A New Questions and Answers Department of Interest to Shooters

Readers are reminded that this column is open to questions which should be sent to me in care of the Sporting Editor, and to discussions by the readers on anything connected with hunting or target shooting.—A. P. L.

H. A. D., Fall Creek, Wis.
Some time ago you stated that firearms should be cleaned from the breech and never from the muzzle. Should old guns, rifles and revolvers be cleaned from the breech only—that is, pulling only towards the muzzle, or only the rifles, or did this have reference to automatic shotguns, rifles and revolvers? You stated that the gun might be injured. Please explain in what manner. Does it injure the rifling or the automatic action?

Ans. All shotguns, rifles and revolvers should be cleaned from the breech where possible. Of course if it is not possible to clean from the breech, you clean from the muzzle, but be careful when cleaning from the muzzle that the rod does not rub against the bore, as in time the bore will be enlarged slightly and the accuracy will fall off somewhat. There is also always a possibility of the rod slipping in the shooter's hand and denting or marring the muzzle. All the automatic pistols can of course be cleaned from the breech as they are easily taken apart. All solid frame revolvers must be cleaned from the muzzle, however, all modern shotguns and rifles can of course be cleaned from the breech. When I say "cleaned from the breech," I mean that when the cleaning rod is used it should be inserted at the breech, pushed forward to the muzzle and pulled back again.

1. Would the 22 Hi-Power Savage rifle be powerful enough for moose or bear as found in Nova Scotia?
Ans. It is not to be recommended such large game.
2. Will firing the 22 long rifle cartridge with the auxiliary chamber and barrel?
Ans. I do not think you will have much trouble of this kind.
3. What would be the range and accuracy of the 22 long rifle cartridge as used in this way?
Ans. It would probably not be very accurate at over 15 to 25 yds.
4. Would you advise reloading with reduced loads and lead bullets for short range in preference to the 22 long rifle cartridges?
Ans. Reloading using reduced loads and gas checked bullets will give more accurate results. Of course it is considerably more trouble.
H. A. L., Evansville, Ind.
1. If using a standard 22 calibre repeating rifle chambered to take 22 short, long and long rifle cartridges, would it be best to shoot the long rifle?
Ans. By all means use the 22 long rifle cartridge.
2. Has the 22 long rifle a greater range than the 22 long?
Ans. The 22 long rifle has a give me full particulars concerning this rifle and the price?

Ans. The present rifle of the United States Government is the Government Springfield rifle, Model 1903 chambered for the Model 1906 cartridge. The cartridge is .30 calibre. These rifles can be purchased by individuals only through the National Rifle Association. The price of the rifle alone, bought in this way is $12.25.
W. L. W., Groville, Ill.
1. Take an ordinary full choke shotgun. Does the shooting of B B or buckshot injure the barrel?
Ans. The standard factory loaded buckshot or B B shot load may be used in a full choke shotgun without injury.
2. What is the speed of the shot from such a gun, using smokeless powder?
Ans. The velocity is just under 900 ft. per second.
3. What is the usual speed of flight of wild geese, wild duck and quail?
Ans. The average goose flies at 150 ft. per second. Ducks vary according to species, the slowest being the Spoon Bill, which averages about 70 ft. per second and the fastest, the Blue Winged Teal, which flies 150 ft. per second. These are the figures as quoted from Mr. Charles Askins in his book, "The American Shotgun."
H. E. G., Bridgeport, Conn.
I would highly appreciate any information you can send me regarding a shotgun having the name of "Moore & Son," stamped upon it. It is a 12 gauge double barrel. I am particularly interested in its original value and where made.
Ans. I do not seem to be able to locate any information regarding a gun made and stamped "Moore & Son." If you could give the makers' address, this might simplify matters.

Editorial Comment

A SERIOUS QUESTION

The annual civic election is drawing near at hand, and there is much speculation as to the composition of our next board of civic fathers. The annual cry for a temperance council is again being made, and a great agitation is being stirred up by the advocates of temperance to secure one. It is a matter of much speculation, judging from the opinions expressed by those who take the matter up in discussion, as to whether a strictly temperance ticket can be formed in Newcastle; if possible to do so, would the men who could be selected, allow themselves to be offered for nomination. We believe, however, that they would.

This temperance council question is beginning to be a hard one to solve. Good men have sat at the Council, giving of the best that was in them, to say nothing of the many hours they have taken from their business, and only to be held up to ridicule, and charged with being negligent in their duty towards the Scott Act. It has in the past been a difficult matter to get eight really capable men to offer for the sake of the town's business alone, but now that they realize this double burden is being made heavier at each election, it will be found much harder to induce men to run, for no matter how well they perform their duties as aldermen in the transaction of the town's affairs, they know what awaits them at the end of their term if liquor is still being sold.

A year ago the present council was being congratulated on the many improvements that were being made about town. Sidewalks were repaired, old roads built up, and in various other ways the men at the board were showing proof of their worth, and that they were working for the town's best interests.

With the Advocate's agitation last year for a general clean-up day, the matter was taken hold of by the Council, and it is said to their credit, that with the aid of our citizens who co-operated with them, the town as a whole, and the park in particular, never presented a better or a cleaner appearance than it did last summer. All this good work, however, seems now to be overlooked.

The question of Scott Act is just at this present time a most serious one for the Town of Newcastle. Just now when things seem favorable to this town making rapid strides towards becoming the most progressive town in northern New Brunswick, the question as to whether liquor will be allowed to be sold here, or whether it will be stamped out entirely, should be settled now and, if a possible thing to do, forever. Upon this question hinges the future of our town. It is for the people to answer: Do we want high license? Do we want local option? Or do we want Scott Act, and every bar in town nailed up solid?

There is only one way of answering this question—by a vote of the people—and the sooner that vote is taken the better for the future welfare of Newcastle. This question should not be allowed to stay the progress of our town, or rather it should not be answered in such a way as will prove an estimable blessing to the town and be the means of relieving the brake that is holding back our progress. If the Scott Act is to remain a law, enforce it. Let us have one thing or the other, for the sake of our town, as a town, and for the sake of morality above all things.

It seems only folly and unfair to condemn a council, or a police committee, because the Scott Act is not enforced here. They are placed there by the people, and naturally they have to perform their duties to the satisfaction of the people. If the majority of the electorate are satisfied to have liquor sold in town, they are the ones to be censured, not the Council, (at the same time this paper does not uphold them for disrespecting their oath of office) and only by a vote by them will our temperance friends know whether they are on terra firma, or whether they are building their foundation for strict enforcement on a rock of sand.

Supply the birds with nesting boxes, and they will become annual visitors. The birds will well repay any attention given them.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

(St. John Standard)
Some years ago an agitation in St. John led to the adoption of Atlantic Standard Time instead of the local system which had formerly prevailed. The local time, based on actual sun reckoning, and in reality, the correct time, was thirty-six minutes faster than Eastern Standard, or railway time, and twenty-four minutes slower than the system now in use. The adoption of Atlantic Standard resulted consequently in the gain of twenty-four minutes of daylight in each day, and it may be remembered that in the first summer following its adoption the benefit from the change was quite noticeable.

Those who were interested in the time controversy of that day may now be interested to learn that William Willett, who first introduced the Daylight Saving Bill in the British Parliament, has recently passed away. The Toronto Mail and Empire makes of his death an occasion to review the effect of his activities and the results which followed the adoption of his example by Canadian towns. The Mail and Empire says:

"The death of William Willett, the foremost champion of Britain of the daylight-saving movement, and the father of the Daylight-saving Bill in the British Parliament, is a reminder that some Canadian communities have profited considerably by adopting the scheme. Mr. Willett was a builder, and an untiring advocate of construction that would admit plenty of sunlight to all buildings, particularly those where many people congregated. The bill which he had brought before the House of Commons for daylight saving proposed to advance all clocks in the United Kingdom twenty minutes each on four successive Sundays in April, and reverse the process in the four Sundays in September. Between April and September the time would be therefore an hour and a quarter ahead of standard. Though it was supported by many public bodies throughout Britain, the bill was referred to a special committee, and did not reach the third reading.

"It is worth noting that one of the reasons advanced in support of the bill, that it would lead to a saving in artificial light, has been demonstrated to be sound in a Canadian city. Last Summer Regina put on the clock an hour in early Summer, and returned to standard in the Autumn. Not long ago the city lighting authorities reported that a saving of $20,000 in the cost of light had been effected by the people. This is the only direct statement of economic saving from the scheme yet announced in Canada. Other Western cities followed Regina's example last year, and in Saskatchewan the movement went far enough to lead to a proposal that the Legislature should make the daylight-saving scheme obligatory on all communities. That was too drastic, however, and the municipalities still have the matter at their own option. In Eastern Canada spasmodic attempts have been made to get the scheme into operation. Orilla having tried it a couple of years ago with poor results, but nowhere has there been as much success for it as in the Western Provinces with their long, bright days. To few Canadians, perhaps, is the name of Willett known, but his death a few days ago merits a little of their thought."

The Advocate referred to the daylight saving question in last week's issue.

WHAT TOWN PLANNING IS

Town or city planning is application of scientific principles to all matters connected with the town or city. The town as distinguished from the country is not necessarily unhealthy but method of growth or lack of method may and does lead to unhealthy conditions.

The first elements in the town plan are (1) the protection and extension of the business interests of the city and (2) the provision of healthy living conditions for the citizens. Both are complementary and equally important. The efficiency of the human factor in (1) is secured by (2). Growing out of these two essential elements in a healthy city are:

(a) Education (Schools, Universities, etc.)
(b) Recreation (Parks, Playgrounds, etc.)
(c) Transportation (Roads, Railways, etc.)
(d) Markets and Food Supply.
(e) Civic Centres (Town Halls, Museums, Church, etc.)—Conservation.

BEAVER FLOUR
"Yes, Ma'am! You can depend on BEAVER FLOUR"

"ONE reason why so many of my customers use Beaver Flour, is because they know it is always the same. It never varies in strength or quality—and they know Beaver Flour will make the best Bread and Pastry everytime."

"Being a blended flour, they find it equally good for Bread and Biscuits, Cakes and Pies."

"Yes, Ma'am! I'll send you a sack right away!"

SHOP IN YOUR OWN CITY FIRST

This "Made in Canada" movement can be brought a little nearer home to each individual by emphasizing this suggestion: "Patronize the stores of your home town." Each man is entitled to spend his own money where it will buy the most—whether it be in Rome or A.D.—

But in fairness—Is it not wisdom before purchasing elsewhere to see what the stores of our own town have to offer? The prosperity of each of us is tied up with the prosperity of his neighbor.

Acquaint yourself with what the stores of your own town are offering by reading the advertisements in The Union Advocate.

KAISER'S DAUGHTER GIVES BIRTH TO A SON
London, March 25—The Duchess of Brunswick, formerly Princess Victoria Louise, daughter of Emperor William, gave birth to a son this afternoon, according to a despatch from Brunswick, received by Reuters' Telegram Company by way of Amsterdam.

The marriage of Prince Ernest August of Cumberland and Princess Victoria Louise took place at Berlin on May 24, 1913. Their first son was born March 18, of last year.

Will clean-up day become an annual event in Newcastle? Preparations should begin now.

TEA MARKET STILL ADVANCING

Nothing definite can be ascertained with regard to a probable advance in package teas in Canada. But it seems to be common sense to suppose that tea men can't go on importing at high and yet higher prices every week without making some changes in their selling schedule to cover. There is a thing to do but follow Mr. Asquith's advice and "wait and see." Meanwhile taking note of the handwriting on the wall—Canadian Grocer, March 19th.
