The project of establishing a new convict settlement at New Caledonia, in the Southern Archipedago, has for some time occupied the attention of Her Majesty's Government, and active steps for the purpose are at this moment under consideration. The island is described by those who have visited it in whaling ships as presenting sources of a most valuable character, teeming with vegetation, abounding in varieties of timber of the best description, suitable alike for shipbuilding and other useful purposes, whilst the climate is, at the same time, said to be delightfully salubrious, and the harbours already known, safe and capacious.

There has been a serious Masselman riot at Bombay. It was occasioned by the Parsee Midter of an illustrated newspaper (in each of which is given at life and portrait of some remarkable historical character) having published in the series (next to one of Benjamin Franklin) a like pottrait of Mahomet. The riot lasted about half an hour, when the mob was dispersed by the Police. Several persons were dangerously injured—shops were plundered, and Parsee women violated. No means had been taken to ascertain the amount of property plundered. Its value is stated by the police authorities and their organ, the Bombay Times, to be under £1000, and by the other local papers to have exceeded £25,000.

Colony. Than proper Education, no greater benefit can be bestowed, by their rulers, upon a people. Their morality, their prosperity, their health, their happiness, all depend upon it. We shall, therefore, most willingly leud whatever assistance we have ability to afford, for the furtherance, on just principles, of the Free Education Scheme. Our own views touching the question, we will endeavour briefly to set forth in our next number.

And if any, in the popular branch of the Legislature either oppose the measure, or fail to sustain it, according to the full measure of their strength, their conduct will afford all ther men ample reason for withholding from them in future, as public men, the confidence which had previously been reposed in them? for, either in wisdom or integrity, or in both, they will have made manifest their great deficiency; and ought, thenceforth, to be held positively disqualified for any public trust. Sia,—

Although you have not, as yet, taken occasion, through the medium of your editorial columns, to make any public declaration of your sentiments touching the scheme of Free Education; which, it is expected, will be seriously agitated at least, if not effectually provided for, in the approaching Session of the Legislature; it will not, I feel certain, be believed by any one who, like myself, has been a constant reader of your paper, and a close observer of your public character and conduct, for many years, that you can possibly feel lukewarm or indifferent concerning the progress of this—your native—Island.

It is true, that you have already, (in common with the other proprietors of our Island Press,) entitled yourself, as respects this subject, to the thanks of all amongst your fellow colonists who are friendly to the cause of Education, simply by the publication of the communication which appeared in your last, respecting the meeting so judiciously held, by a respectable number of our District Teachers, for the laudable purpose of taking into consideration the present state of Education of Teachers, for the laudable purpose of taking into consideration the present state of Education of the Colony, and of enquiring how far, by amy probable action or measure of the Legislature, our present very imperfect, not to say almost wholly ineffi-

The Courier des Etats, A French paper of high character, published in New York, manifests much astonishment and indignation at the course which Louis Napoleon has adopted, in order to become possessed of imperial power.—We translate as follows:

"For our part, in whatever light we view the conduct of Louis Napoleon, we cannot find for him the shadow of an excuse. He has awakened all the dormant political passions of the people, just when they had accustomed themselves to respect the provisions of the Constitution.—He has violated his oath, at the hour when for his own honor and the well being of his country, it was most important that he should keep it. He has sought to influence public opinion by one of those demoralizing firebrands which are more fatal than a sudden outbreak. He has again opened a way for all revolutions by thus giving them his sanction.

This is a strange aberration of a man for when the caprice of a great nation had marked out so brilliant a destiny. He might have been honored and respected had he followed the counsels of Lamertine, and quitted honorably a station to which he would in all probability one day have been restored. He has thosen to be a saurper—he has chosen to imitate his uncle, but it is not upon the rock

Two great events have transpired in the course of a few days preceding the departure of the Steamer—each capable of seriously influencing the character of all commercial operations. First, the resignation of Lord Palmerston, the Secretary for Foreign Affaire—and the other, the election, by a very large majority, of Louis Napoleon as President of France for ten years. A temporary disarrangement of the várious markets, and the decline of prices in many had occurred; but when it became known that Lord Granville was to succeed Lord Palmerston, confidence became in some measure restored. rston has suddenly retired from the office of Foreign

Lord Palmerston has suddenly retired from the office of Foreign Secretary, to the amazement and regret of the whole nation. He has been succeeded by Lord Granville. This autounding act is impated to the dissentions which were known to exist in the Cabinet for several months, and was precipitated by the significant reception and emphatic avowal of opinion to the Kossuth deputation, to whom his Lordship used language by no means complimentary to the absolutions of Europe. The fearless position assumed by his Lordship proved distasteful to the majority of the Ministry, and hence the result.
